CONFERENCE HELD ON SHIP

Jamarul Kiram II Wanted No Filipinos Present—Motor Trip and "Tour House" Tea.

ABOARD S. S. MINDORO, Aug. 29.—The Carmi A. Thompson party landed yesterday at Jolo, the chief island of the Sulu Archipelago, and the seat of Jamarul Kiram II, Sultan of Sulu, spiritual overlord of 200,000 Moros and descendant of Sultans who ruled this corner of the world for the glory of Mohammed for five centuries before the Americans came.

As the ship entered the harbor from the Sulu sea dozens of Moros in native vintas paddled and sailed out to greet the President's representative, beating Moro gongs, and thus producing a weird, irregular music, singing in a groaning tone, shouting welcome and holding aloft banners asking the United States to pass the Bacon bill to separate the Moros from the Filipinos and continue to rule over the Moros.

Women standing in the narrow boats performed a native dance with an undulating movement of the upper part of the body and with graceful gestures with the hands. With the welcomers were bancas containing naked boys diving into the clear green water over coral rocks for coins.

Christian Filipinos and Filipinista Moros mingled with Americanista Moros on the wharf carrying rival signs, and all without trouble.

Brought the Sultan Aboard.

Governor Carl Moore, an American and a Wood appointee, brought aboard the Sultan of Sulu, whose pongee suit, stiff white collar, bow tie, horn-rimmed spectacles and patent leather shoes contrasted with the bright, gay, neat attire of his barefooted followers. The only native touches in the Sultan's costume were his fez, which differed from the common fezes in being of royal purple and shaped like a crown, and his personal ornaments, Moro gold rings and coat buttons.

The Sultan is a middle-aged stout little man with light chocolate skin. He is more modern than most Moros. He does not file his teeth to a point. He does not rub them with a mixture of iron and lime, which makes the teeth of the older generation coal black. He does not chew betel nut, which makes the lips and gums an unnatural scarlet. He has a golden smile, like Jack Johnson, having plunged heavily on gold teeth. He has six in a row, top and bottom, on both sides of the mouth, his front teeth, in addition, being rimmed with gold.

The Sultan, however, has not abandoned the ancient customs and prerogatives regarding wives and slaves. The Koran says the Sultan may not have more than four wives at one time, but he has merely to say he's tired of one to divorce her. Americans of apparent reliability here say he has had a thousand wives, but he is childless, his heir being his younger brother. Whole families are said to exist in slavery under the Sultan and the Datus, always ready to perform service when they demand it.

Armed With an Automatic.

The Sultan carried a .45 automatic pistol strapped to his waist. He and a few Datus have special permission to carry firearms, a great privilege since the Americans made the Moros lay down their arms. The average Moro has no weapons except krises and daggers.

The Sultan is well-to-do, receiving $3,000 annually from the Philippine Government as well as a grant of 2,500 acres of land, where he lives in a palace, in consideration of his relinquishment of Sulu sovereignty to the United States, and about the same amount from the North Borneo Trading Company for rights in British North Borneo. He has no temporal power in the Philippines, but on his annual trips to Borneo to get his pension the British receive him as a ruler, with pomp and circumstance.

The Sultan's power here is exclusively spiritual. All Sulu Moros recognize it. High priests, Datus and common people knelt before him and humbly kissed his fingers wherever he and Colonel Thompson went.

Afraid to talk before the Filipinos, the Sultan insisted upon holding his conference with Colonel Thompson on board the boat, as well as his interview with the American correspondents. He denied reports in Filipino newspapers that he intended to present a Filipino independence petition to Colonel Thompson. The Sultan charged that Hadji Gulam, son of Senator Hadji Butu, a prominent Moro, appointed by Governor General Wood to represent the Moros in the Manila Legislature, had "betrayed the people here" by accepting money from Senator Quezon to get the signatures of ignorant Moros to an independence petition. He said Quezon came to Jolo three years ago and invited him to accompany the Philippines independence delegation to Washington. He refused to go, although he said "It has long been my desire to see the President of the United States," because he was afraid

Cost of Living Reduced 3.4% Since November, 1925

The cost of living in the United States has decreased eight-tenths of one per cent. from June to July, according to a monthly study of living costs made by the National Industrial Conference Board at 247 Park Avenue.

The survey shows a constant decline since November, 1925, and gives lower retail food prices as the reason. The decline in the cost of living, according to the board's figures, has been 3.4 per cent. since November, 1925. The study shows that wholesale prices are lower everywhere except in France, Italy, Belgium and Poland.

GERMAN ROYALISTS HOLD GREAT PARADE

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

NUREMBERG, Aug. 29.—For three hours today a solid phalanx of members of nationalistic organizations, most of them veterans of the World War, goose-stepped past a group of German Imperial Princes and Generals assembled in the market place of this historic city.

In the reviewing stand was the former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria. Wearing the uniform and wielding the baton of a Field Marshal of the German Empire, he saluted and beamed his satisfaction. Behind him stood Prince Oscar of Prussia, representing the Hohenzollern dynasty; Field Marshal Mackensen, envoy of the ex-Kaiser; Admiral Scheer, head of the United Fatherland Societies, and a score of other Princes, Generals and noblemen, all in the full dress regimentals of the old régime.

While brass bands blared forth old military marches a quarter of a million spectators made the welken ring as rugged men in the uniforms of Imperial Germany bore the standards of her imperial wars through the winding streets of this picturesque Bavarian town. They were observing Honor Day for the German Army and Navy.

Mackensen Greets Aged Veterans.

Near the reviewing stand sat scores of veterans of the 1865 and 1870 wars. With these old-timers Field Marshal Mackensen exchanged greetings and reminiscences. Though himself 78 years old, the former Kaiser's emissary presented a fine figure of a soldier in a high fur shako, tight-fitting black and silver uniform, and death's head of the Hussars. He urged everyone with whom he spoke to be seated, but they as resolutely remained standing at salute.

At the head of the procession Bavarian State police escorted a dozen tattered regimental colors of the old Bavarian Army. Spectators literally paved their way with flowers, fourteen carloads of which arrived yesterday. War flags are in possession of the Republican Reichswehr, which had been forbidden to participate in today's ceremony owing to its monarchistic character.

In the parade there were no fewer than 6,000 flags and banners of various patriotic societies. Though the celebration recalled the old days of the monarchy and gave not the slightest hint that the nation has become a republic, the idea of its leaders was not a memorial for the past, but an inspiration for the future. This was the sentiment expressed in the short speeches made by Prince Rupprecht, Prince Oscar and Field Marshal Mackensen to many thousands gathered at the veterans' reunion.

"It is the duty of our soldiers to educate our youth in the sense of duty and sacrifice," Prince Rupprecht said. "If this duty is fulfilled there need be no anxiety about the future."

Prince Oscar brought the greetings of nis orothers, the former Imperial Crown Prince and Eitel Frederick, and urged that the new generation be taught loyalty to the Fatherland. Voicing the will of his "All Highest Master, his Imperial Majesty the Emperor," Field Marshal Mackensen declared that the spirit of the old army must be carried on by the new.

Thunderous Applause for Rupprecht.

SMITH WARNS UNION THAT IT MUST END GARMENT STRIKE

Governor Makes It Plain He Will Not Accept Refusal of Strikers to Arbitrate.

WILL ASK FURTHER PARLEYS

Should These Fail, He Says, He Will Expect Union Again to Consider Arbitration.

CITES SUFFERING IN TIE-UP

Height of Fall Season at Hand, He Points Out—Fears Prolonging of Walkout Will Hurt Industry.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 29.—Governor Smith, in a letter to the officers of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, given out today, made it plain that he would not accept the union's refusal to arbitrate its differences with the Industrial Council of the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Association and that he was determined that efforts must be made to terminate the strike of 40,000 cloakmakers, now in its eighth week.

Last Wednesday the Governor suggested to the union and to the Industrial Council, representing the inside manufacturers, that the points at issue which led to the strike be arbitrated. The following day the union replied with an attack on the jobbers, who were charged with evading their responsibility to the industry, and the Governor was told that the best service he could render was to bring about a series of conferences between the workers and the various factors in the industry. The manufacturers agreed to the Governor's arbitration proposal.

Plans More Conferences.

In his latest communication the Governor pointed out that usually it was the employers but now it was the union which hesitated to accept arbitration. He declared that the present strife, if prolonged, would lead to intense suffering and a breakdown of standards in the industry which have already been established. The Governor said he would, therefore, communicate with the various parties concerned asking them again to undertake conferences with the union and he would at the same time ask Raymond V. Ingersoll, the impartial Chairman of the industry, to renew officially the meetings which failed of practical result a week or two ago.

"Should this line of effort not prove to be successful I shall expect you to consider again the question of arbitration," said the Governor in conclusion.

The Governor's letter follows:

State of New York.
Executive Chamber,
Albany, Aug. 26, 1926.

International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, 3 West Sixteenth Street, and Joint Board, Cloak and Skirt Makers' Unions, 130 East Twenty-fifth Street, New York City.

Dear Sirs:

While I appreciate much that you say in your letter, I regret that you have not given a favorable reply to my proposal that your differences in the industries be submitted to immediate arbitration.

In urging this plan upon your leaders I had fully in mind the welfare of cloak and suit workers. I had also in mind the interests of city and State, which are injured by the existing disorders. The present strife promises, if greatly prolonged, to lead only to intense suffering and to the breaking down of such standards in the industry as have already been established. Whatever contracts individual firms may be coerced into signing, they are no substitute for the orderly procedure under collective agreements which it took the union so many years to accomplish.

Praises Commission's Work.

Two years ago it was largely at the request of the union that I appointed the commission, of which your letter speaks so favorably, to consider the many problems in your industry and to make recommendations to the parties involved. No commission ever worked more conscientiously or with greater ability and courage. Their first and second reports resulted in doing away with a number of abuses and in the adoption of several constructive measures advocated by the union. It is enough to mention the establishment of an

Farrington to Resign as Miners' Leader To Take $25,000 Office in Coal Company

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (AP).—After twenty years of work in behalf of union coal miners of Illinois and twelve years as their chief, with a present salary of $5,000 a year, Frank Farrington, President of District 12, United Mine Workers of America, has accepted an offer of $25,000 a year under a long-term contract from the Peabody Coal Company. This was revealed after a demand had been cabled to him in Paris to "come home to defend yourself or tender your resignation as President."

Mr. Farrington, who is touring Europe, was warned further that his contract with the Peabody company and a letter and telegram from him to Jack Peabody were in the hands of John L. Lewis, President of the International Miners' Union, and would be placed before the district board, which will meet tomorrow at Springfield, Ill.

Mr. Farrington is said to have replied that he reserved the right to change his employment at his convenience, and that he had done nothing to warrant the alternative demands made.

"A proper announcement will be made at the proper time," he cabled.

Mr. Farrington is quoted as saying that he had booked passage on the Majestic, sailing Sept. 29, and "intended to tender my resignation as soon as I arrived, in the first days of October."

"By accepting the executive position with the Peabody company, in which my duties will be chiefly concerned with relationship with the miners and their problems," he is reported to have added, "I firmly intend and expect to be able to continue my efforts to ameliorate the position of the workers and to promote a clearer understanding and good-will between the men and the owners."

FONCK ROW GROWS; FLIGHT THREATENED

Captain Berry, Rejected as a Pilot, Asserts He Will Ask Argonauts to Withdraw Aid.

ANGERED BY FONCK'S STAND

Called "Outsider," He Says He Fostered Trip—French Ace Denies Promise to Take Him.

Dissension in the transatlantic flight expedition headed by René Fonck, noted French aviator, flared up into an open break yesterday between the war ace and Captain Homer Berry, United States Army Air Service (Reserve), when Captain Fonck denied that he had promised to take Berry along on the flight as assistant pilot.

Angered at being called an "outsider" by Captain Fonck, Captain Berry retorted last night by saying that he had been instrumental in obtaining the necessary capital for the flight, and threatened "a fight to the last ditch." He added that he would take the matter up with the Argonauts, the financial backers of the venture, and would attempt to have them withdraw their support.

The disagreement between the two men, latent for some time, broke out openly yesterday morning when Captain Fonck read a newspaper statement by Captain Berry that he had received a promise to accompany the expedition as assistant pilot.

Denies He Made Promise.

"I never made any promise to Captain Berry," said Captain Fonck. "I did say that if more than two pilots would be taken Captain Berry might be selected, but I see no reason for taking more than two. The extra weight can be used to better advantage by carrying more gasoline.

"There will be only two pilots on this flight, Lieutenant Snody and myself," said Captain Fonck, looking squarely at Lieutenant Allan P. Snody, U. S. N., who was sitting by him. Lieutenant Snody was aid to Rear Admiral Moffett, Navy Air Chief, when he received a leave to participate in the New York-to-Paris flight. Captain Fonck emphatically asserted that he alone had authority to appoint his aids in the flight.

Once more he read the newspaper statement by Captain Berry and then exclaimed in French:

"He is trying to force my hand, to make me take him along. Perhaps at the end of next week I will announce the names of the men of my crew—a radio operator and a mechanic—but we will not take Berry, Lieutenant Snody and I will be the only pilots."

Lieutenant Snody said Captain Berry's attitude was prompted by an understandable feeling of disappointment, but that his relation to the flight was that of an outsider. Speaking in French, which was then translated by an interpreter, Captain Fonck reiterated the Lieutenant's views. "About 200 pilots in America and as many in France have asked permission to go, and among these is Captain Berry," he said. "The fact that any person has secured the newspapers to use his name will not force me to take him along."

Says Flight Will Succeed.

"Will this disagreement affect the success of the flight in any way?" Captain Fonck was asked. Captain Fonck does not speak English and Lieutenant Snody replied:

"Not in the slightest. These attacks in the newspapers affect us as little as water rolling off the back of a duck. We are absolutely confident of success. When $105,000 has already been invested in a flight a little fuss like this cannot endanger our plans. So far as any dissension goes, Captain Fonck and I are in perfect harmony."

At this Captain Fonck, the dapper little flier who brought down 125 enemy planes during the war, nodded assent and smiled at his American companion.

Captain Berry was angry last night when he heard what Captain Fonck and Lieutenant Snody had said:

"So he calls me an outsider, does he? I will show him that he is badly mistaken," he exclaimed. "No Frenchman, no matter how many medals he has, can come over here and push me out of this flight.

"I made the flight possible. I had planned it and had approached the backers before any one ever dreamed of René Fonck taking part in it."

Captain Berry's Account.

Then Captain Berry told the story of how the flight was first proposed. He said that in the Winter of 1924 he and Colonel Harold E. Hartney, Vice President of the Argonauts, formulated the first plans for a transatlantic flight from New York to Paris, to be conducted entirely by Americans with American equipment and American capital. They first took up their proposal, he said, with the publisher of a New York newspaper, who expressed

EDERLE ORDERED TO REST

Doctor Keeps "Trudy" Abed All Day as Strain of Honors Tells —$25,000 Purse for Race.

Preparations were begun yesterday to accord Mrs. Clemington Corson, the second New York woman to swim the English Channel, the honor of a naval salute, perhaps participated in by warships going down the harbor to meet her. Plans for this were being pushed by officers and men of the Naval Militia on the training ship Illinois, in the Hudson River, where Mrs. Corson has been swimming instructor.

Meanwhile Gertrude Ederle had been ordered by her physician to remain in bed for the day in complete quiet to avoid the danger of a nervous breakdown. Last night, however, she had recovered sufficiently to leave the family home in Amsterdam Avenue and take an automobile ride with a friend.

While she was recuperating plans were being shaped rapidly for a swimming contest around Manhattan Island to establish the disputed question as to whether Miss Ederle, who swam the Channel with two tugs following, or Mrs. Clemington Corson, who swam it with only a motorboat and a rowboat to accompany her, is the premier distance swimmer. At the same time plans were being pushed by men of the navy to greet Mrs. Corson with battleships and big guns when she returns, if Secretary of the Navy Wilbur is willing. The swimmer's husband is a member of the navy, and Mrs. Corson is a favorite among the hundreds of sailors whom she has taught to swim.

Stage Seeks Mrs. Corson.

The popularity of women Channel swimmers, which was demonstrated by Miss Ederle, to rank with that of queens and princesses, presidents and kings, is now acknowledge by theatrical managers. Contract offers to Mrs. Corson aggregate more than $200,000 in the first twenty-four hours as against $1,000,000 for Miss Ederle since her Channel success. Arch Selwyn, theatrical producer, will personally manage the affairs of Mrs. Corson.

The chances for Miss Ederle to swim against Mrs. Corson became greater yesterday, when Mrs. Corson's financial backer, T. Walter Lissberger, tire manufacturer, turned over to Mr. Selwyn the work of arranging the contest. That Miss Ederle would seriously consider a proposal to race against Mrs. Corson if she received a bona fide offer was the assurance on Saturday of Miss Ederle's attorney and manager, Dudley Field Malone.

"I will write Mr. Malone tomorrow," said Mr. Selwyn at his home at Norwalk, Conn., last night, "to invite Miss Ederle to swim against Mrs. Corson and others around Manhattan Island for a purse of $25,000. I shall advise him that Mr. Lissberger has turned over to me the money for the purse. Mr. Malone has seemed to be very insistent upon getting an offer in writing, and he shall have it."

Men May Compete.

Mr. Selwyn said that the decision to offer a purse rather than to issue a challenge was reached after due consideration of the importance of the race around Manhattan Island, a distance of forty-two miles, which Mrs. Corson covered in 1921 in sixteen hours. The contest will be open to other swimmers besides Miss Ederle, and men swimmers may compete if they wish.

According to Mr. Selwyn, the contest will be held probably before the end of September, because if it were held later the water would be too cold. In the next thirty days all swimmers would have sufficient time to train for the contest, he said.

"Within the last twenty-four hours, Mrs. Corson has received offers aggregating more than $200,000," Mr. Selwyn said. "One of them has come from the Sesquicentennial, and she is going to accept it. I understand that Miss Ederle turned down an offer from the Sesquicentennial. I have engagements to meet fifteen people who will make offers of contracts tomorrow.

"I cabled Mrs. Corson yesterday to ask her if she would be willing to enter the Catalina Island contest in January, for which William Wrigley Jr. has offered a purse of $25,000. I received a return cable saying in effect:

"'I will swim for the Catalina Island purse or in any other contest that you arrange.'"

Mrs. Corson has sent to her financial backer several cables of greeting. In one of her messages thanking Mr. Lissberger for his assistance, Mrs. Corson said "sore but happy."

Leaders, Displeased by Move for Dry Plank, Start Drive to End Boom for Governorship.

THE CAMPAIGN IS TWOFOLD

MILLS LOOMS AS CANDIDATE

Likely to Run if He Gets Promise of Backing for Senator in 1928—He Sees the President.

An under-cover campaign against Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey, just now the leading contender for the Republican nomination for Governor, is in progress and is likely to continue until the Republican State Convention here on Sept. 27, it was learned yesterday. This campaign will have two objectives, one to convince the party leaders and majority of the delegates to the convention that the nomination of Justice Cropsey is not advisable and the other to cause Justice Cropsey to believe that the opposition to him is so strong that he probably would not be elected, if nominated, in the hope that he will withdraw from the race.

The progress of the Cropsey boom has been decidedly displeasing to most of the New York City Republican leaders, even those in Brooklyn, who are having difficulty in coming out in open opposition to a candidate from their own borough. His insistence upon the inclusion of a prohibition State enforcement plank in the party platform, if he is to be nominated, has put most of the local leaders secretly against him, for their one hope of holding down the Democratic majority here and electing local candidates has been the candidacy of United States Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr., a wet.

Ottinger and Mills Favored.

The Manhattan and Bronx Republicans are content to remain quiet for the present. The Manhattan organization has an active aspirant in Attorney General Albert Ottinger and possibly a reserve candidate in Representative Ogden L. Mills. Mr. Mills has said he is not a candidate. It is known that he does not want to run for Governor this year but does wish to be a candidate for Senator in 1928. Many of his friends have advised him not to run for Governor, but it is believed that he would accept the nomination if the party leaders who are opposed to running a dry for Governor and a wet for Senator should have their way and bring about his selection by the convention.

In Brooklyn there is a great deal of opposition to the nomination of Justice Cropsey in the party organization. Jacob A. Livingston, the county leader, is understood to be for him, but it was said to be certain that a majority of the Brooklyn delegates would be against him, unless subjected to pressure. F. J. H. Kracke, Surveyor of the Port, is backing State Treasurer Lewis H. Pounds for the nomination, and an attempt may be made to divide the Brooklyn vote in that way. William M. Calder, former United States Senator, is another Brooklynite who does not favor Justice Cropsey's nomination. Mr. Calder is understood to want the Republican nomination for Senator in 1928 so that he may run again for the office from which he was ousted by the election of Senator Royal S. Copeland.

So far, practically all the demand for the nomination of Justice Cropsey has come from dry up-State districts. In some of the up-State counties the leaders have been rather insistent upon it because of their belief that a dry candidate for Governor would help their local candidates, even to the extent of indicating a willingness to sacrifice the chance of the re-election of Senator Wadsworth.

Wadsworth Not Pleased.

It is known that the talk of running Justice Cropsey for Governor with a State prohibition enforcement law platform plank has been displeasing to Senator Wadsworth, who would be compelled by the adoption of such a program to fight for re-election alone. This recently was called to the attention of a prominent up-State Republican leader, who said:

"I don't care what Senator Wadsworth thinks about it. He is lucky that we are going to renominate him."

It is quite likely that Senator Wadsworth's aid will be sought by those opposed to Justice Cropsey's nomination. In any event an effort will be made to prevent agreement upon his nomination by the party leaders before the convention.

Mercury Goes to 90 Here; Relief Promised for Today

The burst of hot weather yesterday, unrelieved by any appreciable breeze most of the day, sent a huge outpouring of people to the beaches from sweltering apartments and tenements.

The highest temperature of the day was 90 degrees at 5 P. M., but the stillness of the air made it seem much hotter in the city streets. The mercury hung at that level for several hours, and then slowly receded at nightfall.

The forecast for today is cooler.

TAKEN TO STATION HOUSE

Disputes over finances and evangelistic methods have resulted in stopping the work of Mrs. Hattie Crawford of Los Angeles, who has been conducting meetings for the last two weeks in a big tent in Jamaica Avenue, Flushing. Mrs. Crawford is in seclusion, under parole to a police lieutenant, pending the hearing of an injunction suit against her.

The Rev. Mr. Sutton of Newark took Mrs. Crawford's place yesterday and preached at morning and evening services in the tent, while her son-in-law and helper paced up and down the sidewalk opposite.

The climax of the difficulties between Mrs. Crawford and leaders of the local Committee of Arrangements occurred in the midst of the services Saturday night. Mrs. Crawford was preaching to several hundred persons when a Flushing police sergeant arrived on the authority of a restraining order which had been issued earlier in the day by Justice Burt J. Humphrey in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, to W. H. Coad of 186 State Street, Flushing, a real estate man. The writ had been granted on Mr. Coad's declaration that Mrs. Crawford was occupying the premises and conducting the meetings without the authority of the committee in charge. It was served on Mrs. Crawford on Saturday afternoon, but she announced that she would preach Saturday night in spite of the order.

Service Stops Suddenly.

Mrs. Crawford was delivering her sermon when the police sergeant and Mr. Coad arrived. The services were stopped, and Mrs. Crawford and the sergeant discussed the situation. Finally she agreed to accompany the sergeant to the police station. As the little party started away, the audience got out and followed—some of them favorable to her, others sympathizing with the position of Mr. Coad. The procession grew as it proceeded, and several hundred persons passed through the business centre of Flushing, where scores more joined to learn what was happening.

Lieutenant Finn was at the desk in the Flushing station when Mrs. Crawford arrived. Mrs. Crawford continued defiant.

"I will not abide by this writ and I will hold the meetings," she insisted.

The Lieutenant explained that disobedience meant jail, but she remained firm in her attitude. Since there are no quarters for women prisoners in the Flushing jail, the Lieutenant prepared to send her to the Queens County jail in Long Island City.

The patrol wagon was brought out and Mrs. Crawford walked to it. She mounted the step and stood there a minute addressing the crowd.

Some one started singing, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." Other voices took it up and the hymn swelled into a loud chorus. Meanwhile Lieutenant Finn got in touch with Justice Humphrey by telephone. The Justice sent word that if Mrs. Crawford would consent to discontinue the meetings until after the hearing on the injunction application, which is set for next Thursday, she could be paroled in the custody of the Police Lieutenant. The compromise suggestion was carried out to Mrs. Crawford, and after a discussion with members of her party she agreed to it.

Mrs. Crawford Silent.

Leaders of the two factions were reticent as to what had caused the difficulties. It was said, however, that

BAKER URGES ALLIES AND UNITED STATES TO ERASE WAR DEBTS

ATTACKS AMERICAN STAND

Asserts We Should Reconsider British Settlement and French Terms.

WOULD EASE GERMAN LOAD

Declares Public Has Been Shackled as Lloyd George and Clemenceau Were at Versailles.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—An international conference in which the United States would participate in the reconsideration of all questions pertaining to interallied debts, including the British settlement and America's terms to France, was proposed in a statement made public today by Newton D. Baker, war-time Secretary of War in the Cabinet of Woodrow Wilson.

Declaring the United States cannot "sow seeds of international distrust, ill-will and selfishness" and expect a "harvest of friendship and eager trade," Mr. Baker came out frankly and unequivocally for a mutual cancellation of these debts and expressed the conviction that the American policy should be one of cancellation.

"Personally," said Mr. Baker, "I believe that a cancellation policy will be wise. Such a policy ought to relieve England, France, Italy, Belgium and the rest of our war allies and in turn ought to require the release of some part of the burden imposed upon Germany."

Should Be Done at Round Table.

This ought to be done, said the former War Secretary, who was in a position in the Wilson Administration to obtain an intimate personal knowledge of many facts involved in the debt situation, "at a round table," where a representative of the United States "should be authorized to speak with authority and to demonstrate to the rest of the world that America's interest is not in dollars but in a reconstructed international order with as much as possible of the grief of the World War swept into oblivion" and the great industrial nations of the world freed to "start afresh with harmony and good-will in fair economic competition."

Mr. Baker's statement is certain to attract international attention, not only because of his confidential relation with President Wilson, but as the judgment of a man now outside of politics yet with a background of understanding calculated to give weight to his words.

Mr. Baker is the first Cabinet official of any prominence in any Administration since the entry of the United States into the World War to declare outright for the cancellation of debts to America on the basis of mutuality of action by all the allied powers respecting interallied obligations growing out of that conflict.

Numerous suggestions for the very course urged by Mr. Baker have, since the Armistice, been made by responsible allied statesmen, only to be repelled by equally responsible officials of the American Government. The statement of Mr. Baker, therefore, is expected not only again to focus the minds of European statesmen on cancellation, but to lend some impetus to the sentiment held in influential American business and financial quarters in favor of reconsideration of the debt question with a view to cancellation.

Says Public Is Misinformed.

Mr. Baker contends that the public generally has been misinformed as to the character of the interallied debts and the nature of the economic consequences of the settlements the United States has made with Great Britain, France and other powers.

He asserts that Lloyd George and Clemenceau were both "shackled" at Versailles by the promises they had made to their people to make a defeated Germany pay the whole cost of the war, and that after witnessing a "fallacious and disastrous method of dealing with our defeated enemies the United States had proceeded to apply the same method to her allies."

American politicians, he declares, began by making faces at European nations, and a state of public mind was created in which we were "shackled as Lloyd George and M. Clemenceau were at Versailles by our own unwise and unsound propaganda."

The Dawes plan, Mr. Baker maintains, was an effort made by Americans "with the entire but covert approval of our Government" to render Germany's burden certain and bearable upon a fresh attempt to estimate Germany's capacity to pay. The German public authorities, he asserts, are beginning to announce that they will be unable to meet the Dawes plan payments and "the expectations of those nations to which the payments were to be made are fading," the consequence of which is "a long and tragic story of which no man can yet foresee the end."

Calls British Settlement Disaster.

The former Secretary of War calls the settlement with the British, "instead of being a magnificent achievement" a "magnificent disaster, setting a precedent impossible to follow with regard to our other debtors," and that "even where we have canceled a substantial part of a nation's debt we have done it not graciously and broadmindedly in the interest of world rehabilitation but contemptuously."

Already there are springing up in the world, he declares, "economic unions and alliances" against the United States which "are vastly more important and significant than the

Third Earthquake This Year Jars New England Residents in Maine Towns Rush From Homes

BOSTON, Aug. 29 (AP).—Another earthquake, the third this year and the twelfth within two years, has jarred New England. This time it was felt in a belt running through Western Maine toward Canada. As in most previous earthquakes in New England, the tremors apparently were not severe enough to cause any damage to property or life.

Reports indicated that the shock was felt simultaneously in Oxford, Franklin and Somerset Counties and in the northern part of Androscoggin at about 4 P. M. yesterday.

No reports have been received to indicate that the tremors were felt in New Hampshire, which borders Maine on the west. Whether or not the shock was felt across the Canadian border in Quebec is not known.

In the Rangely Lake region boats were reported to have been rocked on the surface of the water. In Oxford and Franklin Counties, where the tremors seemed to be strongest, the quaking was preceded by prolonged, distant rumbling. The duration of the tremors varied from a few moments to three minutes. In some towns residents fled from their homes.

Earth tremors have been felt in New England from time to time, but in recent years were few and far between until the Autumn of 1924, when there was a series that apparently reached a maximum in frequency in 1925. The most severe occurred on Feb. 28 of that year. It was felt over a million square miles in Northeastern United States and Canada and was classed by the Department of the Interior as "one of the great shocks that have affected North America."

This earthquake swayed church steeples until the bells rang, shook buildings and broke wires. It was said by Government geologists to have been caused by the slow return of rockbeds to a position occupied before they were depressed by glaciers.

Irving Berlins Back After Long Stay Abroad; She Stops With Friend, He Goes to His Home

Irving Berlin, song writer, and his wife, the former Ellin Mackay, who were married on Jan. 4 in the Marriage License Bureau and who departed shortly afterward for Europe, returned to the city last night on a New York Central train that reached the Grand Central Station at 11:30 o'clock.

No one except a group of reporters was there to greet them. Escorted by special policemen the couple hurried to a taxicab. Through the window of the taxicab, Mr. Berlin, who had at first refused to make any statement, said in reply to questions that he and his wife had had a "very good time," that they were going to his home at 29 West Forty-sixth Street, and that he was going "to stay home for the rest of the Summer and work."

The taxicab departed hastily and at about 12:40 o'clock this morning Mr. Berlin arrived in front of his home with policemen, who protected him from photographers. He explained that his wife had stopped at the home of a friend and also took occasion to deny a report that another marriage ceremony, this time in St. Patrick's Cathedral, was planned. Despite his previous assertion he also said he did not expect to continue living at the Forty-sixth Street home.

When the song writer attempted to open the front door of his apartment he discovered that he did not have the right key. The bells of several other tenants were rung before one, a friend, opened the door for him.

The couple left Alexandria Bay, N. Y., yesterday morning. They had been stopping there at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Max Winslow for a week after their arrival in Quebec on a Canadian Pacific liner. They motored to Syracuse, where they boarded the train, emotional outbursts of street crowds in Paris against American tourists." The American debt settlement, as made with England and the other allied powers, have "angered and burdened to the point of despair all the nations that owe us money."

Mr. Baker's views are set forth in a signed statement for the current number of "Trade Winds," the monthly business publication of the Union Trust Company of Cleveland, advance proofs of which were received by newspaper correspondents and others in Washington today.

MR. BAKER'S STATEMENT.

The full text of Mr. Baker's statement follows:

Much of the discussion of the so-called debt setlements between the United States and the European countries with which we were associated in the war has been neither frank nor intelligent. The public generally have been misinformed as to the character of the debts and as to the character and economic consequences of the settlements.

Just how all this came about it is not difficult to see. At the Versailles conference Lloyd George and M. Clemenceau were both shackled by promises they had made to their people to make a defeated Germany pay the whole cost of the war.

When these costs were totaled they exceeded the entire value of all the real and personal property in Germany and it became evident that some formula would have to be adopted which would get by politically with people rendered desperate by their losses and inflamed with the impossible expectations in moments of political exigency.

Experts were thereupon asked to determine how much Germany could possibly pay and the reparation payments provided by the treaty were left open at the maximum end so that whenever it was discoverd that Germany had developed an unexpected capacity to pay more it could be demanded of her.

The passionate emotions of the moment prevented clear thinking, though it ought to have been obvious even then that economic disorder and political insecurity were the necessary results of the attempt to impose so impossible a burden upon the Germans.

The Dawes plan was an effort made by Americans with the entire, but covert, approval of our Government to render Germany's burden certain and bearable, not so much out of any tenderness for Germany, but rather to prevent the political and economic disintegration of Europe, which has already threatened, and the consequences of which it was easy to see would be disastrous to us.

Sees German Refusal to Pay.

But the Dawes plan was made upon a fresh attempt to estimate Germany's capacity to pay. It did genuinely relieve some of the burden imposed by the Treaty of Versailles, but already the weight of the arrangements made by it are bearing Germany down. Unemployment in Germany has risen to 1,500,000 workers. The German public authorities are beginning to announce that they will be unable to meet the Dawes plan payments and the expectations of those nations to which the payments were to be made are fading.

The consequence of all this in Europe is a long and tragic story, of which no man can yet foresee the end, either to Germany or to the rest of the world.

Only one thing seems quite certain about it, and that is that the generation in Germany which did not cause the war will not mortgage itself and its children for two-thirds of a century on any such basis as was proposed either in the Treaty of Versailles or in the revised Dawes plan, and that if Germany could pay the reparations, or the Allies could pay us, the debtor would, in either case, swamp the creditor and prostrate its industry, since all such payments must be in products and cannot be in gold.

Having witnessed a fallacious and disastrous method of dealing with our defeated enemies, the United States has proceeded to apply the same methods to her allies.

The war being over and her army safely back on her own shores, it became the fashion to dispraise all foreigners. Our politicians began to make faces at European nations, to refer to them as a sad lot at best and to proclaim isolation from such grasping and unworthy associates as the only safety for America, until it became the common belief that every nation in Europe spent the major part of its time devising artifices and stratagems by which it could get something more out of us.

"Shackled by Unwise Propaganda."

This state of the public mind having been created we approached the problem of the settlement of interallied debts, shackled as Lloyd George and M. Clemenceau were at Versailles, by our own unwise and unsound propaganda.

Accordingly there was nothing for our debt settlers to do but try to get dollars for us and to point to the number of dollars they got as the proof and the measure of American ingenuity in protecting itself against European craft. Accordingly the same old process was resorted to.

Groups of economists and statisticians gravely studied as to each debtor country "its capacity to pay," and proposals for debt settlements seem to have been largely determined by amounts thought possible of collection without causing revolutions in the paying countries.

The first of these settlements was with the British, and instead of being a magnificent achievement it is a magnificent disaster. It set a precedent impossible to follow with regard to any other country, since none of our other debtors are even remotely able to settle on such terms.

We are obliged, therefore, to discriminate, and in order not to make the case against our treatment of England too awkward, we must appear hardhearted and exacting of everybody else. More than this, England is our friend.

Proud and powerful as we are, her policy and her friendship have protected us during the long years of our experiment in democracy from the day when her statesmen welcomed the birth of our independence in the halls of her Parliament through the establishment of the Monroe Doctrine and down to the time when, in Manila Bay, her battleships stood cleared for action between us and the German fleet which was ready to prevent Dewey's success.

Efforts to Weaken League.

We owe her nothing in dollars for this, but it is to our interest, as a civilized people, that England should be strong enough to continue the mission which has placed her as guardian on every savage frontier throughout the world and made her weight felt in the councils of nations for order and peace with justice in international affairs.

For this reason it was bad policy for us to permit England to assume the burden involved in our settlement, and the dollars she pays will be dearly bought if they prolong by a day the recovery of England and her colonies from the sacrifices they made in the World War.

One of the favorite arguments used to justify our exaction of full payments of these war debts has been the statement that the European nations are maintaining huge military establishments and that all the money we take from them is that much saved from competitive armament. This argument is wholly unsound, but even if it were sound we have no right to make it.

International security in Europe will be maintained either by force or by the moral equivalent of force. As the United States has declined to make any contribution to the moral equivalent it has no right to question the resort to force by others.

Not only have we remained absent from the councils of the League of Nations but we have done all we could to weaken its moral force by picturing it as a thing to be either feared or ridiculed.

In spite of the ardent advocacy of Root, Taft, Hughes, Harding and Coolidge it has taken us seven years to make an ungracious gesture toward adhesion to the World Court, yet the World Court is an American idea advocated by our Secretaries of State for thirty years, and its organization was actually devised by Elihu Root as a brilliant American contribution to a world problem.

Unsympathetic to Locarno.

The Locarno Treaties, which constituted the greatest advance toward the substitution of moral equivalents for force made in 100 years, were rejected because America was unsympathetic, if not hostile. With this record we are hardly in a position to criticize European countries for spending money to protect themselves against aggression.

The character of the interallied debts is simple. Attempts to divide them up into pre-armistice and post-armistice loans, to separate out amounts which were spent in this country or elsewhere, or to divide them into classes based on the things purchased, as for instance, arms for soldiers on the one hand and food for the civil population or money for the maintenance of credit on the other, are worse than useless. They merely befuddle an otherwise plain situation. The fact is that not a penny of this money would have been lent by us or have been borrowed by any of our debtor nations but for the war.

Their need for it arose out of the contributions and sacrifices made by them in the war and our willingness to supply it arose out of our belief that it was necessary, to our own interest, to sustain their military efficiency until the armistice, and their economic stability after the armistice, in order to prevent a collapse which would have cost us vastly more than the money which we supplied.

The war began in 1914. We entered it April 6, 1917. When we entered it the condition in Europe was a military stalemate, a political draw and an economic crisis of unparalleled proportions.

Our Investments Overseas.

In July, 1918, a year and four months after we entered the war, our troops began to take an effective military part in the struggle. During that period the British, French, Italians and Belgians, wasted and devastated by the struggle from 1914, continued to hold the lines while we drilled and got ready behind them. Much of the money we supplied was for the purpose of making that possible. It took the place of our army which was not ready.

So far as the actual expenditures by our debtors are concerned each one spent more than it borrowed from us in purely military operations and it is trifling to inquire whether those expenditures were the particular dollars which they borrowed from us or some other dollars, out of their treasuries, which ours replaced.

Nor is it very important to inquire whether at the time of the making of these so-called loans there was an expectation that they should be repaid. The question is not what did somebody think in 1917, but what is it wise to think now?

In the modern world industrial nations are so integrated by mutual investment and by trade relations that political isolation is an illusion. The overseas investments of the people of the United States now aggregate perhaps $11,000,000,000 and we are investing annually overseas at the rate of $1,000,000,000 a year. As this goes on our interest in world peace becomes more and more insistent.

Where our treasure is there our hearts will be also. We can maintain the form of political isolation, but the fact is that we are daily becoming not merely entangled, but interwoven economically into the world fabric.

Depend on Foreign Outlet.

Our enormous wealth demands this avenue of opportunity. Our industries must have access to the raw materials of the world. Our producers must have a world market and these necessities are of reciprocal advantage to us and the rest of the world.

There was a time when America struggled toward a position in which it would be able to supply its home market. It has now so developed its agricultural and industrial output that it must have a foreign market. In 1914, our imports were about $3,000,000,000, our exports something over $7,000,000,000.

In 1924 our imports were $3,500,000,000 and our exports had fallen to $4,500,000,000.

Two items in these figures illustrate the situation. In 1924, we exported $250,000,000 worth of grain and imported about $30,000,000 worth. In the same year we exported $1,000,000,000 worth of cotton and cotton goods and imported about $150,000,000 worth.

It is a fundamental economic principle that where there is a surplus production the price of that surplus determines the price for the entire product. Europe today is and long has been our best customer, consuming of our total exports more than double the amount of any other continent.

In a very real sense, therefore, European buying in the world markets is a decisive factor in maintaining the price of our entire home product. Any table which analyzes and compares our exports and imports will show that every industry in America, including agriculture, depends for its prosperity upon an overseas outlet for our surplus and, of course, an overseas outlet depends upon there being people who not only want our goods, but also have money to pay for them which we can afford to take.

Market Hangs on Good Will.

The argument is, therefore, irresistible not only that America has an interest in general rehabilitation and the maintenance of world peace, but that our own continued prosperity requires it. Moreover, the existence of such a world market must be predicated upon good will toward us. Such advantage as may come to us by our superior productive capacity and ingenuity other nations will cheerfully see us get in open competition which they are free to enter, but it is not conceivable that the rest of the world will continue to trade with us during sixty-two years in which every one of them would have its own industries burdened by crushing taxes, which would be paid to us for a cause and in a form to them not greatly different from the tribute which Rome imposed upon her friends and enemies alike.

Already there are springing up in the world, economic unions and alliances against the United States which are vastly more important and significant than the emotional outbursts of street crowds in Paris against American tourists.

The wisest thing that has been said by any responsible American on the whole subject of interallied debts was said by Mr. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, when he appeared before the Senate Committee in connection with the Italian debt settlement, to the effect that, "a prospercus Europe would be worth far more in dollars and cents to the United States than any possible returns from debts."

In his speech in Philadelphia on the 24th of March, Mr. Mellon was even more direct. He said:

"The farmer or the laboring man would rather have a market for our surplus in Europe than save a dollar of Federal taxes. And a business man would prefer making $100 in his business to being repaid $5 of a debt."

This is all so obvious that one wonders why it ends in words until we recall the fog that has been raised to becloud straight thinking on this subject, and then we realize the truth of the remark made by Anne of Austria.

"God does not always pay at the end of the week, but He always pays."

Debtors at Point of Despair.

We cannot sow the seeds of international distrust, ill-will and selfishness and expect a harvest of friendship and eager trade.

Meantime the debt settlements as made and proposed have angered and burdened to the point of despair all the nations that owe us money. Even where we have canceled a substantial part of a nation's debt we have done it not graciously and broadmindedly in the interest of world rehabilitation but contemptuously; not because we were generous, but because our calculations showed that we were going to the limit of the debtor's capacity to pay.

In each case the principle has been to see how much treading the worm will stand before it turns. More than that, there appears, at least in certain quarters, a concerted effort, once the debt arrangements have been completed, to place every obstacle in the way of the debtor's ability to pay.

As already stated, these debts can be paid only in goods or the proceeds from the sale of goods, and yet, to cite only one outstanding example, what a furor was raised over the fact that we have to look for our rubber supply to Britain's plantations.

If it be true, as Winston Churchill stated in his recent remarks referring to the Stevenson restriction legislation, that "one of the principal means of paying the debt to America is in the provision of rubber," has not the American consumer lost his sense of humor when he rails against Great Britain's "big returns" in the face of the fact that our own war-born monopolies in goods of every nature not only brought billions of profits to America at the expense of the entire world, but were the direct cause of adding hundreds of millions to the very debts whose payments we now demand?

Feared and Disliked Abroad.

That this attitude has not been the real purpose of either the Government or of the people of the United States is true, but, unfortunately, it is the color our acts have taken and the consequence is that returning travelers tell us that never in our history has the United States been so feared or disliked abroad.

At the same time here at home there is agricultural discontent and distrust and anxious scanning of skies to see whether we are industrially sound and can continue to maintain the American standard of living.

Every country in the world has had the experience of a vast and hopeless debtor class and has realized that every so often it is necessary to wipe off the slate and start afresh as in a scriptural year of jubilee. This releases the energies of men, restores hope, cures political disorder and gives life a fresh start. The analogy applies perfectly to the present international situation. The United States needs not dollars but a confident, prosperous and peaceful world as a field for its industrial and commercial operations.

That condition cannot be brought about so long as we continue to exact payments up to the capacity of the debtors to pay.

If the foregoing observations are sound, the United States is not justified either in morals or in a long view of its own best industrial and commercial interests in adhering to its present policies with regard to the settlement of the interallied debts.

The time has come when these questions, including the British settlement, ought to be reopened. Personally, I believe that a mutual cancellation policy will be wise. Such a policy ought to relieve England, France, Italy, Belgium and the rest of our war allies both as to their debts to us and their debts among themselves, and in turn ought to require the release of some part of the burdens imposed upon Germany.

This should be done at a roundtable, where a representative of the United States should be authorized to speak with authority and to demonstrate to the rest of the world that America's interest is not in dollars, but in a reconstructed international order, with as much as possible of the grief of the World War swept into oblivion, and the great industrial nations of the world freed to start afresh with harmony and goodwill, in fair economic competition and in at least enough political cooperation to preserve peace in the common interest.

MARINO IN COURT TODAY.

Gangster May Get Light Term for Killing for Which 2 Were Executed.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 29.—While Frankie Daley and David Demaio have been executed for their part in the murders of Jacob Schumacher and Raglan I. Nicoll, trolley company employes, in July, 1925, John M. Marino, the first man arrested for the crime, still remains in the County Jail at White Plains.

Marino has never been tried for the crime and it is expected he will get the privilege of pleading guilty to a lesser degree of manslaughter in return for his assistance to the police in solving the murder case when arraigned tomorrow.

The Harlem gangster, who is in poor health, furnished much of the evidence upon which Daley and Demaio were convicted. Also after his arrest he gave the police much information which directly led to the capture of the other men.

NEW DEBT LETTER PLANNED BY 'TIGER'

Clemenceau Says His First One Brought Tons of Approving Missives From All Lands.

HE POKES FUN AT BORAH

Expresses Doubt That French Parliament Will Ratify the Berenger-Mellon Agreement as It Stands.

SAINT VINCENT-SUR-JARD, Vendée, France, Aug. 29 (AP).—M. Clemenceau, France's war Premier, will likely write another open letter on the subject of debts, following up that addressed to President Coolidge on Aug. 8 last. This was announced semi-officially from the old "Tiger's" retreat in Vendee today.

M. Clemenceau took occasion to say he was quite pleased with the reaction to his Coolidge letter, poked a little fun at Senator Borah and divulged the reasons why he wrote the original letter—hitherto attributed to various and widely divergent motives.

The "Father of Victory" also expressed the opinion that ratification of the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement stood little chance in the French Parliament, and finally reiterated forcibly his decision to refrain from participation in active politics forever.

Still Has Something to Say.

"I may write another letter on debts; I still have something to say. I have not said it all. One must always keep the last cartridge in his belt."

Thus spoke M. Clemenceau to a party of friends, led by Emile Bure, managing editor of the newspaper Avenir, and formerly chief of the Tiger's Cabinet when the latter was Minister of the Interior and Premier, 1906-09. The interview is published by the Avenir, M. Bure quoting M. Clemenceau direct.

The announcement came in reply to M. Bure's query as to how the war Premier appreciated the reaction to his world-wide open letter to President Coolidge.

"Quite satisfied," replied M. Clemenceau, "I believe I did the right thing at the right moment. I have received tons of letters of approval from all the countries of the world, some signed by illustrious names, others by unknowns; many were not signed at all. There were letters from young and old, letters from women, letters from tradesmen, merchants, manufacturers, intellectuals, even from priests and clergymen, letters from all classes of society—except the parliamentarians of France—" the Tiger bit off under his breath.

"Many of these letters came from the United States. I especially treasure some from young Americans who enlisted in the French Foreign Legion and fought under our flag.

"I expected to receive a formidable raking over from Americans. Well, no—nothing like that. No, no," the Tiger thundered. Then his features relaxed and a quizzical smile lighted his rugged countenance as if he were greatly amused as he went on:

"And Borah. Oh, that man Borah! I have not yet got over it. Yet you read what he declares—'Cancellation of the debts.' Borah. Fierce Borah. Super-American Borah. No, really, I can't get over it."

(Senator Borah in his recent statement regarding his opinion of the open letter from Clemenceau, declared: "If they (the French) want to cancel their debts, let them include all debts and all reparations and show that benefit of the cancellation will go to humanity and to betterment of the masses of Europe, and not to the benefit of the imperialistic schemes which are now crushing the life out of people who were in no sense responsible for this war.")

How He Came to Write the Letter.

M. Clemenceau continued, now seriously once more:

"You see, I had retired. My life fast drawing to a close, I asked nothing but silence and solitude. Then suddenly I received a letter, an anonymous, troubling letter, which deeply moved me—'You will allow this thing to be consummated; you will carry with you in the tomb responsibility for having permitted this to be done.'

"Then I sat down and wrote my own letter. I left it open on my table for twenty-four hours. Finally I saw my duty and gave out the letter."

At this stage M. Clemenceau remarked that it was only his first letter, and that he might send another one, and went on:

"One American alone wrote me complaining of my comparison of their treaty (with Germany) with the Brest-Litovsk treaty between Germany and Russia.

"I did that on purpose," the Tiger said with a wink. "I knew that would get a rise out of them. That part of the letter was probably the one which shook them up most. But everything went all right. I do not believe that now ratification of the agreement can ever be possible as it stands."

"Never again will I re-enter active politics," the Tiger roared in reply to a suggestion that he might seek election as Senator for Vendée.

"Senator! Senator!" he exclaimed over and over again. "You have not looked at me quite right, Senator! So that I would be forced to enlist in a group and be guided by its policy, and perhaps be accused of political ambition in seeking the portfolio of the Ministry of Agriculture? No, nevermore. I am stronger now being nobody than I would be as Minister. And, after all, what is the use?"

MELLON IN GENEVA SEES LEAGUE OFFICIAL

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 29 (AP).—The discussion of the financial problems of Europe, which have taken on new vigor since Andrew W. Mellon, American Secretary of the Treasury, came to Europe, has even now reached out unofficially to embrace the League of Nations.

S. Parker Gilbert, Agent General for Reparations Payments, has consulted with Sir Arthur Salter, head of the financial section of the League, who directed the financial rehabilitation of both Austria and Hungary and played an important, though quiet, rôle in the elaboration of the German reparations plan.

Mr. Gilbert was accompanied by Secretary Mellon, who, however, remained outside. Later Sir Arthur accompanied Mr. Gilbert downstairs and was introduced to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Sir Arthur declined to discuss the details of the visit except to say there was a general talk on the financial situation.

It is understood that financiers who have recently been conferring with Secretary Mellon at Evian-les-Bains regard the French financial situation as the crux of the whole problem of sound restoration of European finance, with, however, Belgium and Poland in more immediate pressing difficulties and requiring attention. There is declared to be a tendency to consider France's eventual attitude toward ratification of the Berenger-Mellon accord as the key to amelioration of the general situation.

All expedients are being informally discussed by talks with Secretary Mellon and others, and it is reported in Geneva that one practical step under consideration is the feasibility of floating German reparation railway bonds in the public markets, thus capitalizing one form of reparations security.

GAMBLING RESORTS RAIDED.

Atlantic City Police Again Warn Proprietors on Boardwalk.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 29.—The lid was clamped down on the gambling establishments here again last night.

Acting under orders from Chief of Police Doran, the Vice Squad, headed by Detective George Brennan, raided all such places on the walk. No arrests were made, but the proprietors received final notice that unless they stayed shut they would get into trouble. The detectives turned off all the lights in the radio establishments, and boarded up the wheels at Jewel Park, where croupiers had been doing a land office business.

SULU'S SULTAN OPENS ARMS TO THOMPSON

By RUSSELL B. PORTER.

"We desire the Americans to stay in Sulu," he continued, "and would give not a thousand but a hundred thousand thanks if Congress would pass the Bacon bill taking us from among the Philippines, but if the Americans leave we wish them to leave the government of all the Moros in the hands of their natural ruler, myself alone. I am not afraid for myself, if we are given to the Filipinos, because I am strong enough to kill ten Filipinos, as is every Moro, but the Filipinos are many more than we. They have guns and I am afraid they would not be just to my people. The Filipinos are a very low class of people and we Moros will not submit to be ruled by them because for five hundred years we defended our independence against everybody, even the Spaniards, and could not be conquered until the American came."

"Sure, sure, sure," replied the Sultan.

"The Moros laugh at the Filipinos. They can't fight. They have no boats. The Spaniards had boats, but we fought them, and they never took our country."

The Sultan said he had always done his best to cooperate with the American Government, because he appreciated the fact that the Americans had done well to educate the ignorant Moros, teaching them to raise cocoanuts and hemp and make a living.

"I'll continue to support America," he added. "If my people don't submit, I'll order my soldiers to tell them."

Advised Against Independence.

The Sultan said he had told Senators Quezon and Osmeña they should not ask for independence because "they have no power, no boats, no cannon, no airplanes, and if independent could not defend themselves against the smallest nation, not to speak of a strong nation like Japan or Great Britain."

Jamarul Kiram II charged that the Filipinos and politicos were spreading propaganda among the Moros to the effect that the Americans wanted to take away from them the Mohammedan religion and that there would be no taxes if the Filipinos were independent.

Colonel Thompson motored through the island and was greeted by hundreds of Moro men, women and children, some Filipinos, mostly Government officials; Chinese merchants and a group of Japanese pearl fishers. The Moro leaders were barefooted and wore varicolored costumes, some with the breast bared. One, carrying an American flag on a bamboo pole, a gold-handled bolo and a big pistol with a six-inch cord and a red and blue tassel affixed, told the President's envoy that the Moros wanted the American Government not to desert them but to take care of them. The leaders insisted that the Moros be returned to the rule of their Sultan if the Americans left and said they would fight if turned over to the Filipinos.

"We do not want to be governed by any nation except the Americans," said one of the speakers. "When the American Army officers disarmed us they promised us they would always be our rulers. If the Americans give us to anybody else, let them give us back our arms."

"The Moros are happy and contented under American rule," another said. "We do not want independence until we learn how to build steamers, airplanes and cannon. You may cut off our heads, but we will never submit to be governed by the Filipinos. Although we are not drilled as soldiers, we are accustomed to hand-to-hand fighting and we will fight."

Hint of Political Trouble.

A slight disturbance at one meeting was caused by a drunken Moro who insisted on speaking. He was interrupted by Filipinos. Some of the Moros got angry and made threatening motions toward their bolos. The incident ended when Colonel Thompson said he would leave unless order were maintained. The drunken man must have been a poor Mohammedan, as the Koran prohibits the drinking of intoxicants. The Thompson party took tea at the Sultan's "tour house." There they saw native dances by Moros in bizarre costumes with long spears and bright-colored shields, representing their ancient method of fighting. At the finish a leading Datu presented a barong, or native sword, in a scabbard to Colonel Thompson, saying eloquently:

"The heart of the Moros lies within this shield. There will it lie so long as Americans rule this island, but when the Americans leave 2,000 barongs just like this will leap out in this village alone to defend our rights."

Alleges Promise by Pershing.

JOLO, P. I., Aug. 29 (AP).—The Sultan of Sulu today presented to Carmi A. Thompson a petition signed by himself and a number of Moro chiefs asking that the United States keep promises which General Pershing was alleged to have made when the Moros surrendered to him. The petition said that General Pershing agreed when he disarmed the Moros that the United States would protect them permanently. It also urged that if the Filipinos do not want Governor General Wood for Governor he be sent to Jolo to govern the Moros.

GENEVA, Aug. 29.—The Committee on the Composition of the Council, which tomorrow opens the second and final conference in preparation for the reorganization next week by the Assembly of the League Board of Directors, is entrusted with the most delicate task perhaps ever placed in the hands of an international body. It is dealing with lightning which may crash with the thunder of international discord in the Assembly meetings.

On the wisdom and fairness with which the body handles the task assigned depends the entity of the League of Nations, so far as Europe is concerned. And it must not be forgotten that the League's greatest usefulness is fostering good-will and solving the problems arising between European nations, as League action is prevented in South America by the Monroe Doctrine and its usefulness in Asia is limited.

The world's greatest danger spot is Europe and the world's greatest hope against misunderstandings is the League of Nations. With Germany's coming entry into the League Europe will be bound together under the League covenant from the Russian frontier to the Atlantic Ocean—if Spain does not withdraw.

Till now the League activities have largely been devoted to the situation created by the great gap in the centre. With Europe solidly in the League it will be free to develop more harmoniously. But with Spain's withdrawal solidarity would be broken and with it the esprit de corps essential to the League's development.

Careful weighing of the situation gives one more reason to hope than was permitted after the June Council meeting. Time has worked in favor of the League.

At present the seat problem is as follows: Spain has ratified the amendment to Article 4 of the Covenant which places in the hand of the Assembly the rules dealing with the election of non-permanent members of the Council and the regulations relating to terms of office and conditions of re-eligibility. Therefore, it has not the power to prevent the Assembly doing what it pleases.

Previously the Committee on Composition of the Council drew up a proposal which would give the Assembly such power over the head of any recalcitrant member of the Council by the simple procedure of holding a new election and dropping those who refused to keep step with the majority. This proposal would make Spain's veto against Germany's election to a permanent council seat worthless.

But Spain is already committed to support the election of Germany to a permanent seat and there never has been a question in anybody's mind that Spain would break her word, as she had the unpleasant duty of pointing out to some nine other nations that they had broken their word to her.

Therefore Germany's election to a permanent seat is assured and it is a mere matter of procedure which will take up several hours after the Assembly's officials and committees are elected.

Poland, as much as she would like a permanent seat, no longer offers an obstacle. Brazil has cut the League for a time and China and Persia are quieted. Therefore the only questions facing the Council committee is to try and invent some non-permanent seat plan which will satisfy Spain. Any combination of this sort would take care of Poland.

This is a large order, but no larger than the one with which the committee was faced several months ago.

In regard to the Tangier question it is generally thought that Spain would like a mandate. But the League Covenant contains no provisions establishing or assigning mandates. All existing mandates were established by the Supreme Council and divided among the Allies. The League is only a supervisory agent whose regular examinations serve to prevent Germany's reclamations on grounds of mismanagement, therefore the Tangier problem cannot be settled by the League. THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is informed that the League unquestionably would accept supervision of a mandate if arrangements were made among the powers creating it.

France and Britain, however, will hardly miss the opportunity to use the situation to aid a settlement of the League seat question and keep Spain in the League. Therefore it is logical to believe that they will diplomatically put off discussion on Tangier until after the Assembly. This would force Spain to remain within the League as that body would never consent to supervise a mandate given to a non-member State. Spain, moreover, would be given to understand that discussions would be easier if she did not break the League solidarity.

So far as the seat problem is concerned it appears that the Council committee will submit a plan very similar to the one worked out in May providing for an increase of non-permanent seats to nine, of which three will carry re-eligibility—intended for Spain, Poland and one South American State.

It is generally thought that the six other non-permanent seats will be given to Belgium—who will remain to offset Germany's entry—Rumania in place of Czechoslovakia, Sweden or Poland; Uruguay, who will remain; Cuba, who will replace Spain, and Chile who will replace Brazil. Colombia and Venezuela are the likeliest candidates for the third semi-permanent seat as the Council committee has expressed the opinion that Latin-America should have at least three representatives in the Council.

TWO HELD IN BOY'S DEATH.

Patrolman's Father and Brother Arrested After Lad, 9, Dies of Shot.

Jacob Juba, 50 years old, of 515 East Twelfth Street, was arrested early today, charged with violation of the Sullivan law, and his son John, 11 years old, was taken into custody by the Children's Society on charges of juvenile delinquency.

The arrest of Juba followed the death, in Bellevue Hospital, of 9-year-old Santo Bocchieri of the same address, who was shot in the right hand and side after a pistol held by John was discharged as he was explaining its mechanism to a group of playmates assembled in his home.

Another son of Juba, Samuel, said to be a patrolman, was first declared to have been the owner of the pistol that caused Santo's death. Later, the police said, Juba told them the gun was left in his home by a former boarder.

MISS NEGRI SWOONS AT VALENTINO BIER

AVOIDS BROADWAY CROWD

Police Required Again as Word of Her Visit Spreads—To Bar Public From Funeral Block Today.

After she had collapsed yesterday at the bier of Rudolph Valentino, motion picture actor, where she had knelt in prayer for fifteen minutes, Pola Negri, screen star, recovered herself long enough to say that it was true she had been engaged to marry him. She swooned again and was taken in a taxicab back to the Hotel Ambassador, too much overcome by her grief and the exertion of a 3,000-mile trip across the continent to elaborate on her brief interview, which she gave at the Campbell Funeral Church, Broadway and Sixty-sixth Street.

Miss Negri will attend the funeral this morning at 11 o'clock at St. Malachy's Roman Catholic Church, in West Forty-ninth Street. She said she would have come to Valentino's sick bed had he not concealed from her the serious nature of his last illness.

Miss Negri fell into the arms of Mrs. S. George Ullman, wife of Valentino's manager and a close personal friend, when she was overcome beside the coffin of her dead fiancé. It was half an hour before Mrs. Ullman and a nurse revived the actress sufficiently for her to speak of her attachment for Valentino.

Ullman Speaks for Her.

Written questions were submitted to her at the funeral parlors through Mr. Ullman, who brought back, as an answer to most of them, the following statement from Miss Negri:

"I am happy that everything has been made so lovely for Valentino in death. We were really engaged to be married but the fact that we both had careers to follow accounts for the delay in our wedding plans.

"My love for Valentino was the greatest love of my life; I shall never forget him. I loved him not as one artist might love another but as a woman loves a man.

"I loved the irresistible appeal of his charm—the wonderful enthusiasm of his mind and soul. I didn't realize how ill he was or I would have been here before his death; he kept the seriousness of his illness from me."

Mr. Ullman said Miss Negri was weeping when she entered the Campbell Parlors where the coffin was unsealed. On the coffin she saw a large blanket of red roses which she had ordered sent to the funeral parlors on Saturday. It had replaced a blanket of yellow roses and orchids sent by Norma Talmadge and her husband, Joseph M. Schenck, Chairman of the United Artists Corporation, to which Valentino was under contract. In the room was a profusion of floral pieces.

Crowd on Broadway Again.

In anticipation of the arrival of Miss Negri, a large crowd had collected outside on Broadway. A score of policemen was there to keep the crowd moving, and to see that it did not repeat the disturbances that followed the preliminary plans for a state funeral for the dead actor. But as word was passed along that Miss Negri soon was to arrive, the crowd rapidly increased until it assumed formidable proportions. Then, upon the advice of the police, the undertakers advised Mr. Ullman to bring Miss Negri through a side entrance. She entered unobserved. After the crowd learned she was inside they rushed around to the side entrance.

Miss Negri, tired from her long trip from Los Angeles, stayed at the hotel only long enough to refresh herself. She went directly from the hotel to the funeral establishment. She had been weeping when she arrived in New York on a second section of the Twentieth Century Limited at 11:40 A. M. She was met at the train by Mr. and Mrs. Ullman. She was rushed through a side entrance to a waiting taxicab and driven to the Ambassador.

Crowds had gathered outside the Grand Central to catch a glimpse of her. She was dressed in deep mourning. Her maid and her secretary, Florence Hein, accompanied her. Upon arriving at the hotel she retired at once.

Mr. Ullman spoke for her. "She is prostrated," he said. "She cannot see any one. I have exchanged very few words with her myself. When I met her on the train she wept, demanding 'Why didn't you bring him back to me?' When Valentino and I left Hollywood, the last thing she said to me was: 'Be sure to bring Rudy back to me.'"

Mr. Ullman said Miss Negri had told him that all Hollywood wants Valentino to be buried there.

Plans for Funeral.

The high requiem mass at St. Malachy's Church, 241 West Forty-ninth Street, at 11 o'clock this morning will be celebrated by the Rev. Edward F. Leonard, rector of the church, assisted by Father Congedo, a boyhood friend of Valentino's, as deacon; the Rev. William Donohue, chaplain of the Catholic Actors' Guild, as subdeacon, and the Rev. Joseph McKenna and the Rev. James O'Reilly as masters of ceremony.

The soloists will be Guido Ciccolini of the Chicago Opera Company and Demitri Onotri of the San Carlo Opera Company. The organist will be Professor Joseph Davis of St. Malachy's Church. The cellist will be Mario Caiati and the violinist Enzo Pascarella.

The choir sextette will consist of S. Bagatto and Arthur Michaud, tenors; Charles Schuyler and Wendel Hart second tenors; Edward Wendelken, baritone, and John Oakley, basso.

The program follows:

Absolution, or the blessing of the coffin with holy water.

Chopin's "Funeral March" will be played by Professor Davis while the coffin is being removed from the church.

A large number of policemen will guard the church while the funeral services are in progress and will exclude from the block all persons who have no business there.

Following the services at St. Malachy's Church the body of Valentino will be taken back to the Campbell Funeral Parlors to await the arrival of Valentino's brother, Alberto Guglielmi, due here on the White Star liner Homeric on Wednesday. The brother will decide upon a place of burial.

PREACHES TO THEATRE FOLK

Father Leonard's Sermon on "Love" Suggested by Valentino's Death.

More than five hundred members of the theatrical profession filled the Actor's Chapel of St. Malachy's Roman Catholic Church, 239 West Forty-ninth Street at the 11 o'clock mass yesterday. Funeral services for Rudolph Valentino are to be held there today.

The Rev. Father Edward F. Leonard, pastor of the church, preached on love. Although he did not mention Valentino by name, it was understood that the sermon was suggested by his death. Father Leonard said that love was one of the strongest forces in man's existence. He described the love of the child for its parents, the romantic love of maturity and the love of mankind for God, and said that the agony of Jesus on the cross was a manifestation of His great love for mankind.

EX-PRINCETON OARSMAN MISSING FOR 4 DAYS

W. W. Milne Left Germantown, Pa., to Come to New York—Seemed Worried, Wife Says.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29.—Wisgney Wentworth Milne, former Princeton athlete, who has been missing since Wednesday, has not been heard from in any way, a member of his family said tonight.

Mr. Milne was last seen at 9 A. M. Wednesday, when he left the family home, Roslyn Manor, in Germantown to meet his father, David Milne, who arrived at New York from Europe on the steamship Majestic.

The missing man's wife said that he had been "unusually quiet" recently and that something seemed to be worrying him.

She was Marion W. Baker before her marriage, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Franklin Baker of Haverford. Mr. Baker is a Vice President of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company.

Mr. Milne stirred society in 1922 by eloping to Elkton just before he was graduated from Princeton. He said that he wanted to avoid the "fuss" of a formal wedding.

He stroked and captained the Princeton crew in his senior year. He has maintained his interest in rowing and is a member of the Bachelors' Boat Club of Philadelphia.

Two New Jersey Women Disappear.

The police of North Bergen (N. J.) were notified yesterday that Mrs. Ottilda Seufert, 23 years old, of 1,226 Newkirk Street, North Bergen, had disappeared Aug. 13 with her two children, George, 2, and Virginia, 1 year old. Joseph Bolcik, 24 years old, of 309 Twenty-third Street, West New York, notified the police yesterday that his wife, Elizabeth, 21, left his home Aug. 18, and had not returned since. He believed, he said, that she had gone to New York.

Slavery in Nepal Is Finally Abolished; More Than 55,000 Are Freed From Bondage

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ALLAHABAD, India, Aug. 29.—The slave liberation scheme has been completed at a cost of $1,366,250, an average of $25 a slave, the total number liberated with compensation by the Government being 51,782. Their masters liberated 4,651 slaves without compensation, 1,984 died, 1,342 fled and 114 paid for their own release, thus accounting for a total slave population of 59,873.

The rates paid in compensation ranged from $7 for a female and $5 for a male under three years old to $35 for a female and $26 for a male between the ages of 13 and 40. After 40 the price dropped 50 per cent.

The Anti-Slavery Office actually started the work of liberation early in 1925. The Prime Minister of Nepal, Sir Chandra Shumshere Jung, who recently celebrated his sixty-fourth birthday, thus has been able to redeem the pledge he made to the world and realize one of the dreams of his life.

Tracts of cultivable land have been thrown open to the emancipated slaves in the hills, and reclamation and clearance works have been started in Taral, suitable advances of cash being made to the freedmen by the reclamation and agricultural offices.

A remarkable feature in the successful execution of the scheme, which had its origin in anti-slavery laws passed in 1920, and particularly in the historic speech of the Prime Minister in November, 1924, when he appealed to his countrymen to abolish a practice on which rested the curse of God, is the extent to which slave owners cooperated. Out of 15,719 owners only 467 desired the retention of slavery.

that course. They are anxious for her to return home in time to profit by the widespread interest in her feat.

Members of the Naval Militia are particularly eager to honor Mrs. Corson because she has served as their swimming instructor for three years, and her husband is assistant superintendent of the Illinois.

The men sent a telegram yesterday to Curtis D. Wilbur, Secretary of the Navy, requesting that the Navy Department join officially in a welcome to Mrs. Corson. The men believe that their request will be granted inasmuch as Mr. Corson is a member of the navy, and the Channel swimmer by her employment is virtually a member.

The men of the navy who are planning the welcome for Mrs. Corson said it was not beyond the range of possibility for the navy to send a battleship or a fleet of destroyers down the bay to meet the navy's swimmer. If their hopes for battleships and booming guns are realized, the greeting to Mrs. Corson might compare with that to Miss Ederle.

Miss Ederle Needs Rest.

The condition of Miss Ederle is causing no alarm to her relatives or her physician, Dr. Robert S. Bickley, 339 West Fifty-seventh Street, but she was barred yesterday from all visitors. Dr. Bickley said that Miss Ederle had not impaired her health in any way by her great swim. Mr. Malone issued the following statement:

"Gertrude is tired out and has got to get about twenty-four hours' sleep. She has not had a good night's rest since she swam the Channel. Every great athlete has a highly nervous system, and Gertrude has been on edge and in training for two years with her constant ambition to accomplish her purpose. All she needs is a day of complete rest and she will be her smiling self again.

"Her physician, Dr. Bickley, has given orders that nobody shall see her or disturb her today so that she can completely rest, and I hope that the public and the press will give her a chance to catch up with her sleep."

At the home of Miss Ederle at 108 Amsterdam Avenue, near West Sixty-fifth Street, it was said she was still in bed late yesterday. Two patrolmen were on guard at the entrance of the house, and two others patrolled in front of the building to prevent crowds from collecting.

Rodman Wanamaker is giving a luncheon for Miss Ederle today at the Wanamaker Broadway Restaurant, and Miss Ederle will be acclaimed by her own neighborhood with a block party this evening.

Atlantic Highlands Fete.

Tomorrow afternoon she will motor to Atlantic Highlands, and the Mayor and Councilmen of that town will meet her near the city limits, at Cherry Tree Farm, where there will be no danger of such a crush as was occasioned in lower Manhattan when Miss Ederle landed at the Battery. Mayor John L. Opfermann and members of the Council will present her with a huge cluster of American Beauty roses at Cherry Tree Farm. Then they will conduct the champion swimmer to a platform in the centre of the town and present a silver service to her.

Miss Ederle is due in Atlantic Highlands at 3 P. M. In the evening a ball in her honor will be given at Kruse's Pavilion. More than 20,000 are expected to join in the celebration. The normal population of Atlantic Highlands is 2,000.

Miss Ederle's first feat as a great swimmer, in August, 1922, when she won the Joseph P. Day International Cup three and one-half mile race at Manhattan Beach, will be celebrated on Wednesday evening. A dinner at the Hotel Commodore will be tendered to her by Mr. Day, donor of that cup. Joseph W. Powell, former President of the United States Shipping Board, who presented the trophy in 1922, will speak.

Will Rogers 'Humiliated' By Our Women Swimmers

To the Editor of The New York Times:

LONDON, Aug. 29.—A man came within thirty yards of swimming the Thames River here today. He was dragged out when overcome. It's the nearest any man has come to swimming the river since 1889.

Immigration authorities are barring any woman that comes from America if she is found to have a bathing suit. Is there any way I can change my sex? I am becoming humiliated.

MRS. CORSON TO DO IT AGAIN.

Says She Will Swim Channel Next Year From England to France.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Mrs. Corson, the second woman and first mother to swim the English Channel, was besieged by cheering crowds at Dover today. When she left her hotel she was carried shoulder-high along the promenade to the beach.

Mrs. Corson, who looked remarkably well and not at all tired after her long ordeal, seemed to enjoy the crowd's enthusiasm. She seemed willing even to forgive the Channel and give it another chance. Yesterday she had declared she would not try to swim it again for a million dollars.

"Thinking it over, it was not so bad after all," she said today. "In fact next year I am coming over to swim it from England to the other side.

"The middle of the night was the worst and often I could not realize quite where I was and what I was doing. 'It's for sonny,' I kept on saying to myself. At one time I felt a bit queer, but I did not mean to give up. I told them they were not to take me out unless I fell flat on the water."

VIERKOETEN IN CHANNEL.

German Swimmer Starts Across From French Shore.

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, Monday, Aug 30 (AP).—Otto Vierkoeten, the German swimmer, started at 1:35 o'clock this morning in an endeavor to swim the English Channel. At 3 o'clock he was two miles out.

The weather was fine when Vierkoeten started with a light breeze blowing.

Helmy, the Egyptian swimmer, says he will make his eighth attempt this week and Louis Timson of Boston has not given up the idea of making the third American to swi mthe Channel.

"We can't let the women do it all this year," remarked Helmy.

Mrs. Corson's successful swim has caused a break between the giant Egyptian and the veteran trainer, Bill Burgess, Helmy objecting to the directions given him by Burgess in his last attempt. Commenting on this, Burgess said laconically:

"I can make them physically fit to swim the Channel, but I can't teach them to swim."

Denmark Proud of Mrs. Corson.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 29 (AP).—Pages are given over by the newspapers to the Channel swim of Mrs. Clemington Corson, who was born Amelia Gade at the Danish seaport of Viele. There is a great deal of pride evinced everywhere that a Danish-born woman made such a remarkable swim as that of Mrs. Corson yesterday.

NEW HALL WITNESS TO BE PROTECTED

Man Who Says He Saw the Crime Counted On to Reveal His Story Today.

GRAND JURY LIST STARTED

Finder of Brooch Now Hazy on Its Description—Another Tells of Sedan Racing From Scene.

A man who says he witnessed the murder of the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills four years ago near New Brunswick, N. J., is counted on to come forward today and tell his story. The man wrote a letter two weeks ago to the investigators and has been in touch through other letters with the detectives since then.

He gave his name to Inspector John J. Underwood and Assistant Attorney General Alexander Simpson, but at his request only his initials, "A. L.," were made public Saturday night when an appeal was made to him to appear voluntarily at Somerville, N. J., for questioning. Detectives said that the man would have every protection and that his identity would not be disclosed unless he so elected.

"A. L.," a Newark chauffeur, wrote that he was on the Phillips farm on the night of Sept. 14, 1922, and gave the name of a young woman he says was with him. She is now married, the mother of a child, and lives in a Middle Western city, "about 1,000 miles" from New York. She has made a statement to the Chief of Police of that city partly corroborating the story of "A. L." If the story of "A. L." stands up, the young woman will be brought to Somerville.

Start on Grand Jury List.

The compilation of a list of sixty names from which the September Grand Jury for Somerset County is to be chosen will start today at Somerville. Sheriff Sanford W. Tunison will make up the list. Senator Simpson has decided to put the evidence, upon which he had laid a charge of murder against Henry de la Bruyere Carpender, Willie Stevens and Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, before the September Grand Jury.

On Sept. 10, or perhaps a little later since Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker, who has charge of the Grand Jury, does not return from Maine until Sept. 8, the sixty names will be placed in a box in the courtroom of Common Pleas Judge Frank L. Cleary. The first twenty-three names to be drawn will be summoned to compose the Grand Jury. The Grand Jury, however, will not be sworn in until Sept. 21.

Senator Simpson and the defense attorneys will be present at the drawing of the names. Justice Parker will have the say on whether the State or the defense can exercise the right of challenge. Justice Parker will appoint the foreman.

Hall Case to Have Precedence.

An arrangement has been made with Somerset County Prosecutor Francis L. Bergen, whereby all ordinary criminal matters for the Grand Jury will be laid aside when the Grand Jury convenes. The Hall-Mills case will be the first matter put before them and probably more than sixty witnesses will be called.

The controversy between Senator Simpson and Middlesex County Detective Ferd A. David over the gold brooch clue continued yesterday, although both sides were silent. Edward Eierce, an innkeeper near New Brunswick, N. J., has said he picked up a brooch with an inlay cross in gold at the scene of the crime a day after the bodies were found. A brooch claimed by Frank J. Daly of Highland Park, and which David has insisted was the only brooch he ever heard about in the case, has a bar with gold leaves at either side.

Yesterday Tierce said his memory was hazy after four years and that he could not remember what the brooch looked like.

"I could not swear on the witness stand what it looked like," he said. "I told the detectives what it looked like to the best of my recollection. Right now I can't say that the design didn't look like a 'house to let sign.'

"I judge the date upon which I picked it up from the fact that it was on my first visit to the scene. I went out three times in all. When I went out the first time the crabapple tree had foliage. On my second trip it was just a stump—the souvenir hunters had been busy—and on my third it was just a hole in the ground."

Another Tells of Screams.

Only two of perhaps ten witnesses who have told of shrieks or shots on the fatal night have agreed on the time when they heard them. Yesterday another witness told of having heard screams. He was Charles Jones, who lives near George's Road about a quarter-mile from the crabapple tree. Jones was questioned last week by Inspector Underwood. He also told his story to the investigators four years ago.

"On the night of the murder I got home around midnight," said Mr. Jones. "I had scarcely got into the house when I heard piercing screams. Almost immediately afterward a small sedan followed by a touring car shot past our house. They had come down Landing Lane, which would be the course of a car coming from De Russey's Lane and the murder scene."

Mrs. Hall, who is at liberty in $15,000 bail, was alone most of yesterday in her home at New Brunswick. Carpender and Stevens had but one visitor in the Somerville jail. That was Mrs. Carpender. Sheriff Tunison has issued a special permit to Mrs. Carpender to visit her husband at any time.

Mr. Coad had heard Mrs. Crawford preach in Pittsburgh, and was so favorably impressed that he persuaded her to go to Flushing to conduct a campaign. The local committee arranged an apartment for her at 621 Laburnum Avenue, in the Ingelside section of Flushing, and provided her also with a personal maid and other assistants.

The attendance and the collections at the meetings have not been what were expected, however. The largest collection at any meeting was $18, it was asserted.

Mrs. Crawford's party consisted of her daughter, Mrs. Alma Crawford Granning; her son-in-law, Phineas Granning, and Mrs. Mabel Hensley, a pianist. At Mrs. Crawford's apartment yesterday it was said that she was resting and could not see any one. Granning said, however, that Mrs. Crawford had engaged attorneys who would apply for a stay of the restraining order, and that she would reappear at the tent this evening and conduct services. He said the difficulties had arisen from the fact that several prominent members of the local committee had asked her to use spiritualistic methods in her campaign and that she had refused. He said also that the collections had been disappointing.

A Woman's Explanation.

"There was a committee of seventeen in charge of the meetings. Mrs. Crawford was to receive help of the voluntary contributions at the meetings and the committee the other half. On the last day of the campaign, which was to have been Sunday, Sept. 5, two contributions were to be taken up, all of which were to go to Mrs. Crawford.

"Mrs. Crawford agreed to send a manager and a publicity man at her own expense and to pay for the advertising of her meetings. She did none of these things and the committee had to get together all the funds to start with. She came here ten days before the meeting started and we had to keep her during that time. We paid the rent of the apartment, took furniture from our homes to fit her apartment up luxuriously, and some of our families and children slept on pillows on the floor because she had our beds.

"At first she rode around in taxicabs and then we provided her with an automobile. Then Mrs. Crawford demanded that a platform be built in the tent for her to speak from. This was not in her agreement. We found that the kind of a platform she wanted would cost $3,500. We got the lumber and members of the committee worked until 2:30 o'clock last Sunday morning to get the platform finished.

Objected to Methods.

"Last Tuesday she told the committee that if she had $500 she would quit. The committee got the $500 together and offered it to her. She refused to take it, demanding $1,000. Finally she said that she would not go under any circumstances, but would remain and continue to hold meetings in the tent until Oct. 1. It was after she took this stand that the committee got out the injunction."

Mr. Coad refused to comment on the situation, but Attorney Edward Keyes, 68 William Street, Manhattan, who represented the committee, said:

"In the application for the injunction no reference was made to finances. The moving papers stated that Mrs. Crawford was using the tent, platform, chairs and other furniture in the tent and the permit to use the plot on which the tent is situated without the consent of the campaign committee. A few days ago the committee withdrew its permission for her to use this property and the application is based on the alleged fact that she is an interloper. I know nothing about any financial difficulties and have been interested only in securing the injunction on the grounds stated."

ENVOY ADMITS TROUBLE IN SPAIN

THREAT TO QUIT LEAGUE

Foreign Minister Says Spain Must Have Permanent Council Seat or Tangier Zone.

LONDON, Aug. 29 (AP).—The Spanish Embassy tonight informed the press that, in view of a serious state of affairs in Spain, it was possible that a censorship on news from Spain had been imposed.

The embassy made no statement with regard to a rumor that the supremacy of General Primo de Rivera, the Dictator-Premier, had been challenged by a group of army officers, with the result that all telephone and telegraph communication had been stopped.

Dispatches from frontier points indicate that civil guards have been placed in charge of the Spanish railways and that three Spanish warships have sailed for Tangier, Morocco.

A despatch reaching London from Hendaye, near the Spanish frontier in France, on Friday, said the correspondent had learned from reliable Spanish sources that a change in the Spanish Government was expected at any moment.

Yanguas Proclaims Spain's Policy.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Aug. 29.—The Minister of Foreign Affairs of Spain, Señor Yanguas, today declared there was a direct connection between Spain's demand for Tangier and her bid for a permanent seat on the Council of the League of Nations.

"It is certain that in current diplomatic actions the League of Nations and Tangier themes are closely linked and react on each other with force," he said. "This is not astonishing when the existing international status is considered. Spain had loyally and frankly made known her firm decision to leave the League of Nations, not without deep regret, if her pretention to a permanent seat on the Council was repulsed.

"Several friendly nations asked us not to forsake Geneva collaboration because of the special significance of Spain's presence there. The Spanish Government earnestly hopes it will be possible to respond to these friendly suggestions, but finds it impossible to justify before Spanish public opinion and in face of its duty renunciation to that which it believes is due to Spain. Neither can we accept an intermediary solution such as a semi-permanent or de facto permanent seat.

The Only Compensation Possible.

"The only compensation which might be adequate in importance to the renunciation we are invited to make would be the incorporation of Tangier in the Spanish protectorate zone of Morocco. This is the objective reality which is clearly apparent and is justified because Tangier is necessary for the security of our zone.

"It is unnecessary to add that if the powers interested in Tangier acquiesce in its incorporation in our zone the régime we establish will be based on absolute respect of the principle not to fortify Tangier nor to convert the port into a naval or aerial base and will respect commercial liberty with treatment favoring none. The administration and judiciary we establish will guarantee equal justice, irrespective of nationality.

"It will not be astonishing in view of the importance Tangier has for the pacification of our zone that if Spain is deceived in her aspirations both for a permanent court seat and for incorporation of Tangier in her zone, she not only retires from the League of Nations but also thinks of the convenience of not dissipating her energy in a sterile international mission—or rather national mission. We can, therefore, present our desires to world opinion with the fullest frankness, because we are sure Spain's cause coincides fully with the cause of civilization in Morocco and in the cause of world peace."

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Spain continues to be the centre of interest in Europe. The Daily News mentions in an editorial that it has received a telegram from the Spanish Foreign Minister in which he states positively what it had been understood his country hitherto only hinted, namely that if Spain is not heeded in her claim for inclusion of Tangier in the Spanish zone of the Moorish protectorate "she will withdraw from the League of Nations and perhaps decline her participation in the Moroccan protectorate."

The Daily News calls this action by Spain "an attempt to levy blackmail upon the other interested powers."

Premier Baldwin, according to The Daily Graphic's Geneva correspondent, will interrupt his holiday at Aix-les-Bains to visit Geneva to consult Sir Austen Chamberlain on the complicated issue which Spain has raised.

WANT ISSUES SEPARATED.

Britain and France Plead With Spain and Italy.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—The British and French Foreign Offices are working in the closest agreement to prevent the issue of Tangier from muddying the already troubled waters of Lake Leman. After having notified Madrid that they were opposed to the suggested conference on Tangier's status during or preceding the session of the League of Nations Assembly which opens in Geneva on Sept. 6, Mr. Chamberlain and M. Briand are understood to have advised the Italian Foreign Office as well as the Spanish that they are not opposed to discussing possible minor changes in the Tangier régime at some future time, but do not wish the issue raised at Geneva.

Perhaps in the eyes of a good many statesmen Spain has weakened her case for a permanent League Council seat by appearing to let it be known that she was ready to strike a bargain between her Geneva and Tangier claims. Madrid placed her demand for a permanent seat on the ground of national pride and prestige, which is always difficult to deal with in international adjustments, but in offering to dicker on the prospects of a Tangier mandate she has shown, perhaps, that she does not rest her claim merely on national pride. In fact it is believed that London and Paris have hinted this thought to Madrid.

Hope to Settle Council Seat Issue.

Meanwhile Mr. Chamberlain and M. Briand are getting ready to go to Geneva for the Council meeting, opening Sept. 2. They hope to be able to settle the thorny question of Council seats before the opening of the Assembly a week from Monday. The special committee on the Council constitution opens its meetings tomorrow at Geneva preparatory to the Council session.

Both the British and French Foreign Ministers feel deeply that nothing should be allowed to block the admission of Germany at the coming session of the League, for such an outcome they think, would constiute a serious blow to the Geneva organization. If after the March fiasco a September failure to adjust matters should develop the whole Locarno system would receive what might prove to be a fatal blow.

BRITISH STRIKE UP IN COMMONS TODAY

MINERS VOICE PROTEST

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Parliament will meet tomorrow to pass a resolution necessary for the continuance of the emergency regulations designed to deal with the coal strike. As far as any definite proposals from either side go the situation is almost exactly what it was when Parliament was prorogued. Events which occurred in the Mansfield area last week, however, are likely to embitter the discussion over the situation.

Charges have been made by some miners that the police drafted into Nottinghamshire exceeded their powers in dealing with pickets, and Labor members, it is expected, will press for information concerning incidents in which strikers are alleged to have been treated with unnecessary violence.

Criticism of the police may be answered from the Government side of the House with demands that police protection against intimidation of men willing to work should be strengthened. If the Opposition is in an obstructive mood the House may have a late sitting to pass the regulations. It is intended that in any case the proceedings of this emergency Parliament shall be completed Tuesday.

The council of the Nottinghamshire Miners Association has taken a decision that is expected to have an important effect on the duration of the stoppage. At a meeting of the council Saturday it was resolved "if nothing is done nationally this week toward settlement the executive members be authorized to ask permission of the federation to pursue negotiations locally for a settlement."

Such a resolution means that the council is clearly of the opinion that the struggle can not be maintained locally any longer. The decision undoubtedly has been influenced by the return to work of many men in the Mansfield area.

Every effort is being made by the strikers to counter this drift back to the mines. A. J. Cook declared Saturday that "blacklegs are industrial lepers and must be isolated."

Last night one man who has returned to work was successfully "isolated" when he entered a saloon and asked for a glass of beer. As soon as he was served all the other workmen at the bar drank up and cleared out. The landlord, not wishing to lose business, asked the man to leave, and he suffered similar humiliation at the next saloon he visited.

streets, the spectators, carefully trained and instructed, refrained from acclaiming him as "our king," which his followers always call him in private conversation.

Several thousand uniformed officers carried swords and many of the veterans outfits of muskets and relics of old wars, but on the whole it was not a dangerous looking crowd. Police orders against carrying weapons prevented even the militant "Steel Helmet" youths from displaying the small calibre rifles which form a part of their sport equipment.

Nuremberg tailors worked overtime for weeks turning out the uniforms for monarchistic military societies as well as duplicates of the pre-war uniforms which have grown shabby through disuse and age. Consequently, the cloth and insignia as well as the helmets and decorations were bright and shining enough to satisfy the most exact inspector preparing his men for review before royalty.

Politics officially are taboo here. Nobody cares to have his anti-republican ears abused by words like Locarno or the League of Nations, for nowhere is the existence of the republic in evidence. Shop windows display pictures of kings, warriors and battles, but not a single one of Hindenburg, President of the German Republic. And, although a telegram was sent to him conveying homage to the "greatest German soldier," the fact that he is the highest republican official was not mentioned.

Tonight at the State opera there was a solid mass of uniforms for the gala performance of "William Tell," which was meant to typify Germany's resolution to liberate herself from the "tyranny of her victors." Rupprecht and other Princes were in the royal box. At another theatre near by "Die Meistersinger" was given. In the streets the "Steel Helmet" youths chanted Prussian war songs.

A special edition of the Bavarian monarchistic organ was being circulated. It declares that today's doings prove that the slogan "no more war" is dead in Germany.

Late tonight a string of motor trucks were on the way from Augsburg to replenish the beer supply, as the local stock of 3,000,000 litres was being exhausted.

URGE COLUMBUS DAY AS NATIONAL HOLIDAY

Sons of Italy Ask Congress to Enact Law to Honor the Discoverer.

SECESSIONISTS ASSAILED

The Grand Lodge of the State of New York, Order of the Sons of Italy, at the second day's session of its annual convention at 109 East Fifteenth Street, adopted a resolution yesterday recommending the enactment of Federal legislation to establish Columbus Day as a national holiday.

The delegates also unanimously commanded the Congressional action permitting the return to the United States of Italian war veterans, their wives and families who had been excluded from this country by the immigration quota law.

John J. Freschi, former Justice of Special Sessions and Grand Venerable of the Grand Lodge, opening the day's session, read a letter from Congressman Nathan D. Perlman of New York. The letter read in part: "America owes a debt of gratitude to the Sons of Italy who have contributed to the welfare and progress of the nation."

Mr. Freschi introduced A. D. Sebastiani, Grand Venerable of the organization in Canada, who described the growth of the order in Canada in the last two or three years as remarkable. Baldo Aquilano, historian of the order, outlined the progress made by the Grand Lodge since 1925, when a number of the subordinate lodges and members seceded. He introduced the following resolution which was adopted:

"The Grand Lodge of the State of New York fought the battle of the order for the integrity and unity of the order against the secessionists; it fought for the organization against the professional politicians who, for personal aggrandizement, have allied themselves with the Reds. It fought against those who came into the order and, while falsely swearing allegiance to the flag, were at the same time enemies of all flags and who, while seemingly accepting the creed of patriotism after being admitted into the order, preached inside and out the order against the constituted Governments of the civilized world.

Appeals to Back Americanism.

"Therefore, we appeal for the support of all the members in the continuance of the fight for the highest and noblest Americanism in the order."

Explaining why this resolution was offered at the convention, Mr. Freschi said: "The Grand Lodge of the State of New York, Order of the Sons of Italy, claims to be the only true and legal Grand Lodge of the order.

"We are non-political, non-sectarian. While we voted recently support of the present Italian Government, we first voted support of our American Government. Because we voted this support to the Italian Government it does not mean we are Fascisti, for we have a number in our ranks who are anti-Fascisti. We are primarily devoted to a program of Americanization, in keeping with loyal American citizenship."

Mr. Freschi also charged "the secessionists retained possession of $200,000 worth of the property of the order." He said that his group has obtained an injunction in the Supreme Court restraining the secessionists from use of $170,000 of the property, and that further effort was being made to restrain them from using the name "Order of Sons of Italy," since this group was not officially recognized.

Columbus Day Resolution.

The resolution endorsing the bill designating Columbus Day as a national holiday read as follows: "Be it resolved that the Grand Lodge of the State of New York, Order of the Sons of Italy in America, Inc., in convention assembled in New York City on Aug. 29, unanimously recommend to the Congress of the United States the enactment of said bill into law; and, be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and to the presiding officer of the Senate."

One of the most important recommendations to be acted on by the order will come up for discussion at the session this morning. Consideration is being given to the proposal to raise the mortuary benefit to $1,000. The amount paid at present is $400. Most of the delegates, it was said yesterday, favored the higher amount.

A dinner this evening at the Hotel Biltmore will bring the convention to a close. The invited guests and speakers include Joseph V. McKee, President of the Board of Aldermen and Acting Mayor; Emory R. Buckner, United States Attorney; Joab H. Banton, District Attorney; Charles W. Culkins, Sheriff, Victor Watson and Governor Smith.

DENIES BALL PLAYER'S TALE

Turnkey at Atlantic City Jail Says Smith Was Not Beaten.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 29.—W. D. Smith, turnkey at the city jail, denied today the allegations of James Smith, former second baseman of the New York and Philadelphia baseball clubs, that he was beaten by two policemen with a rubber hose in his cell in the City Jail Friday night.

The ball player came into the jail in an ugly mood, the turnkey said, and struck at him. Smith said he dodged and in self-defense hit the ball player and placed him in a cell. No policeman entered the cell, according to Smith.

"Smith was one of the most unruly prisoners we have had," said the turnkey. "After I placed him in a cell, he tried to tear it down and made a terrible commotion. Finally I was forced to put him in a padded cell until his release. If he had ever landed the blow he aimed at me, he would have broken the bones of my face."

The ball player, who lives at 2,222 Beachwood Avenue, Pittsburgh, came to Atlantic City Thursday with his wife and family. On Friday, when a beach censor took a ball away from one of his children, Smith remonstrated, and he and the censor came to blows, his arrest resulting. Smith said today that between thirty-five and forty persons had notified him that they would appear when his case came up before Recorder Corio, and testify in his behalf.

That Will Pass All Entrance Exams Successfully

Entrance exams in academic subjects may loom important on the horizon of the incoming Freshman—but her first and most severe exam is her appearance. It is by this that she is largely judged—those first days when upper classmen are looking for promising "material" for the various activities of the school year. So if she is wise, she is planning her wardrobe now—a matter made easy by the readiness of our Misses' Departments and Sports Shop. We have briefly sketched here a few of the many smart things in our school collection that will go into wardrobes destined to succeed at college.

KELBY TO RESUME MILK INQUIRY SOON

MAY HOLD PUBLIC HEARINGS

Or He May Order Trials of Suspended Health Employes and Later Take Up Other Phases.

Important conferences to determine the method of procedure in the milk graft investigation will be held today or tomorrow on the return to town of Charles H. Kelby, former Justice of the Appellate Division, appointed recently by Mayor Walker to assist in the inquiry.

Health Commissioner Louis I. Harris said yesterday that preliminary conferences had been held by him and Ralph Hemstreet, assistant to Judge Kelby. The question to be determined, according to Dr. Harris, is whether the investigators shall begin with a public hearing on phases of the investigation which have not yet been aired and lead up to the examination of the suspended employes of the Health Department or whether the first step shall be the immediate and public trial of the accused men.

If the latter course is adopted it will mean that the investigation will embrace the whole subject of milk and then go on to an investigation of the poultry situation which has hardly been touched by the Health Department.

Commissioner Harris said there was nothing to hamper the inquiry or limit the functioning of the investigators. He pointed out that if necessary Commissioner of Accounts Joseph A. Warren might be asked to sit with the investigators to issue subpoenaes for witnesses and that he, the Health Commissioner, had authority to administer oaths.

Dr. Harris is receiving medical attention as the result of an accident on Friday in which a finger was crushed and the bone broken in an automobile door. It was thought for a time that the finger might have to be amputated but it is now expected to heal.

Dinner to Wadsworth Sept. 15.

The Board of Directors of the Republican Business Men, Inc., completed arrangements yesterday for a dinner to United States Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr. at the Hotel Pennsylvania on the evening of Sept. 15. The names of other speakers will be announced soon. The dinner will be attended by representatives of 110 trades and professions in which committees to support Senator Wadsworth for re-election have been formed.

CITY REPUBLICANS IN FIGHT ON CROPSEY

ting him to refuse to be a candidate, either directly or by imposing conditions that the convention would not accept, is based upon keeping the nomination open until after the convention meets.

Republican leaders here recalled that Justice Cropsey was twice a candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor and withdrew each time. One Republican, who has been in the inner party councils during the last four Mayoralty campaigns, said that Justice Cropsey had apparently agreed to be a candidate against the late Mayor Mitchel in 1917, but refused to make the fight in the primary election at the last moment. William M. Bennett, he said, was substituted, and defeated Mayor Mitchel for the Republican nomination, John F. Hylan being elected Mayor at the general election.

This same Republican said that in 1921, when the candidate was selected at a conference, Justice Cropsey, after permitting his name to be considered, refused to be a candidate for Mayor, and Henry H. Curran, later defeated by Mayor Hylan, was named in his place. He added that many of the party leaders had been brought to believe that Justice Cropsey had no wish to run for public office, unless he appeared to have better than an even chance of election. He added that he had that opinion himself, but would change it if Justice Cropsey should accept the nomination for Governor this year, with certainly no better than an even chance of election, if, as he expected, Governor Smith should run again.

Whether the view of many of the Republican city leaders that Justice Cropsey has shown little indication of wishing to lead a political forlorn hope is true or not, they undoubtedly intend to use this view of the Brooklyn jurist as an argument against his nomination. They are even prepared to make a fight against him in the convention if it should come to that, it was said, on the theory that this might lessen his desire for the nomination.

The announcement of Dr. S. E. Nicholson, Chairman of the committee supporting Franklin W. Cristman, Independent dry candidate for Senator, that Justice Cropsey would be acceptable to the Cristman supporters if his prohibition State enforcement law plank was adopted has not made Justice Cropsey's candidacy any more popular among Senator Wadsworth's supporters here. Some of them, who are also leaders in the Republican organization, declared that the nomination of Justice Cropsey would hurt Senator Wadsworth in New York City and would also lessen the number of votes obtainable for the Republican State ticket. It was admitted that Justice Cropsey might show some strength in Brooklyn but that he would not bring the ticket any votes in any other borough.

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, President of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which is supporting Mr. Cristman, denied that she had been approached by any Republican leaders in behalf of Justice Cropsey.

"We esteem Judge Cropsey highly," Mrs. Boole said, when asked whether the W. C. T. U. would support him if he were the Republican nominee for Governor, "but our support would depend upon the kind of a platform adopted by the Republicans. We are not willing to accept the vote in the referendum as an index of the sentiment of this State. The main thing we will have to do at this election is to elect dry officials. We regard the referendum as futile, not mandatory, and as asking Congress to do something which Congress has no power to do."

MILLS LOOMS AS CANDIDATE.

Would Run if He Gets Promise of Backing for Senator in 1928.

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Representative Ogden L. Mills, who has long been mentioned as the probable Republican nominee for Governor, is now a strong possibility, according to reports from New York, which credit the Republican chieftains as being divided as to what to do in the situation, with many of them opposed to the nomination of Justice Cropsey.

Mr. Mills arrived here today from Bar Harbor accompanied by Mrs. Mills and were luncheon guests at White Pine Camp. It is understood that some aspects of the New York political situation came up during Mr. Mills's visit with the President, although Mr. Mills said later that his presence there was purely social.

Mr. Mills is staying at the camp of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, on upper St. Regis Lake, and has been busy since his arrival last night conferring with Republican leaders over the long distance telephone.

The telephonic conversations, it is reported, have dealt with the reported move of the wets to force Mr. Mills to accept the Republican nomination for Governor. According to these reports, the recent manoeuvres by some of the dry leaders in the party, insisting upon having a dry candidate for Governor who shall abide by the referendum, has caused a great reaction.

According to one report, Mr. Mills would enter the race without any hope of defeating Governor Smith and would do so only to help Senator Wadsworth, provided he received the assurance of the party leaders that he would be made the Republican nominee for the United States Senate to succeed Senator Copeland two years hence.

Mr. Mills said that he was not familiar with the recent moves of the Republican leaders, since he has been out of the State for more than two weeks. He thought that the situation was gradually becoming more steady and the program would be worked out before long.

Mr. Mills feels confident of Republican success in the State and that not only Senator Wadsworth will be re-elected but that the Republicans will increase their membership in the House from New York.

His plans are to reach New York Tuesday, at which time he will confer with a number of Republican leaders, it was said.

Lawyer Wants Roosevelt to Run.

Emlen Hare Miller, a lawyer, whose home is at Huguenot Park, S. I., sent a letter to Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt yesterday urging him to become a candidate for Governor on the ground that the Republican Party needed him.

COOLIDGE WILL WIN IN 1928, SLEMP SAYS

Nation United by Prosperity Will Demand Him Again, Ex-Secretary Declares.

CALLS GOVERNMENT CLEAN

Lowden the Next Choice, He Asserts —Doubts That Smith Will Ever Have a Real Chance.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 29.—C. Bascom Slemp, former secretary to President Coolidge, who is at the Ambassador here, today, predicted the re-election of Mr. Coolidge in 1928, because, he said, the people would demand it.

"Coolidge has a firm hold on the people of America," said Mr. Slemp. "This is preeminently so because of his sound judgment and meticulous care of public moneys.

"America has no royalty to worship and so invests a high degree of respect in the personality of Coolidge. He has been reticent about making a spectacle of the quality of adoration tendered to him by the multitude and it is the very same multitude that recognizes a measure of greatness in his reserve.

"Without being overly extravagant, I can say that I faithfully believe that in the entire history of the world, there never was a nation so happy and contented as is the United States today, despite seeming disruptions within the political camps of the parties.

"Primarily the average man wants a man at the head of the Government whom he can respect. Coolidge is such a man. His public and private character is one that forces recognition of his high qualities on the aggregate American mind.

"Above all, average men want Government personnel as clean as it can possibly be and I know that they believe Coolidge is the man to enforce that feeling down the line for them.

"East and West are being brought together for the first time in the history of national politics. They are united in a common bond of prosperity and Coolidge is their man."

Mr. Slemp declared that Frank O. Lowden had the best chance after Coolidge, should the President be reluctant to run again.

"I doubt, however, if Lowden really will be given any chance for a showing," he added.

Concerning the popularity of Governor Smith of New York, he said:

"That's good personally for Al Smith, but he will never have a real chance for election to the Presidency."

COOLIDGE SEEKS MORE REST

Will Have Fewer Guests at White Pine Camp Hereafter.

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 29.—President and Mrs. Coolidge, accompanied by their son John, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Sterns and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Whiting, house guests, attended service today at the First Presbyterian Church, Saranac Lake, where they have worshipped since coming here. The usual crowds were at the church and greeted the President along the way.

Mr. Coolidge intends to get a good rest for the rest of his stay here and few guests will be at White Pine Camp during the next few weeks.

Mathew C. Brush, President of the American International Corporation of New York, will be a luncheon guest tomorrow.

President Coolidge will fish on the last day of the season. He will motor tomorrow to Alder Brook, owned by Leroy Frost of New York, where it is reported the fish are very large and the stream fishing is especially good.

MELLON STARTS FOR PARIS.

Leaves Evian-Les-Bains — Walked Ten Miles in Alps.

EVIAN-LES-BAINS, France, Aug. 29 (AP).—Andrew W. Mellon, American Secretary of the Treasury, left tonight for Paris. He plans to spend several days in the French capital and will then proceed to England before sailing for home.

Mr. Mellon before his departure declared that he had nothing to say about financial questions.

The Secretary appears to be in fine health after his vacation. This was proved yesterday, when motoring through the French Alpine passes his automobile was disabled and Mr. Mellon, under a broiling sun, was obliged to cover ten miles afoot. He arrived at his hotel none the worse for his adventure.

THE NEW TREND IS TOWARDS THE NEW FRANKLIN!

Biggest July in Franklin history

Bigger Year to date than most prosperous on record

50% Gain in Sales to water-cooled car owners

[From complete dealer figures just received]

THE rising tide of New Franklin sentiment throughout the country is reflected in these three impressive sales facts. And the secret of the first two is contained in the third.

As the delivery of orders to established Franklin owners continues its steady growth, demand on the part of owners of other cars shows a sharp and significant rise.

In brief, other owners are beginning to see for themselves, as well as to hear from Franklin owners, that what the New Franklin gives cannot be bought in any other car!

Other owners are getting tired of buying cars famed for their high power—and then being constantly passed on the hills and outdistanced in the day's run by New Franklins.

("Do not think there is a car made that can beat them in a run of from 100 to 1000 miles," says John M. Rees of Pittsfield, Mass., who speaks from a wide experience with other cars.)

Other owners are getting tired of buying cars noted for their Pullman-like weight—and then discovering that it is the New Franklin which comes closest to giving Pullman-like comfort.

("Series 11 is the easiest-riding of all cars I have ever driven," says Roy W. Sexton of Wytheville, Va., who has driven cars continuously since the early days of the industry.)

Other owners are getting tired of buying cars reputed to be easy to handle—and then noticing that any New Franklin owner can drive farther with less fatigue than they can.

("I have never driven a car so easily operated as my new Franklin Sport Sedan," says J. H. Rose, Pittsburgh, Pa., who also finds them more comfortable than the cars of longer wheelbase he has been driving.)

Other owners are learning that aviation is turning to air-cooling, that Byrd and Cobham used air-cooled planes, that only Franklin offers this same superior dependability and efficiency in motor cars—and are insisting on having it!

("The most marvelous success. I drove with wide-open throttle in Texas temperatures of 110°, all day, day after day, with no suggestion of overheating," says Paul Hunt, Dallas, Tex., comparing Franklin with water-cooled cars he has used in the past.)

Other owners are seeking lines and looks that are not standardized—materials and workmanship of real pre-war fineness—long life that gives them new-car performance over a period of years—and finding them in the New Franklin!

("Nearly all automobile manufacturers speak of quality, but I believe that only Franklin owners realize the great difference," says H. B. Holloway, Elkhart, Ind., who has owned 47 automobiles in all.)

And other owners are comparing prices with products—costs with results—and are concluding that more money will not buy more than the New Franklin gives, and that less money will not buy nearly so much.

("Have driven and ridden in almost every make. Would not give up the Franklin for any car in America, regardless of price," says E. D. Church, Cambridge, N. Y.)

Are you an "other owner"? NOW IS THE TIME TO OWN A FRANKLIN! Performance, quality and style were never higher—price has never been so favorable. Come in and get all the facts—today!

Perhaps you do not realize how easily you can become a New Franklin owner. Your present car in trade may cover the entire first payment. Balance on easy monthly terms, making it today's wisest motor car investment. Ask for full information.

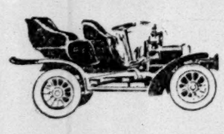
THE GREATEST TEACHER

Experience is by far the greatest teacher. Nothing can take its place. Things worth while are invariably the result of years of labor and experiment—by either individuals or organizations.

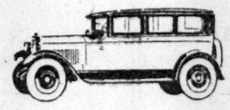
The modern skyscraper has reached its present stage through the years of experience of architectsand builders. The compound locomotives of 1926 are far more powerful and effective than the railroad engines of some years ago. Experience taught the builders how to improve them to cope sucessfully with today's demands.



In the motor car a far more striking illustration is shown in a comparison of the cars of a few years ago with those of the present. Experience again is mainly responsible for the improvements.

In no field of endeavor does experience count to a greater extent than in the manufacture of internal combustion engines. In this highly specialized field it is the knowledge gained through years of constant application and experiment which counts so largely in successful development.

Because of the 26 years of specialized effort which have been devoted to the manufacture of motors, the Continental organization of 8100 trained workers has the invaluable experience which only the years can give.



As a result every Continental Motor, whether for automobile, bus, truck, aeroplane, industrial, or marine use, is designed for the purpose intended and will give the greatest degree of economical performance and satisfactory service.

FIGHTS SCHOOL BAN ON 'FREE' SPEECHES

Civil Liberties Union Appeals to Graves to Reverse City Board's Decision.

ASKS FOR PUBLIC HEARING

Refusal to Permit the Use of Buildings Based on Ex-Parte Evidence, Plea Says.

An appeal to Franklin P. Graves, State Commissioner of Education, for a reversal of the decision of the New York City Board of Education barring the American Civil Liberties Union from holding a "free-speech" meeting in Stuyvesant High School was made yesterday by the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, acting Chairman of the Union; Forrest Bailey, a director, and Wolcott H. Pitkin and Samuel Untermyer, counsel. The reversal is asked for on the ground of "substantial damage" to the Union's reputation and to the service it claims to be rendering to the American people by the protection of minority and individual rights.

Accompanying the appeal was a request for a public hearing before the Commissioner. The letter added that, if the issue could not be settled by the State educational authorities, appeal would be made to the courts.

Grounds for Appeal.

The appeal gave the following grounds as a basis for the request for a reversal of the Board of Education's decision:

First—The board's action was based primarily on opposition to the Union's conception of freedom of speech on public questions. That question is in accordance with the American tradition from the days of the forefathers. It is the legitimate expression of a well-founded public policy and as such is entitled to presentation in the public schools. We hold that the board's refusal to allow us the use of the schools because of a different conception of free speech is therefore untenable.

Second—The board, in arriving at its decision, had presented to it ex-parte evidence which grossly misrepresented the attitude of the American Civil Liberties Union, first, by quoting individual expressions of some of its members out of their context, and second, by making it appear that the organization shares the views of those whose rights it defends. The Union was refused opportunity to present its case directly to the board, which it had repeatedly asked. No hearing was held and no chance was given to answer the charges made.

Third—The decision of the board in fact merely sustained the executive officers of the New York City Board of Education who, it appears from the evidence, maintains a "blacklist" of organizations which are not permitted to hold meetings in public schools. The maintenance of such a list, based as it is on prejudiced, ex-parte statements, is a denial of the fundamental rights of citizens of New York City to hold meetings in their own school buildings, where their objects and personnel are reputable.

Fourth—The school board has assumed by its action to take a partisan stand on public issues, dictating the use of public schools in accordance with such views and prejudices, which exclude those who differ from them from a chance to be heard in public assemblages in school buildings. In this particular case the views of free speech which we voice are the heritage of Americans from early Colonial days. They were expressed by our greatest patriots. They are voiced now by distinguished men and women in public life. They are voiced in dissenting opinions by Justices Brandeis and Holmes of the United States Supreme Court, by Justices Pounds and Cardozo of the New York Court of Appeals, and by other distinguished judges. Such views have a place in our public life. We assert our right to voice them in public school buildings in the city of New York and deny the right of the Board of Education of the city to prescribe what views of free speech may be expressed.

Fifth—The exclusion of the Union from the New York City public schools results in damage to our reputation as a non-partisan defense agency and lends color to the charges made by ill-informed persons that defense of the rights of free speech carries with it agreement with the views uttered. It lends color further to the wholly unfounded charges made by irresponsible and sensation-seeking persons that the Civil Liberties Union is part of a revolutionary conspiracy to overthrow the Government. We, therefore, ask a reversal of the board's action on the ground of substantial damage to our reputation and to the service which we are rendering to the American people by protecting minority and individual rights through the legitimate channels of legal action and propaganda.

Start of Controversy.

The controversy goes back to an application made by the League of Neighbors and the Union of the East and West for a "peace week" meeting in Morris High School in the Bronx. This application was denied, because as alleged by the union, the speakers, Arthur Garfield Hays and James Weldon Johnson, were declared to be on the "blacklist" of individuals and organizations barred from use of the public schools. The American Liberties Union then made application for a meeting in Stuyvesant High School, at which the speakers were to have been Mr. Hays, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Holmes and John Nevin Sayre. This application was refused.

In its appeal the union denies that views expressed by individual members, such as that an alien has the right to advocate in speeches the overthrow of the Government of the United States and that advocacy of murder, unaccompanied by any act, was within the scope of free speech, did not constitute the collective views of the members of the union.

The appeal memorandum charges that the Board of Education has no legal right to have a "blacklist." It continued:

"The problem involved is one which cannot be casually swept aside without menace to fundamental democratic principles. The schools are public property. They are not the property of Republicans, to the exclusion of Democrats, or Protestants to the exclusion of Catholics. They belong to no group, and no group may enjoy any special privilege in them. No question is involved as to the right of the properly constituted authorities, within the limits of the authority conferred on them by the Legislature, to control the education of children.

"No question is involved as to the right of the State, if it seems advisable, to limit the use of school buildings to the education of children. But the State has declared that the buildings may be used for other social and community purposes, and boards of education cannot cut down this right by saying that no one shall use the buildings except to express ideas which are agreeable to them."

FARM PRICES DROP AGAIN IN AUGUST

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The downward trend of prices for farm products is emphasized in a statement issued today by the Department of Agriculture showing that the farm price index on Aug. 15 had declined to 132 per cent. of the pre-war level, continuing the drop which carried it from 139 in June to 135 in July. This index of 132 was 20 points, or about 13 per cent., lower than in August last year, and the lowest reached in nearly two years.

Small price gains in cotton and grains were more than offset by declines in the meat animal and fruit and vegetable groups. Farm prices of corn advanced about 11 per cent. from July 15 to Aug. 15, while the price of hogs dropped about 8 points.

Under July 15 farm prices the price of 100 pounds or hog was equivalent to the price of nearly 18 bushels of corn, while on Aug. 15 this ratio was reduced to less than 15 bushels, the lowest since November, 1925. The farm price of rye increased 7 per cent. and the price of potatoes dropped nearly 20 per cent.

Of the more important farm products for which prices have been determined only five are 159 per cent. of the price received by farmers during the pre-war period of 1909 to 1914, or equivalent to the level of wholesale prices of non-agricultural products, which was 159 per cent. of the pre-war level for July. The five-year period, 1909-1914, was used as the base of 100 for the index of prices of agricultural products.

The farm prices of the five farm products expressed as percentages of the pre-war average were given as: Hogs 161, wool 179, lambs 188, chickens 194 and potatoes 202 per cent. At the other extreme are horses 56 per cent., barley 89, oats 95, rye 120, beef cattle 121, eggs 123 and corn 124.

The purchasing power of agricultural products is also down, according to the department, dropping to 85 in July, which was the lowest level since December, 1924. Decreases in purchasing power are recorded for grains, fruits and vegetables and cotton and cotton seed. Meat animals held their own and dairy products advanced a point.

As compared with last month and a year ago, the index numbers of farm prices on the pre-war base for the five-year period 1909-1914 for Aug. 15 this year were:

	August, 1925.	July, 1926.	August, 1926.
Grains	157	125	128
Fruits and vegetables	178	195	166

Cotton and cottonseed	186	126	130

Hidden Camera Will Be Used by New York Police and Others, Inventor Declares.

WILL SAFEGUARD AUTOS

Nine Others Are Being Made in Rochester—Prosecutors Are Told How It Works.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 29.—There is being manufactured in this city a camera designed to photograph criminals when they blow safes, hold up bank cashiers and express messengers, or steal automobiles. Its use is being considered by the American Express Company, the New York City Police Department, the United States Steel Corporation and other large concerns.

The machine is the invention of John E. Seebold of La Salle, Ill, and ten are in process of manufacture at the Gundlach Optical Company plant on Clinton Street in this city.

One will go to the New York Police Department, which has already experimented with the device, the officials of which, according to Mr. Seebold, believe it may prove of vast benefit in the capture of criminals.

Mr. Seebold explained the "invisible eye" to some of the County District Attorneys who are here for the meeting of the State Association of State and Federal Attorneys, and they were highly interested. He is having the cooperation of the Eastman Kodak Company in the work of completing the machine for general use. He is President of the concern undertaking the manufacture of it.

Hidden Away in Steel.

The camera will be entirely enclosed in steel and will be invisible in a wall, the surface of which is blank, in a filing cabinet or elsewhere, out of sight.

It is supplied with a shutter "eye" which closes automatically.

The entire apparatus is automatic and works either on the pressure of a button, which may be close by or at some distance, or through an attachment to a safe door knob, a mat in front of a safe, or any other method by which an electrical contact may be obtained unknown to the individual making the contact.

Safe burglars working at a safe door in the daytime would be automatically photographed without knowing it. There is also a device for use at night by which a flashlight is set off at a distance from the camera. Thus the robbers might see the flash but would not be aware of its purpose or where it was.

While the perfection of these ten instruments is taking all the attention of the men interested at present, Mr. Seebold expects to manufacture these cameras for use in automobiles, so arranged as to photograph anyone trying to steal the machine.

Gong To Attract Attention.

He said today:

"The camera would be so placed in the machine that it would photograph the man driving without his knowing it. When the owner left the car he would turn on a switch so that the camera would come into action the minute the car was started. The picture would be taken and in a few minutes dropped to the roadway.

"At the same time a gong would sound, attracting attention of passers-by to the photograph, which should then be taken to a police station. In this way the police would come into possession of a photograph of the man who stole the machine a short time after the theft. * * *"

Mr. Seebold exhibited several snapshots taken without the knowledge of the subjects. The camera is 11 inches by 9½.

Maine's 75-Year-Olds Gather To Pitch Quoits, Mow Hay

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 29 (AP).—The Maine Three-quarter Century Club, which now numbers 15,000 members, will hold its second annual meeting here tomorrow. Not one of its members is less than 75 years old and seventeen are 100 years old, or more.

Eight thousand persons are expected to attend the meeting here, during which seven "new" centenarians will receive homage from State officials and be guests at a reception given by Governor and Mrs. Ralph C. Brewster at the historic Blaine mansion, residence of the Governor.

Each of Maine's sixteen counties has selected a county champion to compete in the various contests which include horseshoe pitching, hay-mowing and dancing.

Steal Preacher's Clothes and Car.

BRADLEY BEACH, N. J., Aug. 29.—Thieves are apparently no respecters of the clergy. Bradley Beach police were asked today to search for the automobile, clothes and $40 cash of the Rev. F. Guglielmi, summering at Ocean Grove, an adjacent resort. The clergyman had been bathing at Bradley Beach, and had parked his car on Ocean Avenue, near the beach front, yesterday afternoon. When he returned from his dip in the surf he found that some one had stolen everything, not even leaving him a pair of trousers to clothe himself with for the return to the camp meeting resort.

SMITH WARNS UNION IT MUST END STRIKE

unemployment insurance fund and the setting up of effective machinery for settling all disputes arising while collective agreements are in force.

As you indicate in your letter, the commission has shown keen appreciation of the complexities of the industry, and they have directed their efforts toward basic and permanent improvements.

In their recent and final report the commission made comprehensive recommendations. Among other things, this report outlined a basis for making new contracts between the organized manufacturers and the union and gave powerful reasons why there must be peace and cooperation between these two important bodies if conditions in the industry are not to become more and more chaotic.

These recommendations were accepted by the manufacturers but rejected by the union. While the union repeatedly says that the present strike is directed chiefly against the jobbers, whose position has thus far been uncompromising and whose differences with you are great, you do not deny that its chief weight falls upon the manufacturers, who accepted the commission's report and whose differences with you are much less serious. It is in the establishments of these very manufacturers that the commission found the best conditions as to wages, as to the length of work seasons and as to enforcement of all a reed labor standards.

Height of Fall Season Here.

For eight weeks the strike has been going on and the height of your short Fall season is here. Last week informal conferences between the union and the Industrial Council were held under favorable conditions but no definite result was secured. It was because of this deadlock that I proposed a speedy and final arbitration. Usually it is the employers who hesitate to accept arbitration but this time it is the union.

Your leaders last Wednesday offered certain objections, partly repeated in your letter, to making any settlement with the organized manufacturers until you can reach an agreement with the jobbers. These objections seem to have little force, in view of the admission that you have already settled with a large number of so-called independent manufacturers.

If order and progress are to be established in this complicated situation a beginning must be made at some promising point. Agreement with the manufacturers will easily be followed by agreement with the sub-manufacturers. So far as the jobbers are concerned, you will not be without support in disposing of your issues with them, especially when you shall have worked out an agreement with the Industrial Council of Manufacturers.

You are the leaders who must take responsibilities for not accepting my arbitration proposal, and I sincerely hope that conferences with the various parties may bring early and constructive results. I shall communicate with the several parties, asking them to take in such conferences. I shall also request the Impartial Chairman in your industry to cooperate and to begin by renewing in a more official way the meetings which I understand he initiated a week or two ago. It is to be hoped that all persons taking part in these conferences will do so with a genuine desire to reach agreements.

Should this line of effort not prove to be successful, I shall expect you to consider again the question of arbitration. Very truly yours,

[Signed] ALFRED E. SMITH.

GARMENT STAY REINSTATED.

Protects Designers From Strikers—Put Into Force by Justice Clark.

A temporary injunction issued by Supreme Court Justice Black prohibiting the members and officers of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union from molesting or picketing the members of the designers' organization, subsequently vacated by Supreme Court Justice Crain, has been reinstated with the same force and effect as though it had not been vacated, it was announced yesterday by William Klein, counsel for the United Cloak and Suit Designers Mutual Aid Association of America.

Mr. Klein said that last Saturday Presiding Justice John Proctor Clarke of the Appellate Division of the New York Supreme Court, First Department, had reinstated the injunction, naming Oct. 8 as the date set for further argument.

Justice Crain vacated the injunction because of a technicality, explained Mr. Klein. In the papers presented to Justice Clarke it was alleged by the designers that the acts of the defendants were unlawful and illegal, as the union accepted the recommendations of the Governor's Special Commission when it suited its convenience and "sulked and refused to accept the recommendations" when the commission ruled against the union on some points and granted some measures of relief to the manufacturers.

Citing as a reason why the designers sought to restrain picketing and to prevent union members from entering their homes, Mr. Klein said:

"Our application to Justice Clarke contained affidavits reciting the details of an attack upon a designer on the day that the temporary injunction was vacated by Justice Crain. It was submitted by Manuel Fischman, a designer for the firm of David Zimet of 500 Seventh Avenue. Fischman is now in the Roosevelt Hospital under observation to ascertain whether or not his skull was fractured in the assault. He told of being accosted daily by pickets between July 1 and the day of the attack. His experience is typical of that of a score of other designers. It is difficult to believe that unwarranted brutality of this kind can occur in the heart of the city. Fischman's affidavit described it as follows:

"'On Aug. 26 as I left my residence at 52 West Seventy-sixth Street at 8 A. M., on my way to work, and as I was about to reach Columbus Avenue, two men who had been following me down the street since I left my home, accosted me, while a third, who was one of the men who has been picketing in front of the factory in which I was employed and to whom I was pointed out by the shop chairman, joined them. All three men then proceeded to beat me over my face, head, body and arms with blackjacks and with their fists. The first blow was administered with some heavy weapon on my cheek. I tried to escape but they continued to hit me with their blackjacks until I fell. Then one of the men kicked me in the face and body. They continued to beat me until my screams drove them away. I attempted to follow them but because I was so weak from loss of blood I was unable to do so. I was thereafter taken in a taxicab to Roosevelt Hospital. As a result of the beating which was administered to me I have a large and deep cut on my scalp which required five stitches, and the hospital doctors advised me that they are uncertain as to whether or not my skull has been fractured, and I am now awaiting results of an X-ray examination.'

"The injunction is sweeping and comprehensive. It prohibits the union members from interfering, in any way at all, with the designers."

TRAINS STILL HOLD RECORD.

Trip From Los Angeles to New York Made in 69 Hours 11 Minutes.

James L. G. Fitzpatrick of 214 East Thirty-ninth Street called attention to the fact yesterday that the statement crediting Louis B. Miller with having broken all train records across the continent in his recent motor run in 83 hours and 12 minutes was not absolutely correct. Much less time has been made by several special trains, he said.

The fastest time ever made was by the special train on March 19, 1924, which brought Mrs. Alfred Smith, wife of the late President of the New York Central Railroad, to New York from Los Angeles at the time of her husband's death. It covered the distance in 69 hours and 11 minutes. From Los Angeles to Chicago the time was 49 hours and 17 minutes. The run from Chicago, over the New York Central tracks, was made in 19 hours and 54 minutes.

Mr. Fitzpatrick said also that the Harriman special train crossed the continent in 71 hours and 27 minutes in 1906.

AUTO CRASHES KILL THREE UP-STATE

Two Deaths Caused by One Car Running Into Two Others Near Catskill.

BROOKLYN BOY A VICTIM

Woman Dies and Three Are Hurt in a Collision Between Cars in South Jersey.

ALBANY, Aug. 29 (AP).—Three persons were killed and a score reported injured in automobile accidents in Eastern New York today.

The Dead.

The dead are:

CLARENCE TRANSUE, 61, East Stroudsburg, Pa.

Mrs. CLARENCE TRANSUE, 65, same address.

JOHN CRESPI JR., 11, Brooklyn.

The Injured.

Among the injured are:

Mrs. FRANK KRISPAUGH, East Stroudsburg, Pa.; seriously hurt.

ELMER C. WOODRUFF, North Bergen, N. J.

Miss MARY SHERIDAN, West New York.

AUGUST C. GOLDSMITH, West New York.

ESTHER CRESPI, 13, Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Transue were killed a mile south of Catskill in a collision between two cars, said to have been caused by a third speeding car, which did not stop after the accident. Police are searching for this car, which was slightly damaged in the crash.

Mr. Transue was driving his automobile, in which were Mrs. Transue, Virginia and Mrs. Krispaugh. They were on their way to visit a sister of Mrs. Transue in Saratoga Springs. They met a car going south, driven by Mr. Woodruff, in which were Miss Sheridan and Mr. Goldsmith.

Witnesses said the two cars turned properly to pass each other, but a third car, driven at high speed, cut in between them, throwing them from their course. The Transue car went down a slight embankment into a field. Mr. and Mrs. Transue were thrown out.

John Crespi was killed and his sister, Esther, painfully injured, when a car driven by their father left the road near Ticonderoga and overturned.

WOMAN DIES IN CRASH.

Three Are Hurt In Collision Near Tuckahoe, N. J.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 29.—A woman was killed and three others injured when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into another one early this afternoon on the seashore road in Tuckahoe.

The woman killed was Mrs. Margaret Marr, 34 years old, of Florence, N. J. She died within a few minutes after being removed from the wreckage. Edmund Haines of Germantown, driver of the second car, was arrested and held in $5,000 bail on a technical charge of manslaughter. Other occupants of the Marr automobile injured were Catherine Marr, a daughter; J. R. Coates, a brother of the dead woman, and Thomas Marr, the husband, who was driving.

The Marrs were returning to their home from a short vacation at Stone Harbor. As they were passing a filling station in Tuckahoe Haines swerved his car around to go in the opposite direction. As he did so both machines collided. The Marr automobile was upset.

Theresa Frederico, 20, of Blue Anchor, was run down by an alleged "hit-and-run" driver on the back road, five miles outside of Hammonton tonight, and died soon afterward. Grace Caputo, 17, who was walking with Miss Frederico, also was struck and is in a serious condition.

John Stewart picked up the two girls and took them to the office of Dr. A. L. Esposito in Hammonton. The Frederico girl died a few minutes later.

An unidentified man about 35 years old was killed last night by an auto bus owned by the Department of Plant and Structures of New York City.

The accident occurred at Queens Boulevard and Packard Street in Long Island City. The driver of the bus, questioned by detectives, said the man had stepped directly in front of the vehicle and that the accident was unavoidable. The body was taken to the Hunters Point Police Station. The bus was filled with passengers.

Four persons were injured yesterday when two automobiles collided at Northern Boulevard and Fifty-third Street, Woodside, Queens. The police said that the accident was caused by misunderstanding of signals.

George Milliken of 4 Doden Lane, Flushing, driver of one automobile, was cut on the head and nose. Harvey Smith, 31 years old, of 30 Mitchell Avenue, Flushing, a passenger in Milliken's car, was cut on the head and knee; Cora Reinberg, 18 years old, of the Hotel Alexander, West 103d Street, Manhattan, also a passenger in Milliken's car, was cut on the head and left leg.

John Watrol of 30 Lexington Avenue, Maspeth, Queens, the other driver, suffered a fractured leg. All four persons were taken to St. John's Hospital, Long Island City, for treatment and then sent to their homes.

THREE HURT IN 5TH AV. AS PLANKING CAVES IN

Woman and Two Men Drop 30 Feet to Rock Pile in Excavation for Savoy-Plaza Hotel.

A young woman and two men were injured yesterday when a temporary wooden sidewalk erected by the George A. Fuller Company over the excavation at the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street collapsed, dropping them thirty feet on to a pile of loose rock.

The section that gave way was about twenty feet long and four feet wide. Laborers rushed to the assistance of the injured. The woman was unconscious, and the two men were pinned under fallen timbers. They were hastily carried up a wooden stairway leading to Fifty-eighth Street. Ambulance surgeons hurriedly summoned treated the woman, Miss Tula Hanson, of 41 East Sixty-second Street, for lacerations of the head.

Andrew Claret of 555 West Fortyfifth Street, sustained a fracture of his left leg. Max Foot of 101 East Eighty-seventh Street, received contusions of the back. The three were removed to Reception Hospital, where it was said their condition was not serious.

Only one laborer was working underneath the section when it fell. He heard the grinding of the timbers in time to escape. Four women had been waiting for a bus on the weak planking, and had left it just before it gave way.

The United States Realty Corporation is building the new Savoy-Plaza Hotel on the site. The excavating was done by the Foundation Company of 120 Liberty Street.

CHILDREN RIDE WELL IN OWN HORSE SHOW

EXCITING TREASURE HUNT

Miss Frances Hyde Discovers Gold at Maidstone Club, East Hampton—200 on Trail.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 29.—Mrs. F. Ashton De Peyster's bay gelding King George won the cup presented by Mrs. William A. Barstow for the best horse in the Southampton junior horse show yesterday afternoon. The show, for the benefit of local charities, brought out more than 500 members of the Summer colony.

The show committee included Miss Frances Robbins, President; Miss Theodora Barstow, Vice President; Miss Gertrude Van Der Poel, Secretary; Miss Barbara Van Der Poel, Treasurer, and the Misses Lois Barstow, Evelyn Dows, Alison Morice, Virginia Thaw, Peggy Dunne, Alice De Peyster, Anne Nicholas and Louise Victer.

One of the features was the side-saddle class, an innovation this year. Most of the children never had ridden side-saddle before. The cup, presented by Benjamin Welles, went to Theodora Barstow, riding Little Dave. The Aylward Riding Academy's Jaffo was second; Evelyn Dow's Shining Bachelor was third, and Primrose Whitfield's Peter Diamond, fourth.

Riders Change Horses.

Further tests for the youngsters came in the two classes for best rider under 14 and for best rider between 14 and 16. One of the conditions was that the six best riders change horses. Primrose Whitfield won the cup in the first class. Alva Root was second, James McDonnell Jr., third, and Alice De Peyster, fourth. In the other class, Helen De Peyster won the cup, presented by Mrs. Sumner Welles; Evelyn Dows was second, Frances Robbins, third, and Lois Barstow, fourth.

In the class for ponies, Beauty, ridden by Marie Murray, was first; Barbara Belmont's Beauty, second; James Murray's Lady, third, and Mary Cutting's Brownie, fourth.

Frances Robbin's Blarney was first in the class for saddle horses under fifteen hands. Elizabeth Munn's Ginger was second, Mrs. Harold Brooks McGinty, third, and Joseph Davis's horse, fourth.

Alice De Peyster, on Richmond, won the junior jumping performance and the cup presented by Mrs. F. Q. Barstow.

Florence Welcker's Loves Guide won the cup given by Mrs. Henry Asher Robbins in the open saddle class for horses 15 hands and under 15.2. Betty Condon's Gee Whiz was second, Dorothy Davis's entry, third, and Lois Barstow's Polo, fourth.

The open saddle class for horses over 15.2 was won by Florence Welcker's Beau Geste. The cup was presented by Miss Doris Francklyn. Alice De Peyster's Richmond was second and Mrs. F. A. De Peyster's King George, third.

Cups and prizes were also given by Mrs. Theron Strong, Henry E. Coe, Mrs. Robert Walter, Mrs. Henry P. Rogers, Mrs. Harry P. Robbins, Mrs. William Thaw 3d, Mrs. S. Oakley Van Der Poel and Halsted Van Der Poel.

Horse show dinners were given by Miss Florence Welcker, at the home of her parents; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Welcker, on Shinnecock Hills, and Miss Rachel Lambert, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard B. Lambert.

Treasure Hunt at East Hampton.

There was a thrilling close to the East Hampton treasure hunt yesterday afternoon. Miss Frances Hyde discovered $100 in gold, hidden in an old oak chest at the Maidstone Club. About two hundred members of the colony participated in the event, which started with a breakfast at the club at noon. The first clue, posted at the club, read:

For the glory of the nation,
Flying free upon the air,
Waves the emblem of your country
On a green of beauty rare.

The hunters dashed away in their cars to the village green, where the next clue pointed to the country store at Sagaponac. There a "farmer true," John Devereaux, gave them the next clue. Mrs. A. C. Vandiver, as a "Chinese belle," furnished another clue. A scarecrow pointed the way at a cross-road, and Edward Simmons, as a seafaring "gob," handed out candy, which clue led the hunters to the lifesaving station. From the ocean the trail led across country. Mr. and Mrs. Phelan Beale furnished a clue that finally led the crowd back to the club.

Hundreds Attend Dinner Dance.

The dinner dance at the Maidstone Club yesterday was attended by several hundred people. Miss Beth Miller and Miss Jane Murdock entertained forty-five young people. Mrs. William H. Woodin had twenty guests and Mr. and Mrs. James McMann fourteen. Other hosts and hostesses were Mrs. Ernest Hopkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Cody, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Talmadge, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Jewett, Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Hyde and S. G. Williams.

John Drew and his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Devereaux, gave a luncheon today for sixty-five at their home in Lily Pond Lane, East Hampton. Among their guests were Ethel Barrymore, niece of Mr. Drew; Mr. and Mrs. Lyon Gardiner, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gallatin, Mrs. John Vernon Bouvier Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. De C. Chisholm, Mr. and Mrs. William Leslie, Mr. and Mrs. De Forest Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. George Ethridge, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Hamlin, Mr. and Mrs. Louis de Koven, Dr. and Mrs. F. K. Hollister, Mr. and Mrs. David Heller, Mr. and Mrs. William Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Keck, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred B. Leaman and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Appleton.

Miss Jean S. Graves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Graves of East Hampton, entertained the younger set today at their home in Lily Pond Lane.

Many of East Hampton's Summer residents attended a joint dramatic and song program given by Dwight Fiske and Paul Leyssac and Miss Leslie Frick at the home of Mrs. Charles De Kay tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Claflin gave a dinner for thirty tonight at their Shinnecock Hills home for Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Mellon, who are spending the Summer at The Orchard.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davis of New York are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Fincke of Southampton.

Mrs. Charles J. Coulter of Tuxedo Park is spending a few days with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Coulter, at their Bridgehampton Road cottage.

FINDS SPIRITUAL LIFE NEEDED IN CIVILIZATION

Dr. John H. Randall Says Interest in Material Things Must Yield to Love of God.

"What Constitutes a Civilized People?" was the topic of a sermon delivered yesterday morning by the Rev. Dr. John Herman Randall, associate pastor, at the Community Church, Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street. Dr. Randall spoke of the age of Pericles and of the ancient culture of China and India in contrast to our "so-called Western civilization," which, he said, is only in the adolescent stage.

"Is it really possible, when humanity has reached a certain point in civilization, for it to go any further?" Dr. Randall asked. "Scientists tell us that it is only a question of time when this little obscure planet of ours will go the way of all others. They estimate the time to be two billion years, so we have a little leeway yet. Those that come after us will be able to continue our civilization and make it worthy of the intellectual love of God."

Dr. Randall pointed out "two false ideas about civilization," namely, "the world of humanity is divided into two classes, civilized and uncivilized," and, "our type of civilization is necessarily the best type.". He said, "We have only to read the newspapers of the past twelve years to see how our blind self-complacency has been shaken. We have had many different types of civilization and we must realize that our Western civilization is only one type and that it is not the best. The idea that it is the best is absurd to the extreme.

"The accumulation of material things does not constitute real civilization. When future states become less interested in the distribution of material things and look more to the spiritual life, then our civilization will really start."

MARINES QUIET BLUEFIELDS.

Nicaraguan Port Rejoices at the Presence of American Force.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 29 (AP).—With American marines and sailors landed at Bluefields, the residents are rejoicing, as an attack on the city by the revolutionary forces was momentarily expected.

The Americans arrived at Bluefields yesterday morning on the cruiser Galveston, and came ashore in the afternoon. Bluefields was immediately declared a neutral zone, and both Government and revolutionary leaders were notified that all fighting must be done outside the city. A further order was issued that no arms would be allowed to be carried in the city.

Reports had been current that a large revolutionary force was advancing on Bluefields, but it is expected that the American action will delay the forward movement, at least temporarily.

PIER STRIKERS SEEK FEDERAL MEDIATION

To Ask Railway Board to Bring Together Marine Company Officials and Employes.

NO STRIKE, SAY EMPLOYERS

Men Who Walked Out Are No Longer Workers, They Declare—Contend There Are 650 at Work.

The Federal Railway Board of Mediation will be asked today to arrange a conference of officials of the New York Marine Company and employes engaged in the handling of freight on Piers 20 and 21, Duane Street and the North River, who have been on strike for two weeks, demanding an increase of wages, an eight-hour day, improved working conditions and recognition of their union.

Henry J. Chapman, general representative of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes, will proceed to Washington today to request action by the board of mediation. Thus far, officials of the company have refused to confer with the strike leaders, holding there is nothing to discuss. They did hear Mr. Chapman when he started to unionize the men a few days after they had quit.

Thomas Reilly led the men when they decided, Sunday night, Aug. 15, that they would not do the regular night's work unless their demands were granted on the spot. About 400 men are supposed to be unionized now. Many men, however, have obtained other work, so that the pickets near the piers each day total less than 100.

William J. Hayes, Superintendent of Piers, said last night that there was no strike so far as the company was concerned. The men who walked out were no longer employes. Michael Buckley, Vice Presidest of the company, has expressed the same opinion.

About 650 men were employed at the piers last evening, unloading about 270 cars, Mr. Hayes declared. This is slightly below the normal volume of freight. No difficulty is experienced in obtaining workers, he said, and about 300 applicants were turned away last evening.

Mr. Reilly alleges that the company has been obliged to employ many more men than usual because of the unskilled type now working on the piers. Of the men who have returned to work from the strikers' ranks, few are experienced, he said.

Mr. Reilly has challenged Mason Grimes, President of the New York Marine Company, to cause his arrest for charges he has made that two company men offered $3,500 to him and Secretary Burns of the union to leave the city or cause the strikers to return to work. The offer of $500 originally made was increased at the strike leaders' demands, he said, in the presence of witnesses.

Mr. Reilly said yesterday that telephone calls made by the would-be bribers during the conversations on the subject were traced to the offices or homes of Erie Railway officials. He made this charge at a meeting of the strikers and repeated it yesterday.

'Countess Maritza' Here on Sept. 16.

"Countess Maritza" will begin its New York engagement on Sept. 16 at the Shubert Theatre. This operetta, with an Emmerich Kalman score, has already played in Philadelphia and Atlantic City. In the cast are Yvonne D'Arle, Walter Woolf, Odette Myrtil, Harry K. Morton, Carl Randall, George Hassell, Vivian Hart and Nat Wagner.

Atlantic City Music Memory Contest

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 29.—Edwin Franko Goldman, bandmaster, announced from the stage of the Steel Pier today a music memory contest. Excerpts from thirty-five compositions are to be played the night of Sept. 9 and contestants will be required to give names of composers and the works played.

Dog as an Aid to the Army Gets Official Recognition

Dogs are in the army now. Not that there has ever been an army encampment or garrison post without a pup or two to cheer up the doughboys, but for the first time they have an official standing, recognized by army regulations. The new regulations, just made public, authorize the use of dogs for various duties such as pulling sleds across the northern snows, or acting as messengers to carry relief appeals.

"Dogs affiliate with men better than any other animal," the regulations say, "they are easily handled, and are economical in feeding, especially in view of the wonderful amount of work that can be gotten out of them."

MISS M'CORMICK MEETS RETURNING GODPARENTS

Miss Muriel McCormick, daughter of Harold F. McCormick of Chicago and granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, went down the Bay yesterday afternoon on a United States Coast Guard cutter to meet the White Star liner Adriatic at Quarantine. The cutter left the Batery at 2:30 P. M. and the Adriatic did not reach Quarantine until 5:30 P. M., which gave Miss McCormick three hours to study the methods of the customs and immigration service in boarding steamships in New York Harbor.

Lieut. Colonel William J. Costigan, the Deputy Surveyor in charge of the cutter, lent her his marine glasses and explained the different vessels as they came into view.

After the Health Officers had cleared the Adriatic, Miss McCormick ran up the accommodation ladder to the deck and embraced her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. McKinlock of Forest Hill, Ill., whom she will accompany to their lodge in the Adirondacks.

Miss McCormick wore a green dress of medium shade, a brown hat of the latest model and heavy oxford shoes. On the cutter she sat most of the time on the big chest used for life belts.

STADIUM AUDIENCE STIRRED.

Van Hoogstraten Delights It With Tchaikovsky—Season Near End.

Another large audience attended the concert given by the Philharmonic Orchestra, under Willem van Hoogstraten, at the Stadium last night. Mozart had the first part of the program to himself, so that no jarring modern note might disturb the beauty of his "Jupiter" symphony. Mr. van Hoogstraten gave, after great applause and recalls, "In the Hall of the Mountain King," from Grieg's "Peer Gynt Suite," presumably to emphasize the wide difference between the two works.

Tchaikovsky's "Francesca da Rimini," with its intense emotionalism, wrought the audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm. Even when the orchestra had risen, Mr. van Hoogstraten found it necessary to give a second encore, Sibelius's "Valse Triste."

Debussy's two dances orchestrated by Ravel came next on the program, which concluded with the "Ride of the Valkyries."

Tonight Mr. van Hoogstraten will direct Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Scheherazade" and Beethoven's Fifth Symphony.

Tomorrow night will be the close of the season. Mr. von Hoogstraten will give a request program chosen by the votes of the Stadium audiences and including Tchaikovsky's "Pathetique," Richard Strauss's "Don Juan," J. Strauss's "Tales from the Vienna Woods," and Tchaikovsky's "1812" overture.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

Restraining Exuberance.

FINE MANNERS, with Gloria Swanson, Eugene O'Brien, Helen Dunbar, Walter Goss, John Miltern and others, adapted from a story by James Ashmore Creelman and Frank Vreeland, directed by Richard Rosson; overture, "La Gioconda"; Murtagh at the organ; "Yester Thoughts," ballads of bygone days, devised and staged by Paul Oscard. At the Rivoli.

The theme of Gloria Swanson's new pictorial effort, "Fine Manners," occasionally is vaguely reminiscent of George Bernard Shaw's play, "Pygmalion," but it is hardly probable that the Irish playwright would feel intensely flattered by the mention of the two subjects in the same paragraph. The photoplay has been constructed with meticulous attention to the edicts of the movie school of conventionalities; true characterization, intrigue and subtlety are conspicuously absent. Still, the idea of introducing a chorus girl from a burlesque show and having her try valiantly to grasp the ways of a less demonstrative society, does bring to mind Shaw's cockney heroine.

As it not infrequently happens in motion pictures, the hero of this affair is handsome, good and immensely wealthy; the heroine is pretty but poor. James Ashmore Creelman and Frank Vreeland, the authors, in bringing these two persons together emphasize the girl's ignorance of ordinary social amenities and give her the name of Orchid Murphy. The man in the case is known as Brian Alden, and, like most young men in this type of screen subject, he leaps into a love affair with the gir. What is also not unusual, he finds, immediately after proposing marriage to Orchid, that he must leave on a six months' tour of South America. You wonder why he does not take Orchid with him, but that would be a terrible mistake, for then the Aunt would never get the chance of disturbing the course of true love by admonishing Orchid to control her exuberance and reminding the girl that people who know what's what never make a "vulgar display of their emotions." This would have been all very well with a restrained young person, but Orchid is in the habit of giving vent to her joie de vivre by turning cartwheels in the drawing room. The consequence is that Brian is deeply disappointed when he returns to find a blasé little Orchid. He scolds his Aunt for having robbed the girl of her vivacity and spark.

Richard Rosson has to get the credit or take the blame for this effusion. Two other directors worked on the picture before him, and while it was in course of production Miss Swanson was indisposed. There are one or two scenes in which the photography is quite clever, but the narrative as a whole is not especially absorbing, which at times may be a virtue, as it gives you the opportunity of thinking of other things that must be done during that day or the next.

Miss Swanson is attractive, but her boyish bob suits her better than the coiffure she has in this film. She manages, as Orchid, to elude most easily the eyes of her brother; she makes signals and draws a question mark on her hand, which causes one to reflect that many characters in films suddenly have to be dumb or blind to carry out the effect of a scene.

Eugene O'Brien figures as Brian. His performance is moderately interesting. Walter Goss plays the part of Orchid's brother, with a stare, a scowl and an imaginary pistol in his pocket.

This particular film is not one that is apt to improve Mr. Shaw's opinion of motion pictures in general, even if there is a hint of "Pygmalion."

Other Photoplays.

Buster Keaton's comedy, "Battling Buttler," is at the Capitol.

"Beau Geste," with Ronald Colman, is at the Criterion; "The Big Parade," with John Gilbert, at the Astor; "The Scarlet Letter," with Lillian Gish, at the Central; "So This Is Paris," at the Cameo; the Vitaphone, and also John Barrymore in "Don Juan," are at Warners; "Ben-Hur," is at the Embassy; "Padlocked," at the Broadway, and Harold Lloyd in "For Heaven's Sake," at the Brooklyn Strand.

Mimi Aguglia's Repertoire.

Among the plays in which Mimi Aguglia, Italian actress, will appear during her four weeks' engagement in repertory at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, beginning next Monday evening, are "Zaza," "Malia Malamata," "Americana a Parigi," "Monaca Bianca" ("The White Sister"), "Figlia di Iorio" and "Madama Sans Gene." This program will be augmented by other plays in French and Spanish to be announced later. Vincent Ferrau will be chief in the supporting company.

Ames to Show 'White Wings' Oct. 4.

Winthrop Ames's first production of the new season will be "White Wings," by Philip Barry, author of "You and I" and "In a Garden." "White Wings" will open in New York on Oct. 4. Because of the success of "Iolanthe," Mr. Ames has not set a definite date for his next Gilbert and Sullivan revival.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Three new plays constitute tonight's list of openings—"Service for Two" at the Gaiety Theatre; "The De ovan Affair" at the Fulton, and "The Adorable Liar" at the Forty-ninth Street.

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne arrive today on the Columbus and will immediately begin rehearsals of "Juarez and Maximilian," which is to be the Theatre Guild's first production this Fall. Tomorrow night Miss Fontanne rejoins the cast of "At Mrs. Beam's," replacing Estelle Winwood.

Wanda Lyon, Edward Crandall and Hubert Druce have been engaged to appear with Holbrook Blinn in the Molnar play, known in the German as "Spiel im Schloss."

"Honest Liars" will move from the Sam H. Harris Theatre to the George M. Cohan on Labor Day.

Frank Mandel, playwright and member of the firm of Schwab & Mandel, has returned from a three months' trip to the Pacific Coast. He will finish work on "Lady Fair," the operetta he is writing with Otto Harbach, Oscar Hammerstein 2d and Sigmund Romberg, to be produced after "Queen High."

The Hippodrome will reopen for the season at noon today with its new policy of continuous vaudeville and picture presentations.

"Laff That Off" will continue at Wallack's Theatre. A new company is being engaged to act the comedy here, the present group of players being under contract to open soon in Philadelphia.

The Century Theatre Opera Company of 150 persons has left for Chicago, where it will begin its tour in Gilbert and Sullivan's repertory at the Auditorium on Wednesday night. "The Mikado" and "Pinafore" will be among the presentations.

Recent additions to the cast of "Black Boy," in which Paul Robeson will be starred, include Charles Henderson, Frederick Waslington and Edward Gargan.

The Australian rights of "They Knew What They Wanted" have been sold to J. C. Williamson, Ltd., by the Theatre Guild.

A London revival of "Madame X," in which Pauline Frederick is to appear, is announced. Miss Frederick is now starring in the play in Los Angeles.

Robert Warwick, Gladys Frazin, Morgan Wallace, Edwin Mordant and Bernard Reinold will appear in the play tentatively entitled "Starved," which Samuel Wallack is to present in Atlantic City on Sept. 15.

Charles Ellis has been engaged for "We Americans."

"The Radio Murder," by Dana V. Rush and John Milton Hagen, is scheduled for Broadway presentation soon.

B. F. Witbeck, producer of "The Little Spitfire," will present another comedy by Myron C. Fagan, "The Fascinating Devil."

'LITTLE' THEATRES ARE SPREADING FAST

Survey Shows That There Are About 1,000 Producing Groups in the United States.

TO HAVE NATIONAL BUREAU

Clearing House Finds That $5,000,000 a Year Is Being Spent to Promote Independent Theatres.

A survey of the experimental, little and "art" theatres of the country has been initiated by the Independent Theatres Clearing House, Manny Strauss, Chairman of the Clearing Committee, announced yesterday. About $5,000,000 a year is being spent to promote the various kinds of independent theatres in America, the clearing house officials estimate, and in their survey they will endeavor to ascertain and to let the public know just how wisely this sum is being expended. The clearing house organization proposes to take a census of independent producing groups of all sorts, including those generally termed "amateur" and "semi-professional," as well as such companies as the Theatre Guild and the Actors' Theatre. College and university theatres will be included.

Information is being sought particularly regarding the subsidies at the disposal of the various producing companies. According to the clearing house estimates, the actual cash subsidy enjoyed by the non-commercial theatres probably amounts to less than half a million dollars annually. But to this is added the rental values of such buildings as the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York, the Goodman Memorial Theatre in Chicago and the new community theatres in Pasadena and Santa Barbara, Cal. Among the new buildings to be occupied by independent groups during the coming season are the Dallas Little Theatre, now being erected at a cost of $45,000, and the Cleveland Playhouse, which will be a plant containing two complete theatres, workshops and offices. Within five years, it is said, the independent theatre movement has progressed to a point where about 1,000 producing groups are concerned, ranging from amateur clubs to the large institutional playhouses. In addition to the subsidy received by the independent theatres collectively, the investigators have found that the annual subsidies to the schools of the theatre in America run into several millions of dollars.

Following the survey, which is being made under the direction of Sheldon Cheney, director of the clearing house, a national service bureau for the "art" and community theatres will be established in New York. It is hoped to have preliminary results of the survey ready for announcement at the Independent Theatres dinner to be held at the Hotel Astor on Oct. 3.

GALA THEATRE OPENING.

Gift Owners of the Second Avenue to Charge $11 a Seat Friday Night.

The Second Avenue Theatre will open Friday night for the first time since its former owner, Joseph Edelstein, presented it last Spring to five of his employes as a reward for faithful service. Elaborate plans are being made for the opening night, for which tickets will sell for $11 a seat, a record for theatres outside the Broadway district. Mayor Walker has been invited to attend, as have Judge Max S. Levine, Borough President Julius Miller and other public officials.

The new owners, Joseph Rumshinsky, composer; Jacob Kalich, stage director; Max Sager, William Pasternak and Nathan Parnes of the business office, will present a musical comedy, "The Little Devil," with Molly Picon, as their first production. Mr. Edelstein will be unable to be present to see how his "boys" made their first effort, as he is in Europe, but his wife and son will be guests of honor.

Century Comic Opera in Chicago.

The Century Theatre Comic Opera Company of New York will open a limited engagement at the Chicago Auditorium Theatre on Wednesday. "The Mikado" and "H.M.S. Pinafore" will be given the first two weeks. It is planned to present not only the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, but the works of other composers of comic opera and opéra comique. Milton Aborn is in charge of the Shubert productions. The cast for "The Mikado" includes Frank Moulan, William Danforth, Charles Gallagher, the new Japanese soprano, Hisa Koike; Stella de Mette, Velai Pranz, Jeanne Beverly and William Clark.

WHO SHALL JUDGE HER GUILTY?

NO wonder "The Scarlet Letter" has become the most discussed offering in New York today. Thousands who are daily enthralled by this intensely interesting picture at the Central Theatre are talking about its absorbing theme.

WAS she to blame? Would Society today brand her with the mark of shame for her love-guilt? Who shall judge this innocent maid, so sincere in her tender devotion for the handsome young pastor!

NEVER such a picture before. A theme of delicacy has been graciously handled. Nathaniel Hawthorne's great American novel has become a truly magnificent film. All praise to Lillian Gish, its star, and to Victor Seastrom, its director. The N. Y. American says: "The picture takes its place with the other Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer hits, 'The Big Parade' and 'Ben-Hur.'" Never such an advance sale. We suggest that you go to the box-office of the Central Theatre, Broadway and 47th Street, and purchase tickets now for the performance of your choice.

interest but said he did not wish to incur financial responsibility.

Then, said Captain Berry, he and Colonel Hartney approached Robert Jackson, a wealthy paper manufacturer of Concord, N. H., and President of the Argonauts, who agreed to furnish a substantial amount of capital. Later he obtained $10,000 from John Jamerson, also of Concord. Others who furnished money, according to Captain Berry, were O. A. Dickerson of the Sikorsky Manufacturing Company, which built the plane; Colonel Hartney and himself. Captain Berry said he gave $5,000 "in time and money," and paid all his expenses in connection with the flight.

In December, 1924, on the eve of going to South America on business, Captain Berry received a promise, he said, from Colonel Hartney to the effect that he would be the leader of the transatlantic flight. While he was away Colonel Hartney met Captain Fonck in Washington and interested him in the venture.

Declares Fonck Agreed.

Captain Berry said he did not know what arrangement Colonel Hartney had with Captain Fonck. He did say, however, that he had a letter written by Colonel Hartney last June, agreeing that if a crew of three was taken he would be the third man. The letter is said to bear an "O. K." and the signature of Captain Fonck. Captain Berry tried to reach the Colonel last night by telephone at his home in Great Neck, L. I., but was unsuccessful.

In addition to his accusations against Captain Fonck and Lieutenant Snody, Captain Berry charged that the flight was being made a commercial matter by the Sikorsky Manufacturing Company, which built the giant three-engined airplane for the flight. He said the Sikorsky officials were taking advantage of Lieutenant Snody's navy ranking to interest the United States Navy in Sikorsky products.

"If that is true, then I step out of the whole business," said Captain Berry heatedly. "I don't care whether they take me along or not."

Mr. Jackson, the chief financial backer of the expedition, is in Paris, waiting to greet the airmen when they arrive next month. Captain Fonck has predicted that he and his men would land in Paris by Sept. 25 at the latest.

SIKORSKY PLANE TESTED.

Fonck Flies Over City to Gauge Gasoline Consumption.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTBURY, L. I., Aug. 29.—The three-motor Sikorsky airplane in which American and French aviators led by Captain René Fonck, the French ace, expect to fly from New York to Paris late next month, flew repeatedly over New York City yesterday in a test of its gasoline consumption. Captain Fonck piloted the plane during the tests, and in it were Lieutenant A. P. Snody, U. S. N., who will act as relief pilot on the flight; Igor Sikorsky, designer of the plane, and mechanics and others, bringing the total number of persons in the plane to ten.

During its flight the plane accomplished something new for three-motor aircraft, according to Mr. Sikorsky. It not only maintained itself in flight with only the central motor running, but it climbed a little besides. The plane also was flown successfully with first one and then the other of the outboard motors running and the others idle.

Today's tests showed that the plane consumed 17 gallons of gasoline per hour per motor. At this rate the plane would have a cruising radius of fifteen hours more than the 36 hours which it is expected to take for the non-stop hop to Paris. These calculations are only tentative, however, for further gasoline tests will be made.

On its way to New York City the plane flew from Westbury over Jamaica and Astoria. It made two trips from Central Park to the Battery and back. It was flying so high, however, that it is probable that relatively few persons saw it.

DENIES TROUBLE OVER FLIGHT.

Argonaut President Says Fonck Will Not Abandon Project.

Copyright, 1926, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—Robert Jackson of Concord, N. H., President of the Argonauts, today denied that trouble existed among the transatlantic fliers and that possibly Captain René Fonck would abandon his proposed flight to Paris.

"I received a cable from my personal representative in New York saying that everything is proceeding satisfactorily and Captain Fonck hopes to hop off possibly Sept. 5," said Mr. Jackson. "It is true that about a week ago there was some friction between Captain Fonck and other members but that merely was a minor dispute concerning the relative values of different lubricating oils, which now is settled.

"The rumors that insist Lieutenant George Noville resigned as flight engineer are ridiculous, as Lieutenant Noville never had anything to do with the enterprise. My representative is in close touch with all concerned and is keeping me informed by cable daily."

KOENIG BACK AT SHORTSTOP

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

The Yankees scored a trim and orderly victory over the Tigers yesterday before a placid crowd of 45,000 that found little to get worked up about. The New Yorkers' batting was powerful, their pitching unbeatable and their fielding smooth and snappy.

The Tigers were out of it the minute George Herman Ruth smashed to two-bagger to right with the bases full in the first inning. This lethal swat drove in three runs and gave Urban Shocker the makings of an easy 6-1 victory.

If Johnny Tavener, the Tigers' shortstop had not taken it into his head to hit a homer in the third inning, Shocker would have had a shutout. It was rather late in life for Mr. Tavener to think about hitting homers. This is his third season in the major leagues, and it was not until yesterday that he conceived the notion that if one smacked a ball hard enough it might go out of the lot for a home run.

Shocker otherwise was all guile and deception and held the slugging Bengals to the rather puny total of six hits. The upper end of the batting order munched peacefully out of Urban's grimy hand. Of the leaders, Blue, Manush and Fothergill and Heilmann, Manush was the only safe hitter, and his double didn't appear until the eighth.

Rip Collins Under Heavy Fire.

By that time Rip Collins had retired under heavy gunfire and the Yanks were running along under a full head of steam. Collins moved out at the end of the fourth with the score 6-1 against him, and there it stayed while Gus Johns and George Smith were mopping up the ruined area.

The third and fifth were Shocker's only troublous sessions. In the last four innings three Tigers got on the base lines.

Mr. Huggins again tinkered with his lineup and sent Mark Koenig back to shortstop on the ground that Mike Gazella had shown little or nothing to earn himself a regular job. Koenig immediately broke out in a rash of three hits and attended to everything which came in his general direction.

Earl Combs was hit by his own foul ball in the eighth and damaged his right leg. He limped off the field assisted by Lou Gehrig and may not be able to play for the next few days.

The first three Yankees got on and created that ideal situation known as Babe Ruth up and the bases full. Koenig singled to right, Combs flailed a hit off Tavener and Gehrig walked. The agitation of the populace was something wonderful as Ruth came up to the tee.

Babe Applies Best Force.

George put the wood and both shoulders behind the ball and it scorched a path down the first base line. It is doubtful if Blue really saw the ball. Instinctively he stuck out his glove and the streak of greased lightning ran up his arm, bounced over his shoulder and landed in foul territory thirty feet back of first.

All three runners scored. Gehrig, the last of the field, lost his cap between second and third, but kept on coming with locks streaming. Ruth drew breath at second and stayed there, while Meusel, Lazerri and Dugan proved themselves unproductive.

In the third Gehrig singled, Ruth walked and both advanced on a passed ball, scoring when Bob Meusel singled to left. A pair of doubles in the fourth by Bengough and Koenig enriched the New York lead.

Tavener Connects in Vain.

O'Rourke singled to start the Tiger fifth and Tavener put a ball near the right field bleachers, but not too near. Ruth went back for a good catch. Woodall singled, but was nipped off first by Bengough, after which Wingo batted for Collins and popped a nemically to the catcher.

INDIANS ARE OUTHIT BUT DOWN BROWNS

Triumph, 2 to 1, Back of Uhle, Who Keeps Thirteen St. Louis Runners Stranded.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 29 (AP).—Although outbatted by the Browns, the Indians today defeated St. Louis, 2 to 1. Uhle was effective in the pinches, the Browns having thirteen runners left on the bases. St. Louis's only run was scored on an infield single and two sacrifices, Robertson "squeezing" McManus across the plate.

Manager Speaker drove in both of Cleveland's runs. It was Uhle's twenty-second victory of the season. The box score:

8 IN 7TH HELP SENATORS.

Thomas Weakens and the White Sox Are Beaten by 9 to 2.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP).—Scoring eight runs in the seventh inning, the Senators today scored a 9-to-2 victory over the White Sox. A triple by Rice and a triple and double by Goslin helped the Senators. Reeves, a Washington rookie, singled with the sacks loaded, scoring two.

Thomas was effective in the box for the White Sox until the seventh, when Rice connected for his triple.

ROBINS CELEBRATE AT GIANTS' EXPENSE

MEUSEL HITS HOME RUN

By IK SHUMAN.

The Robins, who began yesterday's game with twenty-six scoreless innings behind them, learned all over again at Ebbets Field how to send men across the plate. With the Giants as opponents, they made it an auspicious day for themselves and 12,000 customers who had come to welcome them home.

The Robins won by 6 to 2, showing that they ordered their homecoming better than the Giants. The score tells only part of the story of how much better the Robins were than the Giants, who were terrible. The defeat was their twelfth in fourteen starts and, as in most of their previous defeats since they left home on Aug. 13, was the result of bad fielding.

Uncle Robbie used Jess Petty, the big lefthander. He had an easy time with them in all save the seventh and eighth innings, when the Giants got four of the seven hits he allowed them during the afternoon.

The seventh was the worse of the two innings for Jess because he permitted Emil Meusel to hit a home run over the right field fence just after George Kelly had singled. Jess turned the bad eighth to his credit by making Meusel hit an easy grounder for the third out when the bases were filled.

Davies Poorly Supported.

Chick Davies, who has spent most of the season as a relief hurler with the Giants, started against the Robins, and had he received better support the hard-working lefthander might have had a victory to his credit.

He let the Robins bunch hits on him, but it wasn't the hits as much as the errors behind him which brought about his retirement for a pinch hitter in the sixth and the subsequent employment of Jim Ring and Jack Scott. They did not give the Robins a single hit in the four innings they worked.

The downfall of the Giants began in the second inning after Dick Cox had reached first by singling off Chick's glove. He started to steal, and Hugh McMullen, who had plenty of time to catch him, threw the ball to centre field, whereupon Dick took third and came home on a sacrifice fly by Johnny Butler.

The downfall was made certain in the third when Davies carelessly gave Chick Fewster a base on balls. Max Carey, who had received a big hand on his first appearance on his new home field, followed with a double to left which put Fewster on third. Here Gus Felix scored both with a single to centre. Gus was caught off first with a throw from McMullen, but Babe Herman got on through a pass, took third on a single to left by Cox and scored on a grounder by Butler.

In the fourth they added two more when Hank DeBerry got on through an error by Andy Cohen, took second on a sacrifice bunt by Petty and scored when Al Tyson let a single by Carey roll past him. Carey took third on the error and scored on a single to centre by Felix.

Carey Has a Good Day.

Carey's homecoming was highly successful. The Robins' new outfielder got a single and a double and a sacrifice hit in three times at bat, making his average for the day 1,000, but he had hard luck in the seventh while at bat and had to retire for the day. He hit himself in the right ankle with a foul tip and had to be helped to the bench.

The Giants will meet the Robins again at Ebbets Field today.

Ross Young, star outfielder of the Giants, who has been ill for two weeks, is expected to work out with the team again when it returns to the Polo Grounds on Thursday.

Moose Clabaugh, an outfielder lately with the Tyler club of the East Texas League, who is wearing a Robin uniform pending a decision of whose property he will be, amused the fans at Ebbets Field with some examples of his prowess as a hitter. Moose got sixty-five home runs in the East Texas League this season, and it is suspected that he is a hitter. Yesterday he knocked seven foul balls outside the grounds in one time at bat in practice while the fans howled gleefully and tried to figure how much it all cost Uncle Robbie.

Frisch Probably Out for the Season; Physician Advises a Long Rest for Him

From present indications Frank Frisch is out of the game for the remainder of the season. The star second baseman, who left the Giants during a series in St. Louis a week ago last Saturday and who later announced that ill health had caused his withdrawal from the team, stated yesterday that he did not think his physical condition would permit him to get back into the line-up. Frisch is still in a weakened condition as the result of a nervous breakdown and he has not left his home since he returned to this city a week ago.

Dr. James B. McGrath, Frisch's physician, has advised his patient to take a complete rest and remain out of baseball until next year, and the Fordham Flash is likely to follow his advice. As soon as he is permitted to leave his home, which will probably be within the next few days, Frisch expects to leave the city for a long rest.

Frisch at first had hoped to join his teammates in the West. Later he decided to go back to the team at Ebbets Field yesterday, and several days ago he stated that he would probably don a uniform again when the team returned to the Polo Grounds to meet the Braves on Thursday.

Now he has practically given up hope of getting back into the game at all this year. McGraw and the players, however, still expect Frisch to rejoin them on Thursday. Within the next few days Frisch will probably seek a conference with the manager of the club and a definite decision is likely to be reached at that time.

"I would certainly like to get back with the team," said Frisch yesterday, "but I don't think I'll be able to play again this season. I feel extremely weak and my legs, which bothered me all season, are still giving me trouble."

CUBS REPEL REDS FOR EIGHTH IN ROW

Win, 5-1, When Mays Falters in Sixth Inning of Series Opener Before 35,000.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (AP).—The Cubs ran their winning streak to eight games today by defeating the Reds, 5 to 1, in the first game of their series, before a crowd of 35,000. Carl Mays weakened in the sixth inning when Chicago launched an attack which included a home run by Charley Root with a man on base.

Lucas, who succeeded Mays in the eighth, lasted one-third of an inning and Meeker retired the next two men. Root held the visitors to seven scattered hits until the ninth, when three successive singles saved Cincinnati from a shut-out.

Adams led the attack for the Cubs, with four hits, including two doubles. The box score:

Bisons Batter Three Pitchers for Triumph by 9 to 3.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP).—The Orioles slipped again against the Bisons here today by losing 9 to 3. George Earnshaw was battered from the mound and the Bisons continued against Chambers and Henderson for 16 hits. Walsh and Lake led with three hits apiece.

Roy Auer kept 7 Oriole hits well scattered and losing a shutout only because of a long triple by Maisel and Sheedy's homer in the ninth.

DEMPSEY'S HITTING FAILS TO IMPRESS

W. A. BRADY IS OPTIMISTIC

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 29.—A crowd of 3,000, half made up of women, saw Jack Dempsey work out here this afternoon for ten rounds under a broiling sun. The world's heavyweight champion exhibited satisfying speed of hand and foot, but as in the other workouts failed to bring forth any impressive hitting. Dempsey sparred seven rounds against five sparring mates and through five of the rounds demonstrated more speed than heretofore.

William A. Brady, his son, William A. Brady Jr., and daughter, Alice Brady, were conspicuous at the ringside. The man who managed Jim Corbett would not enter into a detailed discussion of Dempsey's condition as he appraised it in today's drill, but it was evident he was impressed with the appearance of Dempsey in action.

"I don't want to discuss Dempsey's form in detail," said the theatrical manager. "But nobody need worry about his condition. I never saw a boxer in better shape thirty days before a fight."

Hudkins Deeply Impressive.

Brady was one of several stage and ring celebrities present. Ace Hudkins, Coast lightweight fighter, with his trainer, Artie Rose, occupied a ringside chair. Hudkins was lavish in his praise of Dempsey. Harry Greb, former world's middleweight champion, occupied his accustomed ringside chair and insisted that the champion was being hit too often by sparring partners who have no business hitting Dempsey.

This and the fact that Dempsey is not hitting with his accustomed force are patent. The champion's lack of hitting power, or, apparent lack, has been discussed and criticized to great lengths since Dempsey started his local workout. However, there must be a reason for this restraint other than a certain amount of deterioration in the champion's fighting effectiveness.

The reason is that Dempsey is busy devising a form of battle against Tunney. He is analyzing every move of his sparring partners. His rôle is that of student rather than killer, and as a consequence is considerably slower than the old rip-tearing Dempsey. The champion is not worrying on this score.

Promises Savageness Later.

"I'll be savage and furious enough in the ring against Tunney if he starts to hitting me. Don't worry about that," he said, when this point was discussed with him.

Gus Wilson, who is assisting in the training of the champion, substantiated the supposition that Dempsey is studying ring problems rather than tearing loose.

"He doesn't seem as vicious as he used to be, and he isn't," said Wilson. "But if you watch him closely as he works you'll notice that he is studying something, that he is trying to dope out different situations as they present themselves and how best to avoid or counteract them."

Dempsey devoted some more time this afternoon to perfection of a right cross as a counter to a left jab. He drove the counter to the head or body in his plan to perfect it and his efforts carried plenty of sting. They were unleashed so fast that they struck home to the head or body, even beating his sparring mates to the punch. When he didn't beat his rivals to the blow he countered well, or, taking a left jab to the face, pressed in against the blow and drove home rights and lefts viciously to the body.

Dempsey sparred two rounds against Charlie Anderson, Chicago negro heavyweight; as many against Frankie Carpenter, Long Island light-heavyweight, and one each with Joe Nasser, a newcomer from Indianapolis; Jimmy Brown, Panama negro welterweight, and Johnny Saxon, a welterweight from Bridgeport.

The best work-out was that in which the champion faced Brown. The negro, nimble-footed and active with both hands, gave Dempsey a good drill in warding off punches, for Brown let fly with both hands from all angles and kept Dempsey busy spearing the blows.

Dempsey, on his part, didn't undertake much of an offensive, although he did crack his right to Brown's head with stinging effect and once nailed the negro with a left hook which was high. It was patent in this round that Dempsey was sharp-shooting, but the champion's accuracy was off.

Warms Up with Anderson.

Anderson opened the sparring work-out with two rounds which served to warm the champion up. Anderson worked fast for two minutes of the first round and as he skirted around Dempsey, he showed that the champion is open for a left jab or a right cross. Dempsey took these punches, went under the jab with rights to the heart which were solidly and truly delivered, and as Anderson crossed his right Dempsey went close with left hooks to the body. For the most part the champion stood flat-footed and banged away at Anderson's body.

Near the end of the first round Dempsey landed high with a right which almost upset Anderson. Through the second session Dempsey devoted himself almost entirely to firing both hands into his mate's body. Anderson stood up and absorbed the punches, though he was weary at the finish.

The only approach to a knockdown came in Dempsey's two-round drill with Carpenter. Dempsey ripped a right to the body in the first brush as Carpenter came in. Carpenter was deposited heavily on the ring floor.

At the end of the second round a right cross almost upset Carpenter, but Dempsey went close and clinching, directed his fire to the body until the bell.

Nasser followed Carpenter, but was only a clown. The Indianapolis heavyweight was shaken by the first solid left jab Dempsey stuck in his face, and was swinging wildly for the rest of the round while Dempsey toyed with him.

Brown next entered the ring and gave the champion a good work-out, and then Johnny Saxon went the final round with Dempsey, landing rather freely with peppery rights and lefts to the face as Dempsey, exercising restraint, picked openings for left and right leads carefully. Near the end of the work-out Saxon drove over a right to the jaw which had the full power of his body back of it and Dempsey blinked.

Dempsey closed his work-out with a round of calisthenics, forsaking the heavy stuffed bag today. The champion went out on the road this morning for a three-mile hike with Trainer Jerry Luvadis. Big Bill Tate, negro heavyweight, was in boxing togs and expected to work with Dempsey but the champion signaled "all off" when he finished with Saxon. Dempsey worked a round each on the pulleys and the light punching bag.

Dempsey's bungalow here has been named "Kerry Cottage" by Mike Trant, Chicago detective, whose brogue is as broad as the Emerald Isle, because of the predominance of green about and around the place. The champion tried a hand at croquet but was driven indoors by a mass attack of mosquitoes. He planned to visit a movie house tonight to see the picture in which Red Grange is starred on the screen.

Tunney Fifth Foe Dempsey Never Saw Box Before Bout

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 29.—When Jack Dempsey enters the ring against Gene Tunney, the heavyweight champion will be facing a man he has never seen in the ring. It will be the fifth time Dempsey has boxed under such circumstances. He never saw Willard, Carpentier, Gibbons or Firpo. "I've never seen Tunney in the ring," Dempsey said. "I've had several opportunities but never took advantage of any. But that doesn't make any difference to me. I'll know enough of Tunney after a few punches."

FT. HAMILTON FOUR IS VICTOR, 9 TO 5

The Fort Hamilton polo team defeated Saddle River, 9-5, yesterday at Fort Hamilton before a crowd of 4,000 in a fast game played over a wet and slippery field. The footing caused several spills, although nobody was hurt.

Excellent team-work enabled Fort Hamilton to dominate the game, and the soldiers experienced little difficulty in overcoming the Saddle River polo-ists, who had a two-goal handicap. One of the features of the match was a long, spectacular run by Captain Neu of Fort Hamilton, in which he drove the ball the length of the field to score one of his four goals.

The line-up:

FT. HAMILTON (9).	SADDLE RIVER (5).
No. 1—Capt. Allen.	No. 1—Darr.
No. 2—Lieut. Scott.	No. 2—Henley.
No. 3—Major Poole.	No. 3—Clough.
Back—Capt. Neu.	Back—Sackman.

Win Olympic Games From French at Gothenburg—Japanese Honored.

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, Aug. 29 (AP).—At the conclusion of the women's Olympic games here, England led with 50 points. France was second with 27. The honorary prize of the Women's International Athletic Federation was awarded to Miss K. Sitomi of Japan.

TUNNEY ATTRACTS BIG SUNDAY CROWD

Gorman Only Sparring Partner Available, So Challenger Does Four Rounds With Him.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP).—A large crowd traveled to Gene Tunney's Lake Pleasant training camp today to watch the challenger of Jack Dempsey go through his training stunts. It was the last week-end Tunney will be seen here, and many took advantage of perfect weather to enjoy the "free show."

A dearth of sparring partners somewhat curtailed the number of rounds which the former marine put on. He did three rounds with the light bag, two with the heavy and then went into four rounds of boxing with Bud Gorman.

Oskill, the only other sparring partner in camp, was out for the day with indigestion. Johnny Grosso had left for a fight of his own, and Billy Vidabeck had not returned from Boyle's Thirty Acres, where he appeared in a fight during the week-end.

Tunney paid special attention to his straight left. Today's work with this blow showed it to be better than at any time during the present training. He had plenty of speed, power and excellent accuracy today.

Tim Mara, well-known sporting man, motored over to Lake Pleasant with the closing of the Saratoga racing season yesterday. Mara is associated with Billy Gibson in the ownership of the New York Giants Professional Football Club, and is a great friend of Tunney's. Last week he bet $10,000 on Tunney against $15,000 put up by Tom Shaw. He watched Gene carefully today and at the conclusion of the sparring declared he was ready to bet another $25,000 on the challenger at any odds.

Tunney will wind up his active training here tomorrow. He will do his usual road work in the morning and box six or eight rounds. Then the packing will begin for the move to the new training quarters at Stroudsburg, Pa. Tuesday, Gene will trot over the roads a bit in the morning, but will do no other training work. He will set out for the new quarters Tuesday afternoon.

Does Not Want to Leave.

Gene is not at all keen about leaving Lake Pleasant. The climate is just what he wants, and the situation generally was all that could be desired, his former "buddy" in the marine corps, Bill Osborne, taking the best care of him.

"If I win the championship I will be back to train," Tunney declared tonight.

Osborne is so certain that Tunney will win that he announced today he would begin at once the construction of a five-room house on the shore of Lake Pleasant, between the two Osborne hotels, which he will turn over to Gene to make his training base for all his future fights.

Greb to See Tunney Thursday.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 29.—Harry Greb, who has been watching Dempsey train here, announced today that he intended to visit the camp of Gene Tunney at Stroudsburg, Pa., on Thursday to watch the challenger.

French Tennis Head Says Davis Cup Team Will Keep Playing America Until It Wins

PARIS, Aug. 29 (AP).—France's victory over Japan in the Davis Cup interzone final at Forest Hills, N. Y., while confidently expected, has caused much relief in tennis circles in Paris.

Concerning the forthcoming meeting between the French players and the United States team for the Davis Cup, M. Canet, President of the French Tennis Federation, said today:

"We will have our chance. We realize what such stars as Tilden, Johnston, Richards and Williams are, but if we can continue making the challenge round a Franco-American affair yearly, we must win in the end, for our men are younger."

RICKARD-WIENER CLASH OVER TICKETS

PROMOTER DENIES THIS

Declares the Reports That Dispute Nearly Upset Bout Plans Are Incorrect.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29 (AP).—Reports tonight that Tex Rickard and Frank Wiener, Chairman of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, had had a wordy war over methods of ticket distribution were said by the promoter, in effect, to be incorrect. Wiener could not be located for a statement.

Rickard said that there had been an argument over tickets, but that the question was settled amicably.

According to a story published here, Wiener told Rickard that "we intend to see that this State is properly treated in the matter of ticket distribution. We are going to supervise this sale and no speculators are going to get these tickets, if it can be helped. If you don't want to agree to this, you can take your fight back to New York. I'm not going to stand idly by and see you allow speculators to get the choicest seats."

Rickard Replies Hotly.

Rickard was quoted as saying in reply: "I'll give you $10,000 in cash right now if you point to one ticket that I've given to any speculator. I never do business that way."

Rickard pointed out tonight that it would be necessary to set aside tickets for a large army of newspaper men who will be here to cover the fight and for some of the regular patrons of Madison Square Garden.

"Everything was fixed up all right," he said, "and Philadelphia is not going to get any unfair treatment in the ticket distribution."

Rickard put in a full day here today visiting the exposition and holding various conferences having to do with the approaching battle.

Several times in his trips about the city Rickard expressed pleasure at the enthusiastic manner in which the championship bout is being received. Orders for tickets and actual sales thus far are away beyond his expectations, he said, and both in attendance and money the Dempsey-Tunney encounter is expected to set up new records.

Waits to See Pinchot.

Fight tickets were not on sale at the various offices today, but the corps of box office men had their work to do arranging a block of 63,000 tickets just received. Rickard was so pleased with the early demand that he ordered sent to Philadelphia a big block that were on sale at Madison Square Garden.

Offers from business firms in several near-by cities to handle fight tickets have been received here and today arrangements were made to open a sale in Camden, N. J., tomorrow.

Reservations Here Keep Up.

With Tex Rickard in Philadelphia and the two heavyweight headliners active in their respective training camps, there was nothing of interest here yesterday to the fans. The ticket booth at the Garden was open for reservations, and the small force that was on duty reported business good but not heavy.

Philadelphia is more than measuring up as a boxing city, and the demand there has been so great that a number of big raids already have been made upon the tickets which had been allotted to the Garden for disposal here.

Rickard is expected here late tomorrow, and doubtless will be on hand when Gene Tunney reaches the city early Wednesday morning from his camp at Speculator, on his way to Philadelphia, where the Marines will take an important part in a celebration specially arranged for the challenger. Rickard intends to accompany him to Philadelphia.

While the ticket demand in Philadelphia has far surpassed Rickard's hopes, the demand here also has lived up to expectations. However, there has been no wild scrambling for places in line at the Garden ticket windows, for the mails have been caring for most of the requests. A heavy mail-order business has been reported. If the present rush keeps up there will not be much left before another two weeks have elapsed.

DE PALMA TRIPLE VICTOR.

Breaks Own World's Mile Auto Speed Record on Hawthorne Oval.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (AP).—Ralph De Palma won all three events at the Hawthorne Oval today, competing with Peter De Paola, Cliff Woodbury and Tom Alley, stars of the dirt and surfaced automobile racing tracks. The twenty-mile race was won by De Palma in 16:36 2-5 with Woodbury second and De Paola third. Racing with Woodbury and De Paola in the time trials for one mile, De Palma led in 74:22. In the five-mile race De Palma beat Woodbury in the final in 4:50.

De Palma's time for the one-mile trial, starting from a standstill, was fraction over 8 seconds faster than his previous world's record, 82.75, made at Syracuse this year. Officials of the A. A. A. timed him today and may allow the new record, it was said.

BOUT TICKETS GO ON SALE.

Interest Keen in Sept. 10 Meeting Between Berlenbach and Loughran.

Tickets for the Paul Berlenbach-Tommy Loughran battle, which will be fought at Ebbets Field on the night of Sept. 10, will go on sale today, it was announced yesterday by Promoter Fugazy. There is unusual interest in this bout, as Loughran has twice held Jack Delaney to a draw and during the past Summer was credited with a victory over Georges Carpentier in a Philadelphia ring.

THREE NET TITLES CAPTURED BY WOOD

SCORES IN BOYS' DOUBLES

Loses the Mixed and Ties at One Set Each In Junior Doubles When Darkness Ends Play.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIARCLIFF MANOR, N. Y., Aug. 29.—For the first time in metropolitan tennis history a boy has succeeded in winning the boys' championship and the junior championship in the same year. Sidney Wood, 14-year-old star, today reached the pinnacle when he defeated Eugene McCauliff of Yonkers, 6—4, 6—4, 6—2, to win the junior title and then without a rest defeated William Pearce, 6—0, 6—1 for the boys' championship. The finals were played on the courts of the Briarcliff Lodge Sports Club here.

Wood played in the final rounds of five matches today, winning the boys' metropolitan doubles championship paired with John Talbot and losing the mixed doubles with Dorothy Andrus. In the last match of the day he paired with Everett Smith in the junior doubles championship against McCauliff and John Pitman in a match that lasted two and a half hours before being called on account of darkness in the third set.

Wood and Smith won the first set at 10—8, but dropped the second at 3—6. The third set was deadlocked at seven games all when the match was postponed until tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when it will be started all over, and the best three out of five sets played.

Played 119 Games.

All together during the morning and afternoon young Wood played in five matches, extending to twelve sets and a total of 119 games. At the finish the boy was playing as hard as when he started, and was in perfect physical shape.

What glory there was left after Wood had been acclaimed by the 1,000 spectators was taken by Anne Page of Philadelphia, who won the girls' championship when she defeated Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Conn., after a thrilling three-set match.

Miss Page was leading in the third set at five games to one and forty love on her own service when Miss Andrus started an uphill fight. Point after point she scored decisively, repeatedly passing Miss Page until she led at 6—5. Then Miss Page steadied and won three games in a row for the match at 6—2, 2—6, 8—6.

Miss Page also won the mixed doubles championship playing with John Pitman, but with Miss Andrus she lost the girls' doubles championship to Marie Fensterer and Katherine Park of Englewood in another three-set match.

Doubles Victory an Upset.

The Miss Fensterer-Miss Park victory at 7—5, 2—6, 6—4, was in the nature of an upset, for the team of Miss Andrus and Miss Page had swept through with a decisiveness that made them favorites.

The Wood-McCauliff match for the junior title was the best of the day and the ease of Wood's victory was astounding, for McCauliff, star of Fordham College, is one of the strongest junior players in the country. He fought desperately to fend off a straight set victory but Wood's forehand was merciless and the boy kept hitting the corners with a regularity that was uncanny and he kept McCauliff racing from one side of the court to the other.

DENIES APPROACHING ANY DAVIS CUP PLAYER

But Pyle Says He Will Seek American Stars for Mlle. Lenglen's Tour When Cup Matches End.

By The Associated Press.

Charles C. Pyle, sports promoter, who has Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, under contract to play a series of matches in the United States, has no "business arrangement" with any member of the American Davis Cup team. Pyle's admission that he had not approached any member of the team was made here yesterday after William T. Tilden 2d, Vincent Richards, William Johnston and R. Norris Williams, members of the team, had emphatically denied that they had any offer from Pyle under consideration.

At a banquet in Philadelphia Thursday night Pyle said, speaking of Mlle. Lenglen's approaching engagements here:

"Her opponent will be one of the American team members. I am not at liberty yet to state which one it will be because I do not wish to do anything to jeopardize the chances of America in the international matches to be played here next month. I will announce the name of the player Sept. 15."

The promoter's statement here yesterday does not challenge his Philadelphia statement, but denies the existence of a "business arrangement." He reserves the right to attempt to perfect such an arrangement later.

Pyle's statement follows:

"The statement that I said I had made some business arrangements with one of the American Davis Cup team is unqualifiedly false. I made no such statement. It would be futile for me to deny that I hope and expect to surround Mlle. Lenglen with star tennis players of the first magnitude during her tour of North America.

"After the Davis Cup tournament and the national men's singles have been completed I will not hesitate to address myself in an honorable fashion to the members of this team, as well as any other great tennis player, man or woman, in the country. At that time if they do not wish to talk to me that will be up to them, but at the moment I have not approached any of them, either directly or indirectly, and have absolutely no understanding, business or otherwise, express or implied, with any member of this team."

On his arrival here from France two weeks ago Pyle announced that his tennis troupe, including Suzanne Lenglen, would consist of "ten of the greatest tennis players in the world," and that he would announce their names Sept. 15.

Borg Breaks Own World Mark In 880-Yard Free Style Swim

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 29 (AP).—Arne Borg, the Swedish swimmer, today broke his own world's record at 880 yards free-style swimming, covering the distance in 10 minutes 36⅕ seconds. The world's record, 10:43 3-5, was made by Borg at Honolulu in 1924.

JARVIS AND MARKS AT DEXTER TONIGHT

Bouts Also Include Black Bill and Goldberg—Amateurs Will Mingle at Coney Island.

Ernie Jarvis, the English flyweight, will be seen in the feature ten-round bout at the Dexter Park Arena in Brooklyn tonight when he faces Benny Marks of Brownsville. Jarvis and Marks, however, will not command all the attention, for Black Bill, the speedy Cuban flyweight, has been selected to engage Lew Goldberg, a neighbor of Marks, in another ten-round attraction.

Marks is rated an excellent ring general and a hard puncher and a boxer capable of making it more than interesting for the shifty little English lad. Black Bill also is in for an active evening as Godlberg boasts a good punch and a strong heart. These two bouts should be loaded with action.

Manny Wexler of the Bronx and Billy Kelly of Scranton have been named to appear in a special six rounder. This will be a return meeting. Billy Humphries of England and Frankie McKenna of Ireland will clash in another six-round battle. The opening four-round bout will present Charley Indelicato and Lou Lambert.

Ten star bouts again are on the amateur boxing program which will be staged at the Coney Island Stadium tonight by the Northern A. A. in conjunction with the Metropolitan A. A. U. The winners of last week's show will be matched with the best boys available. An effort is being made to have Canada Lee and Moskowitz meet in a return battle. Pete Caesar, Benny Keller and other boys who have made good this Summer will appear on the card.

Greenfield in Bay Parkway Final.

LeRoy Greenfield defeated Max Jacobs, a finalist in the tournament last year, 8—6, 6—2, yesterday in the semi-final round of the fifth annual Bay Parkway Tennis Club championships on the Bay Parkway courts, Brooklyn. Next Sunday Greenfield will meet Joseph DeFina in the final.

Elberon Four Beats Spring Lake.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., Aug. 29.—The Trillora Farm Bearcats of Elberon defeated the Spring Lake polo team here today, 5 to 4. It was the local four's second defeat of the season.

MAROCZY DEFEATED IN CHICAGO CHESS

MEXICAN IN THIRD PLACE

STANDING OF THE PLAYERS.

	W.	L.		W.	L.
Maroczy	6½	2½	Factor	4	4
Marshall	5½	1½	Chajes	3½	4½
Torre	5	3	Isaacs	2	5
Kupchik	4½	2½	Lasker	2	5
Fink	4½	3½	Showalter	1½	5½
Jaffe	4	2	Banks	1	6
Kashdan	4	5

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Carlos Torre, Mexican chess champion, after a bye in the eighth round, administered the first defeat to Geza Maroczy of Budapest, leader in the ninth round of the national masters' tournament of the Western Chess Association at the Hotel La Salle today. It was the only game of the six started in the ninth round to be finished, the other five being adjourned.

While Maroczy remains at the head of the list in games won, Frank J. Marshall, the United States champion, with two games in hand, is practically on a par with him. Torre, in third place, is now a dangerous contender for the highest prize. He displaced Jaffe and Kupchik, who were tied for third, by today's playing.

In the eighth round Marshall defeated Oscar Chajes of New York, whereas Maroczy was held to a draw by A. Kupchik of New York. In the other games A. J. Fink, San Francisco, won from L. J. Isaacs, Chicago, and S. D. Factor, Chicago, scored against Edward Lasker, Chicago.

The summaries:

Eighth Round—Maroczy ½, Kupchik ½, queen's pawn, 39 moves; Showalter vs. Banks, Caro-Kann defense, adjourned; Marshall 1, Chajes 0, queen's gambit declined, 34 moves; Isaacs 0, Fink 1, three knights, 39 moves; Lasker 0, Factor 1, queen's gambit declined, 45 moves; Jaffe vs. Kashdan, Ruy Lopez, adjourned; Torre, bye.

The pairings for the unfinished games: Factor vs. Jaffe, Fink vs. Lasker, Chajes vs. Isaacs, Banks vs. Marshall, Kupchik vs. Showalter, Torre vs. Maroczy; Kashdan, a bye.

Section A—Herman Steiner, New York, 9½-½; Leon Stolzenberg, Detroit, 8—2; Hermann Hahlbohm, Chicago, and Irving Spero, Cleveland, each 7—3.

Section B—John T. Beckner, Louisville, 8-1½; Albert C. Margolis, Chicago, 8—2; Orrin Frink Jr., Brooklyn, 7½—2½. In the first round Steiner defeated Frink, Stolzenberg won from Spero and Hahlbohm drew with Margolis. Beckner had a bye.

WALRUS CAPTURES THE FORD TROPHY

TWO TIE IN TEAM CONTEST

By SEABURY LAWRENCE.

Special to The New York Times.

LARCHMONT, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Walrus, the little black schooner owned by D. H. Frapwell of the Harlem Yacht Club, today won the trophy offered by Commodore James B. Ford of the Larchmont Yacht Club to commemorate the twentieth anniversary of the handicap class of Long Island Sound. Walrus, sailing well in the light northwest breezes that prevailed, made the best corrected time over the triangular course of 10½ miles, hor figures being 1 hour 18 minutes 7 seconds.

The second boat on corrected time was Jane II, owned by W. D. Williams, whose time was 1:19:07, and the third was H. D. Savage's May Queen, in 1:22:14.

Sixteen Boats Start.

Sixteen of the handicap boats raced in three divisions and the division winners were former Commodore C. A. Marsland's Azor, in the first; Jane II, in the second, and Walrus, in the third. Chinook did not finish.

The starting and finishing lines for the handicap race were between the committee boat and a mark boat moored one mile off the Larchmont breakwater. The committee in charge was made up by Edmund G. Anderson, Chairman; Drake Sparkman and Walter S. Sullivan.

Another interesting race was sailed by the Sound Inter-Club class yachts following the handicap event, it being one of the regular Sunday team races held this season by different yacht clubs. There were six clubs represented and eighteen of these speedy sloops started. The Larchmont Y. C. and Seawanhaka Y. C. teams tied for first place in the point score at the finish with 40 each. The American Y. C. team was third with 38, the Indian Harbor Y. C., fourth, with 29; Manhasset Bay, fifth, with 17, and Hempstead Harbor, sixth, with 7.

Sloops Well Bunched.

The course for the Inter-Clubs was a windward and leeward one from the starting line to Matinicock Point and return, a distance of eight and one-half miles. Aileen, sailed by Corny Shields, had the best of a very close start in which all the sloops were well bunched, but on the run down the wind Wee Betty, sailed by William Swan, slipped out ahead of the Dunbaugh sloop and turned the leeward buoy first.

Another contender was coming strong, however, and the American Yacht Club boat, Babette, sailed by J. S. Shethar, which has hung up a good record this season, worked her way into the lead on the windward leg and was the winner by 37 seconds over Wee Betty, with Aileen third. The breeze lightened up toward the end, but the finishes were close all down the line.

Mrs. Curtis to Be the 'Crew' On Star Class Yacht in Race

When Northern Light, the crack Star Class yacht from the Massachusetts coast, sails in the first race of the international title series on the Sound today, her "crew" will be Mrs. Louis Curtis, wife of the craft's owner. This will be the first time that a woman has raced in the international series.

STAR CLASS YACHTS OPEN SERIES TODAY

Iscyra to Defend International Title in Five-Day Event Off Execution Light.

The first race in the five-day series for the International Star Class championship will be sailed today off Execution Light under the auspices of the Bayside Yacht Club of Bayside, L. I. As a rule the Star Class title series provides some of the finest yacht racing of the season and the present series should be no exception to the rule. The boats contesting are tuned up to the last notch and their skippers are the most skilled that the various fleets could produce

While the Western Long Island Sound representatives have the advantage once more of racing on their home waters, it is far from a certainty that Captain Elder will be successful in defending the international trophy with Iscyra. He will be opposed by such crack boats and helmsmen as Sonny, sailed by Bill Inslee of the Gravesend Bay fleet; Rhody, sailed by Ben Comstock of Narragansett Bay; Movie Star II, the California boat sailed by Ray Schauer of Los Angeles; Northern Light, sailed by Louis Curtis Jr. of the Massachusetts Coast fleet; Talita of New Orleans, sailed by Ed Blouin; Dona Bertha of San Diego, sailed by Captain Fisher, and Hula Star II, the Hawaiian entry, sailed by H. M. Dowsett.

Besides these oustanding bidders for the title there are several new fleets represented in the series and these might be called the dark horses of the racing which may surprise the veteran Star Class contenders. It may be said that all the boats in the race have a chance.

The racing numbers and names of the boats that are to race, their skippers and the fleets and clubs they represent, follow:

243, Iscyra, C. W. Elder, W. L. I. S., Manhasset Bay.
385, Sayonara II., L. Bainbridge, Peconic Bay, North Fork.
204, Talita, E. Blouin, New Orleans, Southern.
125, Scrapper, F. Clancy, Detroit River, Detroit.

198, Gavilan, Jose Gorrin, Flota Habana, Habana.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP).—Fourteen three-year-olds, practically the best in the United States, are expected to compete for the $75,000 Hambletonian Stake at the State Fair Grounds tomorrow afternoon. The winning trotter's share will be in the neighborhood of $40,000.

Guy McKinney, owned by Harry B. Rea of Pittsburgh, has impressed many horsemen because of his victory at North Randall. Charm, Hollywood Susan, Ella Trahue, Petrena, Harvester, Hazleton, Josephine Volo, Station Belle, Guy Dean and Guy Stewart, all formidable trotters as two-year-olds last season, are prominent among the contenders.

Bass Ready for Herman.

Benny Bass of Philadelphia has completed his hard training for his ten-round bout with Babe Herman, which will be fought at Shibe Park in Philadelphia on Wednesday night. On the same program will be Lew Tendler against Joe Reno, Honey Boy Finnegan against Mike Dundee and Pete Sarmiento against Eddie Anderson.

THE WEEK IN SPORTS

Crusader Hailed as Three-Year-Old Champion—Is St. Louis to Have Its First Pennant?—Workouts of Dempsey and Tunney Unimpressive—Mrs. Mallory's Victory a Popular One.

TURF

When the Cavanagh Special puffed out of the station on Saturday evening, the Saratoga season came to an unofficial close.

The month at Saratoga Springs provided interesting sport and in point of attendance was the most successful in the history of the association, greatly exceeding last year's figures. And this despite the most adverse weather conditions. The sun was only an occasional visitor during the twenty-six racing days, while rain, varying in intensity from Summer showers to a veritable opening of the heavens, was almost a diurnal occurrence. Consequently the main course never reached its keenest edge, while training operations constantly were interrupted This situation retarded development of horses, cut the size of fields and generally interfered with the meeting, despite its success.

Crusader Tops Three-Year-Olds.

Crusader came out of Saratoga the undisputed three-year-old champion, having suffered not a whit from his Travers defeat, in which he was left at the post. An accident prevented Pompey from running in the Huron, but the consummate ease with which the son of Man o' War disposed of his opposition leads to the belief that Pompey's presence would have made not the slightest difference in the ultimate result. If Mr. Coe seeks vindication he may have the opportunity in the Lawrence Realization, the Jerome Handicap and the new President's Cup, designed for the especial purpose.

The juvenile question is still unanswered. The crown and sceptre are awaiting the most worthy claimant, with opportunity aplenty in the Nursery, the Champagne and the Futurity to make a final award if, indeed, the decision is not of necessity deferred until the Maryland and Kentucky meetings.

The victory of Lord Chaucer in the Hopeful Stakes on Saturday has not altered the situation. His was a rather lucky victory and by a margin so slight as to warrant the belief that he will be beaten in his next stake adventure by many of those who finished in back of him—certainly by the first three that he led past the winning post. He hasn't the look of a champion, and the juvenile situation seems much like that of a year ago before the running of the Futurity, when half a dozen were considered as worthy contenders for the title.

Yearling Market Was Strong.

The yearling sales attracted almost as much interest among the horsemen as the races. The new American record of total receipts is indicative of the demand for young thoroughbred stock and, while the remarkable single bid of a year ago was not closely approached, prices for the best individuals were far above the average. As has been pointed out times innumerable, it is foolish to send poor specimens to the Saratoga sales. Owners seeking racing material will have none of it. Prices brought by many did not pay shipping and feed bills, while numbers were withdrawn. There is always a market at good prices for the offspring of proved sires and mares of the desired blood lines.

Steeplechasing at the Spa has been unusually interesting this Summer, with good fields and close finishes the rule. More jumpers have been available and undoubtedly one reason for this has been the smaller number of casualties. The turf has been in first-class shape due to the almost continuous rains.

A full month of cross-country sport remains at Belmont Park and Aqueduct, with the meeting of the United Hunts to ring down the curtain on the jumping game in this State. Undoubtedly we shall see new material from among the three-year-olds that have been schooling at Saratoga and they will have some good opportunities to prove their worth.

BOXING

Jack Dempsey has lost his punch and Gene Tunney has failed to develop one. The critics who have had the privilege of watching the heavyweights in their workouts have been impressed by the excellent physical condition of the two men but much dissatisfied with their punching power.

Dempsey has won for himself the title of the "mankiller," as the result of a series of knockouts against heavyweights of the type of Jess Willard, Fred Fulton and Carl Morris, as well as other rugged knights of the ring.

Tunney has been classed as a skillful boxer with a fairly good jab but utterly lacking in destructive punching ability. He is kindly, smiles while he trains but fails to annihilate his sparring partners. This also has applied to Dempsey.

Not only the boxing critics but well-known boxers have not hesitated to announce their keen disappointment at the workouts of the gladiators who will entertain some 150,000 persons in Philadelphia on the night of Sept. 23.

May Be Football Strategy.

It is seldom that such pessimistic reports have issued from training camps almost on the eve of a heavyweight championship battle. It looks as though football strategy is being applied. It is nothing unusual to have a couple of powerful football teams pictured as candidates for the receiving ward in a hospital only to have these same teams come to life on the field and stage the battle of the year.

Dempsey has been pronounced physically fit, but lacking the fire and the punch which have marked his training in the past. Then it was nothing out of the ordinary for him to run out of sparring partners before the end of the first hour. Now things are different. The sparring partners linger through the drills without any fear of the champion and seem to take delight in receiving his blows.

One well-known fistic entertainer not only was disturbed by Dempsey's weak punching but by the fact that third and fourth rate boxers were able to penetrate his defense without trouble. In the past it was a hard thing to break through and reach the champion's jaw. Now his judgment of distance is poor and his defense weak.

Won't Gamble on Injuries.

With such weak punchers slated to entertain, from just what source is that vast assemblage of boxing fans going to get any amusement or thrill? However, few doubt that Dempsey will be able to do damage if he lands on his opponent. Tunney also, if he connects at the vital points, will be able to make his presence known.

To students of form it would be far from good judgment for fighters, with such huge gate receipts as the stake, to gamble on injuries in training. More than one important fight has been damaged at the gate through the carelessness or daring of the fighters in their campaign of preparation.

Training with big, rugged sparring partners entails a certain amount of danger for any champion or championship contender.

TENNIS

Three years after yielding her title to Miss Helen Wills, Mrs. Molla Mallory is again back at the top of American women's tennis, following one of the most popular victories ever scored in a national tournament. There have been other players in the past who have come back to regain the title, but it is doubtful whether any of them ever received a greater ovation than was accorded the New York woman when she triumphed over Miss Elizabeth Ryan.

A Great Match to Win.

Various explanations might be offered for the demonstration at Forest Hills last week in favor of a player whose victories over a period of seven years had received little acclamation. The most logical one might seem to be the natural sympathy of the public for the "under dog," but more than that is needed to account for the jubilation at Forest Hills. It was the manifestation of the gallery's admiration for the magnificent fighting qualities and sportsmanship of a woman who has always smiled in the face of adverse fortune and the breaks of the game. It was a hard match for Miss Ryan to lose after being within a point of victory, but for that reason it was a greater match for Mrs. Mallory to win.

Almost as surprising as the triumph of Mrs. Mallory was the bid made by Japan for victory in the interzone Davis Cup match with France. There were few who conceded Japan any serious chance of winning the series, yet it was only by the narrowest margin that the French players came through. To Takeichi Harada went the greater share of the honors. His victories over Rene Lacoste and Henri Cochet stamp him as one of the leading players of the world. Tsumio Tawara also gave evidence in his match with Cochet of his potentialities for developing into a formidable player, and 1927 should find Japan an almost equal favorite to reach the challenge round.

Davis Cup Situation Complicated.

The illness which forced William Johnston to retire from the play at Newport has complicated the American Davis Cup situation. The Selection Committee had hoped from the Californian's showing in this tournament to be able to reach a fairly definite conclusion as to the relative strength of his game compared with that of Richards, as there will be no further singles play before the Davis Cup nominations are made. Johnston's performances in the national doubles tourney at Boston this week may be the deciding factor in the committee's decision.

Full credit should be given the Newport officials for their stand in opposing Johnston's continuance in the play. At a time when charges are being made against tournament officials for exploiting amateurs in invitation events the Newport directors showed that they placed the health of Johnston above all consideration of the gate receipts.

GOLF

Are open golf championships too open? Because they have been termed open championships does it necessarily follow that every Tom, Dick and Harry possessing a set of clubs and the ambition to play is entitled to enter? Golf officials evidently think so, judging from the way things have been running of late.

The U. S. G. A., in charge of the conduct of the national open championship, has attempted to cut down the field by means of sectional qualifying rounds. Still the entry list is too large. Witness the fact that it took Bobby Jones nearly three hours to get around the Scioto course at Columbus last July, and Bobby wastes no time with his shots. What was responsible for the size of the field, even after the preliminary paring and the consequent congestion?

Three Hours for Nine Holes.

In the more recent Western open championship, played at the Highland Golf Club, the tournament was so open that Chick Evans, Al Watrous and Joe Turnesa consumed three hours playing the first nine holes and finished the round by the aid of matches. Even then they were more fortunate than Johnny Farrell, Rudy Knepper and Charley Hall, who had to quit at the fifteenth hole because of darkness.

Even in the Long Island open, played at Salisbury, the field was so large that, due partly to the weather, all the players did not complete their rounds until 7 o'clock and after.

In spite of the fact that these events are known as open championships there is no reason why the fields should not be limited to a point where all the players will have an opportunity to play their rounds in a reasonable time and finish them at a reasonable hour. In addition to being open these events are championships and championships are supposed to determine who is the best player. Certainly the best players are unable to do their best when they are forced to wait for long periods on the tees and through the fairways.

Not Fair to the Players.

What happened at Indianapolis was an injustice to the players who were delayed and who were given starting times that prevented their finishing the round. In almost every open championship at least 60 per cent. of the contestants are players with no chance either of winning or finishing in the money. Their presence merely detracts from the tournament.

No one will argue that every golfer should not have his chance to earn his spurs, but let them be earned in some event besides a championship. In no other sport are the gates thrown wide open.

POLO

With the first game of the Herbert Memorial Cup tournament a matter of history, polo interest will increase this week with the first appearance in tournament play of the Argentine team at Rumson. The South Americans have not had as much practice together as they had planned before the opening of the big tourneys and too much cannot be expected of them this week.

It would not be at all surprising to see the visitors defeated, for they are forced to concede goals to some of the most powerful combinations that American polo has had in the field. The Argentines may be able to do this and still triumph, but it would have been a fairer test for them had they not been handicapped so with sick mounts and wet fields.

In the opening game at Rumson the victory of Orange County was not unexpected but Princemere demonstrated that it is a combination well up on a par with all the others. Lord Wodehouse and Colonel Wise form a splendid backfield and little Harry East at No. 2 has few superiors anywhere.

BASEBALL

Some team is going to win the National League pennant, of course, but at the current writing the matter is hopelessly scrambled. You could spread out a pocket handkerchief and cover the three Western contenders as they charge madly for the wire. It is nothing uncommon west of the Alleghanies for a manager to get up in the morning leading a first-place club and to go to bed that night directing nothing but a third-place outfit.

The main centre of activity right now is St. Louis, where the Cardinals and Pirates are staging a five-game series amid the most feverish excitement that has gripped the Mound City in four years. If the question were put to a nation-wide vote St. Louis undoubtedly would win. It is the only town in either league which has never had a pennant winner in modern baseball. A man is an aged citizen in St. Louis if he can recall the days when Charley Comiskey led the Browns to four straight pennants in the old American Association.

The memory wanders back four years to that famous series between the Yankees and Browns in 1922. The city was literally baseball mad. Thousands poured into the town from Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Iowa and even Texas and paid fabulous prices to speculators for tickets. Every game was a sell-out. St. Louis was trembling with hope that it would finally see a world's series and with fear that it wouldn't.

In the ninth inning of the last game the Yanks rallied, scored two runs, gained the victory and virtually decided the race. As Whitey Witt singled over second, driving in the two runs with two out, a silence fell over the park. It was a thick, uncanny silence, heavy with tragedy. The hope of seeing a world's series in St. Louis had faded.

This is St. Louis; which today is once more in the throes of baseball madness. There is no other baseball town like it, for the simple reason that there is no other town which has never had at least one pennant winner.

It is a foolish man who attempts to say why any of the three clubs is bound to win. The Pirates have held firm. The Cardinals were in the lead Wednesday morning, but stumbled over the Phillies into third place. The Reds came up gallantly and encouraged their followers by the smartness and dash of their play.

Unfortunately, all three face their greatest tests away from home, and the frenzied supporters of the three clubs will have to be content with the dispatches offered them by the correspondents.

The Yanks have enjoyed a corpulent lead for so long that their followers were disturbed when their advantage was cut to seven games on Saturday. Barring a complete collapse, this margin will be plenty. The Ruppert battalions have little to worry about.

Frank Frisch's intimation that ill health caused his departure from the Giants was taken, of course, with a grain of salt by baseball men. Players do not leave a team without a word to the manager merely because they are sick. Not that Frisch is not sick. He is generally run down and his nerves are said to be badly affected by the strain of the season.

The fact remains, however, that there must have been another and deeper reason. Baseball is waiting eagerly to see what will happen if Frisch rejoins the team, how McGraw will take the matter then and how he will continue to regard it as he makes plans for 1927.

YACHTING

The International Star Class championship series, which begins today on Long Island Sound off Execution Light, brings together a most interesting galaxy of yachtsmen. Skippers and crewmen from the Great Lakes, from Southern California, Hawaii, the Gulf of Mexico, Cuba and British Columbia, not to mention the Atlantic Coast sailors, have gathered for this racing event, which might be termed a marine Davis Cup. The Star Class series draws entries from distant parts of the world and the skippers and crewmen are the winners in elimination trials held to determine the best boats and crews to try for the championship trophy.

The Star Class has grown remarkably during the past few years and in the present series the yacht Tempe II, representing the Newport Harbor (Cal.) fleet, carries the racing number 400 on her mainsail. This is a visible indication of the fleet's growth, as it means that there are at least 400 racing Stars enrolled in the international association. It is a great class. New fleets are springing up all the time and consequently the number of challengers for the title trophy grows larger as time goes on.

There will be seventeen Star Class fleets represented in this year's series, the largest number ever to sail for the championship and Commodore Corry, Captain Elder, and other Star Class enthusiasts are to be congratulated on having such a brilliant racing fleet assemble for the big event of the year.

The New York Yacht Club concluded its most successful cruise in a number of years on Wednesday with the racing run from Mattapoisett to Newport for the Rear Commodore's Cups. While this particular event turned into a drifting match, accompanied by rain showers, the best part of the cruise racing was sailed with good breezes blowing, and favorable conditions mean everything as far as a successful cruise is concerned.

Those who viewed the marine panorama spread out around the Brenton Reef light vessel on the days of the Astor Cups and the King's Cup will not soon forget the picture. They were gorgeous days, the sea a brilliant blue in the sunshine, horizons sharply defined in the clear easterly weather. Such days as these for the big races of the cruise more than atoned for the drifting races of the first and last days of the annual event.

The enthusiasm of Harry Payne Whitney for the sport of yacht racing and his success with the Vanitie have made him a most popular figure in the game and rumors persist that he will be the next commodore of the New York Yacht Club.

SWIM MARK IS SET BY MISS SCHUERICH

MISS O'MARA ALSO SCORES

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 29.—Miss Matilda Schuerich of the Women's Swimming Association, newly crowned junior national breast-stroke champion, set a long course record for 200 yards and helped her clubmates to make a clean sweep of first places in the open events for mermaids at a water carnival held by the Bridgeport Volunteer Lifesaving Society at Pleasure Park this afternoon.

Competing over a 100-yard course in Long Island Sound, the New York girl defeated six rivals in a 200-yard breast stroke race and finished more than twenty yards ahead of Miss Anna Baum of Bridgeport, the runner-up, in 3:22 3-5. As no long course standard is listed for the distance, Miss Schuerich's feat established one.

The other W. S. A. naiads who scored victories were Miss Eileen O'Mara, Miss Sarah Lord and little Frances Meany, 13 years old.

Miss O'Mara a Victor.

Miss O'Mara captured a scratch 100-yard back-stroke swim in 1:13 4-5, nosing out her clubmate, Miss Ethel Hertle, who defeated Miss Isabel Lesecwicz of Bridgeport by six yards for second place. Miss Lord took a 200-yard free style handicap in 3:00 4-5 from the 10-second mark, closely followed by Miss Frances Denese of the Bridgeport W. S. A., who had an 18-second start on her.

Little Miss Meany outclassed her field in a 50-yard sprint for girls under 14 and finished eight yards ahead of Miss Nedley Anderson of Bridgeport, her closest opponent, in 0:32 4-5.

Two championships of Connecticut decided at the meet were won by John Anderson of the Milford S. C. and Miss Marion Bloomer of the Bridgeport Board of Recreation. The former took, by a wide margin, the men's 440-yard free style swim in 6:19 1-5; the latter scored as easily in the women's 300-yard medley in 5:39 3-5.

Water Is Rough.

A stiff breeze and rough water handicapped the contestants in all races in which the course had to be covered both ways, but helped them materially in the one-lap contests, when wind and waves were behind them.

The summaries:

WOMEN'S EVENTS.

200-Yard Breast Stroke—Won by Miss Matilda Schuerich, W. S. A. N. Y.; Miss Anna Baum, Board of Recreation, Bridgeport, second; Miss Aldona Schvinsky, Bridgeport B. R., third. Time—3:22 3-5.

200-Yard Swim (Handicap)—Won by Miss Sarah Lord, W. S. A. N. Y. (10 sec.); Miss Frances Doners, W. S. A., Bridgeport (28 sec.), second; Miss Marion Bloomer, Bridgeport B. R. (4 sec.), third. Time—3:00 4-5.

100-Yard Back-Stroke Swim—Won by Miss Eileen O'Mara, W. S. A. N. Y.; Miss Ethel Hertle, W. S. A. N. Y., second; Miss Isabel Lesecwicz, Bridgeport B. R., third. Time—1:13 4-5.

50-Yard Swim (Girls under 14)—Won by Miss Frances Meaney, W. S. A. N. Y.; Miss Nedley Anderson, Bridgeport B. R., second; Miss Alice Wilkinson, Bridgeport B. R., third. Time—0:32 4-5.

300-Yard Medley Swim (Championship of Connecticut)—Won by Miss Marion Bloomer, Bridgeport B. R.; Miss Helen Lesecwicz, Bridgeport B. R., second; Miss Isabel Lesecwicz, Bridgeport B. R., third. Time—5:39 3-5.

MEN'S EVENTS.

400-Yard Relay Swim—Won by Milford S. C.; Colonial Park S. C., second; Meriden S. C., third. Time—4:38 3-5.

Benefit Boxing at Steeplechase.

A boxing program calling for fifteen three-round bouts will be held at the Steeplechase Arena at Rockaway Beach on Friday night, the proceeds to be donated to the Hebrew Kindergarten and Infants' Home of Far Rockaway and Montgomery Street. A number of boxing headliners have promised to referee a few of the bouts.

Hansen to Oppose Romero.

Knute Hansen, the Danish heavyweight, who made good at the Garden last Thursday night, has been assigned a place in the semi-final at the Queensboro Stadium tomorrow night. His opponent will be Quintin Romero. In the main battle Mike McTigue and King Solomon will clash in a much-postponed bout.

MISS COLLETT WINS IN EXHIBITION GOLF

SHATTERS COURSE RECORD

National Women's Champion Turns In 76 on Shenecossett Course to Aid In Six-Point Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTERN POINT, Conn., Aug. 29.—Glenna Collett, women's national golf champion, excelled in an exhibition foursome played here this afternoon. She broke the women's record on the enlarged Shenecossett course with a card of 76. Paired with Reggie Lewis, former Connecticut champion, Miss Collett defeated Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, former American and British champion, and Max Marston, former American amateur champion, by six points for the eighteen holes.

Miss Collett went out in 39 and came back in 37, one stroke over par. Her male opponent, Max Marston, played an equally fine game, going out in 38 and repeating the performance coming in.

By the rules of the match the best ball gave a point and the worst ball of the four cost the perpetrator a point, and under these regulations Miss Collett and Lewis had 12 points to 6 for Mrs. Hurd and Marston.

Poor putting on the part of Marston and an unaccountable wildness in driving by Mrs. Hurd contributed to their defeat. Mrs. Hurd lacked her usual control and distance, but gave a better account of herself on the greens, some of her putts being of the spectacular variety. On the fifteenth green she sank a 35-foot putt for a birdie 2 to win a well-merited point, while Lewis forfeited a point by taking a 5 on the hole.

A high wind prevailed during the match, and many a fine drive seemed to take a veritable nose spin when bucking it. Several shots were blown clear into the rough, and one of Mrs. Hurd's long drives from the tee went out of bounds.

Marston got into traps twice in the first two hole, and in the next Mrs. Hurd landed in one. In the fifth both Mrs. Hurd and Miss Collett landed side by side in a trap, both making good recoveries.

The cards:

Out—Par	4	4	4	3	5	3	5	4	4	—36
Miss Collett	5	4	5	2	6	3	4	4	6	—39
Lewis	4	5	4	2	5	3	4	5	6	—38
Mrs. Hurd	6	5	5	4	5	4	4	5	6	—44
Marston	6	4	4	4	4	3	5	4	4	—38
Par—In	4	5	3	5	4	2	4	4	4	—36
Miss Collett	5	2	4	5	5	3	4	5	4	—37
Lewis	3	4	5	6	4	5	6	5	4	—42
Mrs. Hurd	6	3	5	7	5	2	4	6	5	—43
Marston	4	4	5	5	5	4	4	4	3	—38

Anderson and Ryan at Coney.

Eddie Anderson of Wyoming and Arnold Ryan of the National Guard will be the headline entertainers at the Coney Island Stadium on Friday night. The bout is scheduled for ten rounds. Four six-rounders and a four-round bout will complete the program.

NOT A QUESTION OF TASTE.

Another United States Senator who voted for adherence to the World Court announces that if the thing were to do over again he would be against it. Moreover, Senator TRAMMELL of Florida, who thus reverses himself, declares his intention to introduce a resolution rescinding the action of the Senate last January. As the vote then was 76 to 17 in favor of joining the World Court, it will be seen that Senator TRAMMELL does not lack the courage of the leader of a forlorn hope. Like Senator GOODING of Idaho, who also has changed front on this question, the Florida Senator gives only one reason, and that a very strange one, for having shifted his ground. It is that "the people of "other nations are most unfriendly in "their attitude toward our country. "Since that spirit prevails I don't see "that any good can come out of our "belonging to the World Court."

A similar view is taken by young Colonel ROOSEVELT, who is now enjoying himself in saying whatever occurs to him without the hindering thought that he may be again nominated for office. The reasoning which all these gentlemen employ would sound singular if used against establishing national courts to settle quarrels between citizens. If a man should say that his neighbor was making faces at him and that he would not go into a court where that disagreeable fellow might also come, people would be inclined to laugh at him. But is it not just as ridiculous to maintain that it is impossible to belong to a World Court to which foreigners who do not like us already belong? International courts are for the purpose of deciding what is good law between nations, not what is good manners.

SMITH URGES ARBITRATION.

Governor SMITH's letter to the Garment Workers Union, made public this morning, returns officially to the plea for arbitration which he made privately last Wednesday. This was rejected by the representatives of the union, but the Governor is undeterred. He states again, with great clearness and force, the reasons why the strike and deadlock should be ended at the earliest date possible; and without the fear of organized labor before his eyes virtually rebukes the Garment Workers Union for its unyielding and unreasonable attitude. He points out that the commission which he appointed two years ago, largely at the request of the union itself, went into all pending questions with thoroughness and intelligence, and made a series of useful recommendations. These the manufacturers, though with reluctance at some points, accepted, but the Garment Workers Union declined to take them all. Now it is again the manufacturers who agree to arbitrate, while it is the union that refuses. Governor SMITH leaves this contrast to speak for itself.

He does not propose to admit defeat. He is going to press his demand for arbitration. The objections to it made by the union representatives he frankly declares to have "little force," in view of what the union has already done to make settlements with independent manufacturers. Governor SMITH serves notice that he will call further conferences of all concerned. He also is to request the Impartial Chairman in the cloak and suit industry to bring about in an official way meetings of the disputants to see if their controversy cannot be settled amicably. Should these efforts fail, the Governor writes with admirable persistence and hopefulness, "I shall expect you to consider again the question of arbitration."

Arbitration of labor disputes is gaining ground in this country. The new Railroad Labor law provided for it, and resort to it has just been had by agreement of the employes and managers of several large railways after the official mediators had been unable to bring about a settlement. In the present state of public feeling on the subject the party to the dispute which refuses to arbitrate places itself under suspicion. Of course, there might be demands on either side which could not be arbitrated. If employers insisted that a union commit suicide, the union could not arbitrate that. On the other hand, the owners of a business could not be expected to accept arbitration for a demand which would virtually confiscate their property, or dictate to them in every detail how they should conduct their affairs. But such extremes of unreasonableness are not likely to show themselves anywhere. Ordinary cases of disagreement are subject to full and fair arbitration. Governor SMITH is doing a public service by taking a stand in behalf of that method.

CRIMINAL TRIALS BY JUDGES.

Of the measures to improve criminal law and procedure proposed by the New York State Association of District Attorneys, the most interesting would permit the defendant in other than capital cases to waive trial by jury. The suggestion may be said to be tentative, since, if a law for the purpose should be enacted by the Legislature, its constitutionality would be attacked in the courts. To have the question of constitutionality settled seems to be the immediate aim. This optional waiver has been in effect in Maryland, even in capital cases, for almost seventy-five years. As Judge BOND, presiding Judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals, says, "a docket "of jury trials only is something of "which Maryland lawyers can hardly "conceive, and it would dismay them. "The courts would have to be increased to cope with the work, and "of course the demands upon citizens "for jury service would be increased."

In the Baltimore Criminal Court in 1924 more than nine-tenths of the criminal cases were tried by Judges alone. There and in the county courts criminal business is quickly dispatched. Minor offenders seem to prefer Judges to juries. To great criminals who have chosen Judge trial as some protection against the general anger they have provoked, it has been just, stern and speedy. It saves time. It saves money. It does justice, without everlasting delays and crowding of dockets. Its value, proved by long experience in Maryland, has been studied increasingly by lawyers and legislators of other States. It was borrowed by Connecticut five years ago. In Hartford about seven-tenths of criminal cases are tried by the Court alone.

Is a method so efficacious in Maryland unsuited to New York?

THE DEBT SETTLEMENTS.

The warmth of French feeling against Americans has been due to misunderstandings. Americans and French alike have contributed to them; private citizens as well as public men. But now that the latest wave of indignation has passed there are signs that efforts are being made in France to view the situation more clearly. For the first time since the arguments about the war debts became acute a French journal has put before its readers the comparative terms of the settlement with England and with America for the payment of the debts.

HENRI MICHEL, in Actualités, has published a little table showing the payments which France will have to make under the two agreements to Britain and the United States during the first five years. The table reads (in gold dollars):

	England.	United States.
1926	$50,122,500	$30,000,000
1927	68,460,000	30,000,000
1928	84,362,500	32,500,000
1929	122,250,000	32,500,000
1930	79,462,500	35,000,000

He points out, furthermore, that the fact has been withheld from the French public that the American payments cover all the debts of all classes, whereas the British payments do not cover either the debt contracted for stabilizing exchange or that for the purchase of commodities. He estimates that if the American debt were calculated on the same basis as the British debt, the payment in the first year would be $156,500,000 instead of $30,000,000, and in the second year $291,000,000. He admits that as the years pass the payments to America under the Mellon arrangement will increase and those to England decline, but wisely asks who can prophesy what will happen in fifteen or twenty years.

The significance of this presentation is not so much the analysis of payments and the comparison made between the two settlements, but the indications that some French leaders realize that there is nothing to gain for France by permitting the passions of the moment to hide the basic facts. Americans are fully aware that their unpopularity in France is due to several causes, of which the debt settlement is only one. They know that many of their own people have exhibited lack of tact abroad. American political jingoes have gone out of their way to rouse French ill-will and resentment. Finally, there is always the natural resentment of France, still staggering under the blows of war and peace, toward America, more powerful and rich than ever as a result of the war.

But if there is to be a better understanding of the complicated problems of debts and finances, there must be a frank effort on the part of the French as well as the Americans to appreciate each other's attitude. The French case has been fully presented in America, and has won many supporters. In France, however, the newspapers and politicians have paid little or no attention to America's case, and have, instead, contented themselves with ranting against the fulminations of BORAH or praising the appeals of American cancellationists. It is encouraging that some Frenchmen see the importance of facing realities.

MOSQUITOS IN THE CITY.

For a long time it has been known that it is the female mosquito whose proboscis punctures the skin with such irritating results, and many still have the notion that flocks of these females periodically swim the air channels between New Jersey and New York in order to feed for a time on metropolitan victims. But Dr. HARRIS, Commissioner of Health, makes it clear in his recent statement that such ignorant persons are slandering New Jersey, and, what is still more, neglecting their duty in New York.

Everybody except the few fortunate ones immune to the pests knows that all of the city is swarming with them. Not only the outlying boroughs, but the completely paved sections of the centre of town are infested. It is the inhospitable appearance of business and theatrical regions which misleads some people who are acquainted with the breeding habit of the mosquito into thinking that so many could not have originated where apparently there are no undisturbed pools suitable to mosquito eggs. But flat roofs, slightly depressed in spots that hold stagnant water, open tanks and damp basements in the business districts serve the insect just as well when she sets up housekeeping as the tin cans, bottles, discarded cooking vessels and untidy back yards mentioned by Dr. HARRIS.

He is just in pointing out that cooperation from the citizens is essential if the plague is to be stopped. The Health Department keeps a staff of permanent mosquito warriors, augmented just now by fifteen temporary men. Money to employ more is available, but no more men can be found who will undertake the arduous and painful work of fighting the poisonous fliers. This force works in the swamps, which are wholesale breeding places.

A point in Dr. HARRIS's demand for cooperation is the depressing effect of clouds of mosquitos on real estate values. That argument should appeal strongly to both owners and real estate agents. Radio talks for the benefit of those who are willing to do their part but are ignorant of the best methods of preventing an increase in the present crop of mosquitos should be helpful. Drying up pools, even tiny ones, is commendable, but not always feasible. A thin film of any kind of oil on a pool that cannot be drained is always a possibility; and it is effective, for it smothers any wigglers that may be already on the way to wings, and it discourages the laying of more eggs in that spot. As for the adults that are now with us, they are here to stay until old age or a violent death takes them off.

BEYOND THE DEAD SEA.

World congresses are the vogue in Europe and America. Wherever two or three delegates from many countries are assembled there is a world congress. Of late there was the World Congress of Youth in Finland. Numerous world congresses of scientists have met in various parts of the world, and almost numberless congresses and conferences have been held in Geneva. The habit is spreading. In July came the World Moslem Congress in Mecca, with a banquet and an after-dinner speech by IBN SAUD, late Sultan of Nedj and now also King of the Hedjaz.

Little about it has reached the Western world except the resolutions adopted at the closing session and two excerpts from the speech of this Wahabi chieftain. These fragments are embodied in an article in The London Observer by H. ST. J. B. PHILBY, who was the first European to visit the southern provinces of South Central Arabia and has been for years British adviser to the Sultan of Nejd. The resolutions protested against the annexation of the districts of Agaba and Maan to Transjordania, condemned it on "both moral and material grounds" and called upon the Hedjaz Government to take steps to secure the restitution of these districts. The restrained tone of these resolutions, says Mr. PHILBY, is both "admirable and ominous." They indicate temperately that, unless Great Britain and the Hedjaz Government agree about the boundary between Transjordania and the little kingdom which Colonel LAWRENCE brought within the boundaries of our geographical acquaintance by his romantic expedition, the matter may have to come to the attention of the League of Nations. It is under the definition of the League that Transjordania has its being.

The after-dinner remarks of the King are also significant, even in their restraint. They do not suggest a tempestuous Bedouin chief whose "word is law in the oases," of whom even the tribesmen who live by the chase of the ostrich and the gazelle stand in awe, as The London Times reported in 1924, when he came into the virtual headship of the scattered Arab empire. Neither have they the aggressive tone of the West. They breathe the philosophic calm of an Oriental patriarch:

> You should walk in all matters according to the dictates of wisdom and common sense; you should aim only at things within your reach; and you should not attempt what you cannot achieve lest you meet with failure and discomfiture.

The merits of the case are intricate. The reasons for desiring this arid edge of the desert, along which LAWRENCE crept with the Hedjaz camel corps on his way northward to a rendezvous with ALLENBY's forces, are a mystery. Yet, with such a sage, whose other word of counsel was that Islam must endeavor "to be at one within itself," it should be possible for the land of Oxford and Cambridge to deal "according to the dictates of wisdom" and not as with Ishmaelites dwelling in the black tents of Kedar, with their hand against every man.

A MOTHER'S CHANNEL SWIM.

Swimming the English Channel will become commonplace if the ladies continue to try it. Several men have failed this year, and no man has succeeded since 1923, when SULLIVAN, TIRABOSCHI and TOTH, none of them Englishmen, got across. Only valiant Captain WEBB and tough old THOMAS BURGESS represent the British Empire. It seemed to be a foregone conclusion that Mrs. CLEMINGTON CORSON of New York would get the best of the Channel if the tides served, and she did on Saturday. Her time was not so good by an hour and more as GERTRUDE EDERLE's, but Mrs. CORSON is 27 and mother of a boy and a girl. She has been a long-distance swimmer with few peers. Once she made the circuit of Manhattan Island in about fourteen hours. At another time she swam from Albany to New York, 153 miles, taking her pleasure in the water on consecutive days. In preparation for a Channel bout she swam in July from Dover to Ramsgate, twenty-two miles, in 6 hours 20 minutes, aided by the tide. The lady has humor. In 1923, when the Channel beat her, she then being the mother of one, Mrs. CORSON said that with another child in the family she could not fall—and she didn't. Like our own GERTRUDE, Mrs. CORSON (nee GADE, a Dane) is not a big woman.

There seems to be nothing for mere man to do but to set a speed record for the Channel. In even getting across he is becoming a total failure. The most promising English contender seems to be FRANK PERKS of Birmingham, a powerful swimmer who keeps on trying and who on Saturday in Mrs. CORSON'S company almost joined her on the beach at Dover. Colonel BERNARD FREYBERG, V. C., an Australian, may yet succeed. On one occasion there were only 600 yards between him and success, but the tide turned and carried him away like a chip. JANE DIXON and MERCEDES GLEITZE, who works a typewriter in business hours, are the hopes of British femininity. Miss GLEITZE is a young woman of great endurance and a fine swimmer. In Mme. JANE SION France presents the strongest woman, but the Channel tides have proved stronger. LILLIAN CANNON, a Chesapeake Bay long-distance swimmer, must be reckoned as a possibility. VIERKOTTER, a German, and FARSTAD, a Norwegian, both strong men, must not be left out of consideration. So many people are swimming in the Channel that any year a race may be put on for all comers, no start to be made until the sea suits and the tide is right.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Awkward, but for Whom?

One of the correspondents at Paul Smith's reports that the President is likely to be much embarrassed at the request for an audience by Mr. CRISTMAN of this State. He is Dry candidate for United States Senator from New York. Senator WADSWORTH, the Wet candidate, has already been received by Mr. COOLIDGE. How can the President decline to see the rival?

This Presidential embarrassment would be one of the easiest things in the world for Mr. COOLIDGE to dispose of. He is famous for listening without comment. Many a public man has been to see him only to have "the Spokesman" deny next day any committal to the visitor's ideas. The fact that a President sees a man does not in the least imply agreement with him.

Moreover, there is in these Presidential audiences a tradition not unlike that of royal audiences. The visitor does not initiate subjects of conversation. The lead is reserved for King or Queen or President. Hence it would be no violation of confidence to predict that if Mr. CRISTMAN calls upon President COOLIDGE the most thrilling topics discussed would be the state of the crops, the size of fish, and on which side of a cow a man ought to sit to milk her.

We Welcomed Her as an American.

It is well that the threatened quarrel between Mr. DUDLEY FIELD MALONE and the head of the German groups in this city did not develop far enough to mar the reception of Miss EDERLE on Friday. Proud as she is of her German blood, and proud as the Germans have a right to be of her German parentage, she would undoubtedly have been the first to resent the fact that politicians of German extraction were trying to capitalize her return. Mr. MALONE was perfectly right in insisting that the celebration was by Americans for an American, and that there was no excuse for intruding the "Deutschtum" or any other alien prejudice into the reception. He might have gone a step further and pointed out that the Germans in Germany had already given her a well-deserved tribute and that it was now America's turn.

Fortunately, those professional agitators who seek to divide Americans into groups according to the land of origin of their ancestors are few in number, even though they are loud and obtrusive. They misrepresent their fellows of alien stock by making it seem as if they all subscribed to the theory of double allegiance. In this respect Miss EDERLE is a better American than those who have sought to exploit her.

Saddening to Dry Informers.

Since informers are coming to be the favorite props of virtue, Controller General MCCARL might have been a little kinder to the Colorado expert whose expense account he in part approved, in part rejected. The "under-cover" investigator spent $27.75 for "evidence." The Government got $500 in fines in consequence. This disbursement was allowed. A little more than 5 per cent. of the fines for whisky and beer is surely a modest proportion; and only $20.50 was wasted on "meals and other expenses." Such a comparative parity of bread and sack has not been maintained by some other informers.

But why did Mr. MCCARL decline to sanction a claim of $25, paid to a woman aid of the rum-seeker? To give himself protective color, the good man who ventures into naughty places must have a companion. Would a roadhouse ever consent to satisfy a solitary thirst? There must be the illusion of a happy, careless pair; and the partner is useful not only in the disposal of the "evidence" but in confirming the testimony of the associate in good deeds.

Informers, like detectives, gendarmes, carbonieri, must "work in pairs." Besides, the moral health of the informer should be considered. Alone, surrounded by chipper conversationists, he will grow moody. His depression will force him to buy "evidence" to an extent that may impair his equilibrium and swell his expense accounts. In the interests of prohibition the incidents of their profession should be made as agreeable as possible to informers. Their lot is hard enough, in the best circumstances. How would you like to be swigging "poison" every day, even if an indulgent Government would pay for it?

Nevertheless, Women Are Readers.

Statistics have been made to tell such extraordinary stories upon occasion that it is no wonder Miss NANCY POWELL was temporarily baffled by the figures given out to show that men patronize the public library in much larger numbers than women. In a letter printed in THE TIMES yesterday she offered an explanation for this remarkable exhibit: "I believe this to be due to the fact that women have not the strength and endurance to combat the librarians."

It is known to all that women are much more insatiable readers than men. From the library statistics it is clear that they do not go to the main building in as great numbers as do men. Perhaps they are chiefly patrons of the branch libraries. It does not seem quite plausible that they are more easily discouraged than men by the "try and get it" attitude of "the guardians of New York's literary treasures."

Not long ago there was protest from women readers because the rest room at a public library had been denuded of chintzes, couches, comfortable chairs, mirrors and towels. A statement from the library at that time defended the removal of luxuries as a necessary step in discouraging resort to the room by women who used it as a dressing room, or found its couches convenient for sleeping off the effects of too much prohibition.

These women were presumably illiterate; at least, the complaint was that they didn't read, whether they could or not. It is not known whether they were counted as patrons when the comparative figures were published, but if they were not, and the men who spend hours of vacancy, cool in Summer and warm in Winter, were included, that might account for the astonishing difference in percentages.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Possibly there is a perfectly good engineering reason for it, but it is not at all clear to me why the Forty-second Street subway shuttle trains are stopped so far from the Lexington Avenue station at Grand Central. It seems to me that there is plenty of room for tracks on either side of the wooden runways; in fact, rails are laid on one side. It is a long walk from the present platform to the east side line, and, after a day's work, one does not feel much like tramping up hill and down dale, as is necessary under the present arrangement. A Veteran Complains.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is now seven weeks since Congress passed H. R. 12175 providing "That any ex-service person shown to have had a tuberculosis disease of a compensable degree, who in the judgment of the Director has reached a condition of complete arrest of his disease, shall receive compensation of not less than $30 per month." At the New York office of the Veterans' Bureau I was informed today that nothing was known officially about it. O. M. BELL.

An Expression of Appreciation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I appreciate the excellent attention which THE TIMES has given to the present session of the Institute of Politics, and I want to express my very genuine gratitude, both for the editorial comment and the daily accounts. You increased many-fold our audience, and this is the kind of cooperation which I hope will continue in the future.

Permit me, also, to say a word of appreciation for having such a competent representative here as Mr. Stark.

NEW YORK'S STATUES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to your editorial on "Badly Placed Statues," it is quite difficult to fancy a memorial of any sort that is more appropriately located than the Heine monument on the Grand Concourse in the Bronx; nor is it easy to refer to one with a history symbolizing more undiluted irony.

A few New Yorkers know that the statue was made in Germany and for Germany, but a quarter of a century ago the Germans would have none of it. It was then shipped to this country. Brooklyn, Manhattan, Chicago, Boston and other centres rejected it. Finally it was set up in its present location.

At the time of its dedication the Concourse at 161st Street was almost a wilderness. So few as twenty years ago Ludwig Fulda came to this country and immediately set out to see the Heine monument. In his book "American Impressions" he tells how he felt that it was better to erect a monument to Heine there than nowhere. But once he had found it, with the help of guides, policemen and friends, he remarked: "Better nowhere than there."

Now the Heine monument, like the poet himself, has come into its own. It is passed hourly by thousands of people, a very few of whom may, perchance, pause long enough to find out what it stands for. But, however few the interested may be, the statue is gloriously placed.

Would Relocate Statues.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial on the badly placed statues in New York City was certainly not meant to be a complete review on the subject. Therefore, permit me to point out what I consider to be an outstanding example of the haphazard method of locating and relocating statues in this city of ours.

The beautiful statue of Nathan Hale in City Hall Park, after having been shifted around in the last few years, has been left in an unsightly corner close to the iron fence, without any appropriate background and too near the sidewalk to be seen as a whole from a distance. If that statue, which is of the greatest significance to all good citizens, were to be placed in the centre of one of the grass plots, possibly at the corner of Chambers Street and Broadway, it would have a splendid setting and could be easily admired by the throngs passing that point.

The Washington Irving statue in Bryant Park would also show to better advantage if placed in the centre of the grass plot. RENATO CRISI.

A Night Worker's Plaint.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Six days a week, between 3:30 and 4 A. M., I and other night workers are delayed from five to eight minutes at the Fordham Road station of the Jerome Avenue subway while a member of the train crew goes downstairs and across the street to a restaurant for a pail of coffee and sandwiches.

Of course these men have to eat, but why do they have to pick that particular place to obtain their food and keep other men from well-earned rest? There should be a restaurant at the end line at Woodlawn. It would not be so annoying even if the crew obtained its sustenance at the Kingsbridge Road station, where there is also an all-night restaurant. I get off at that station, and, so far as I am concerned, they could remain there indefinitely.

Walloons in the Minority.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

This morning's TIMES reports that the population of Eupen and Malmedy numbers 25,000 and is principally Walloon. When ceded to Belgium, these districts had a population of 60,924, five-sixths of whom were German-speaking. The Walloon element is confined to Malmedy, where it comprises only 20 per cent. of the total population, and the Walloons predominate in only eleven out of forty-five towns. The other thirty-four are over 90 per cent. German. Of the forty-two parishes into which Malmedy is divided thirty-five are German and seven Walloon speaking.

THE CHILD'S EYES.

Sometimes her eyes are blue as deep sea-blue,
And calm as waters stilled at evenfall.
I see not quite my child in these blue eyes,
But him whose soul shines wondrously through her.
Serene and unafraid he was, and knew
How to dispel the fears in other hearts,
Meeting an anxious gaze all tranquilly:
These are her father's eyes.

Of an October sky on mountain-tops.
I do not see my child in these blue eyes;
They are the eyes of him whose spirit glowed
With happiness of soul alone which lies
Far deeper than the depths of bluest eyes—
Whose smile a thing of joy it was to see:
These eyes, this smile, are his.

Sometimes her eyes are of a tired gray-blue,
Filled with the sadness of an age-old world.
And then again my child's not in these eyes;
These are the eyes of one whom grief assailed,
Whom disappointment crushed with its great weight.
Around his head a halo memory casts,
Reflecting that refiner's fire which purged
Him clean, and made him what he was.

Sometimes in child-amaze and wonder-blue
Her baby eyes are lifted up to mine.
These only are the eyes she brought with her,
And so I fold her close within my arms
And talk of dolls, and stars, and mother-love,
For well I know that pitifully soon
She will be grown, and then her eyes will hold
Only the deeper lights—his own eyes knew!

NINON BRITTON.

PUBLICITY OF ACCOUNTS.

Some of Professor Ripley's Positions Are Challenged.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The contention of Professor Ripley that stockholders are entitled to receive reasonably full information regarding the affairs of a company in which they are interested can scarcely be questioned.

It is, however, wholly unfortunate that he should in his enthusiasm for his objective have allowed himself to be betrayed into inaccuracy and injustice of statement, more especially as his cause is so obviously good. It is because I fear that the movement toward fuller and fairer information to stockholders, which has been making great progress in recent years, may be injured by this unwise advocacy that I venture to write you.

Only reference to annual reports is necessary to demonstrate the inaccuracy of such statements as that the Bethlehem Steel Company does not disclose the method of inventorying its assets, whether the reference be to fixed assets or to inventories in the narrower sense of the term. Similarly, while Professor Ripley states that the word depreciation might just as well not exist for the National Cash Register Company under its present management, the only annual report issued since the recent financing not only states that depreciation has been provided for but states the precise amount.

In the same way references to the prospectuses which one receives daily will prove the inaccuracy of the statement that appraisals contained in such prospectuses "are invariably made up not by experts of independent status, but by those whose prospects and emoluments are directly dependent upon the existing management."

Any one familiar with British practice will be amused or amazed at the statement that in England questions such as whether a given item should be charged to capital or income account "would be referred for decision to an independent executive committee of the shareholders."

Moreover, Professor Ripley's criticisms are neither consistent nor judicial. We find him criticizing one company for a given procedure while for another which has followed substantially the same procedure he has nothing but praise. He is so convinced of the inequities of Dodge Brothers, Inc., that he devotes a substantial part of his article to them, though the one virtue he is prepared to concede is the complete frankness of disclosure for which his whole article is a plea. And, as he himself points out, disclosure is the vital thing; the form of disclosure is of minor importance.

Professor Ripley seems more concerned to heighten the color of his picture than to secure either accuracy of detail or justness of proportion—else why cite as illustrative of the attitude of men in executive positions today a foolish utterance of more than a quarter of a century ago?

It is impossible here to deal fully with his comments or corporate accounting, but as an accountant of many years' standing I may perhaps be permitted to say that his statements do not seem to me to indicate a grasp of the problems. For instance, he begins his criticism of no par value stocks with the statement that under the old par value stock laws the accounts started from "a bench mark solidly established—theoretically at least." The belief that bench marks established (however solidly) only in theory were useless if not dangerous was one of the reasons why such practical men as Francis Lynde Stetson advocated no-par value stock laws.

That these laws have brought new problems and dangers is realized by no one more fully than by the accountants. Indeed, the American Institute of Accountants offered $10,000 in prizes for the best discussion of the various aspects—legal, financial, economic and accounting—of the question, though, unfortunately, the offer elicited no adequate response. One looks in vain in Professor Ripley's article for either sympathetic appreciation of the difficulty of these problems or constructive suggestions for their solution.

While the subtitle of Professor Ripley's article is "The Shareholder's Right to Adequate Information," the article itself is wider in its scope and the demand for publicity is urged also in the interests of the speculator, as an adjunct to industrial efficiency, and on other grounds. This results in confusion. Every one will recognize the claim of the investor-stockholder who is in a real sense an owner of the business. The information best calculated to further his interests is by no means identical with that desired by the speculator for a turn and who never assumes the full responsibility of ownership.

In any consideration of this subject it must be borne in mind, first, that stock values are usually influenced more by prospects than by past events, and, second, that, as a distinguished English Judge has pointed out, every balance sheet and income account is necessarily in large measure a matter of estimate and opinion. If those on the inside in a corporation desire to profit at the expense of those on the outside, it is often as easy for them to achieve their purpose by issuing statements which are adequate and correct according to every accepted canon as in any other way. No amount of regulation will make a dishonestly managed company a satisfactory investment.

I suggest that Professor Ripley's article presents a picture of the present situation which is unfair both in detail and in the large. I believe his perspective is wrong. While much remains to be done, American stockholders today in general get fairly adequate information—certainly far more than the average English stockholder, though Professor Ripley compares our practice to the British to our detriment. Indeed, British practice after years of experience and numerous investigations has come to rely for the protection of stockholders less upon detailed disclosure than upon the integrity, competence and judgment of the auditors, whose position has been made stronger in every recent revision of the Company law.

COMMISSION ENDS TWO-DAY PARK TOUR

State Council Inspects Area Being Developed on Long Island for Public.

VISITORS STARTLE DEER

Traverse Miles of Roads in Nassau and Suffolk—Cruise to Fire Island.

The State Council of Parks completed yesterday a two-day inspection tour of the parks and park areas on Long Island. On Saturday the council held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. August Belmont, at Belmont Lake Park, recently acquired by the State, after which they inspected the new Fort Salonga Park on the North Shore, where the Long Island Commission has a bathing beach and about 200 acres in process of development.

The commissioners left Garden City in the morning yesterday and drove in buses to the Deer Range Park, near East Islip, formerly known as the Taylor estate. This property, consisting of a mansion and a number of barns and cottages, together with about 1,500 acres of wooded land and meadow on Great South Bay, has been claimed by purchase by the Pauchogue Land Company.

On the basis of a previous agreement with the former owners, however, the Long Island State Park Commission has taken possession and while the matter is pending in the courts, the commission has developed a large part of the estate into a park. Already there are camps established. Miles of roads have been repaired and opened to the public and guards and caretakers have been placed in charge.

Come Across Herd of Deer.

As the official car, wound slowly through the forest drives, deer resting in the shade started up and a small herd sped across the meadows between the mansion and the bay, seeking seclusion in deeper woods. There is a herd of 200 deer in the park, where the feeding ground is ample for many more.

The party inspected the duck preserves, saw the bear given to the park by Governor Smith, and drove to the beach front now being developed for bathers and campers.

After lunch the commissioners and their guests went to Babylon, where they went aboard two of the State's motor cruisers and crossed Great South Bay to Fire Island, 800 acres of which is being converted into a park. After an hour on the beach and in the surf the party returned to the mainland and drove to Garden City, where the tour ended.

Chief Forester Arthur Hopkins and Robert Moses, Chairman of the State Council and President of the Long Island State Park Commission, outlined briefly the progress made in developing the park system of Long Island in the last year. A dozen tracts of land, the smallest forty acres and the largest 1,700 acres, near Montauk Point, are being developed, together with roads leading into them.

Old City Property Used.

In Nassau County, and the closest of the parks of New York, is the New York water supply property in Hempstead, 2,200 acres in all, including a number of small lakes. Some of these have been fenced, but the rolling land around them, already wooded in part, is suitable for camping.

Work has already been started on the Southern State Parkway, which will extend from the city line around the reservoirs and out into Suffolk County. The parkway as planned will extend for fifty miles, connecting Hempstead Lakes with Belmont Lake Park.

In Suffolk County the parkway will loop north and connect with the Northern State Parkway, running from the city line at Douglaston out into the Wheatley Hills district.

BROOKLYN SHOW SEPT. 25.

Two Weeks Exposition to Open in Grand Central Palace.

Plans for the Brooklyn Exposition to be held at the Grand Central Palace for two weeks beginning Sept. 25 were made public yesterday by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the affair. A miniature of Coney Island will be on exhibition. Two floors will be devoted to booths showing the work of Brooklyn manufacturers.

A fashion review will be held daily, with models displaying the newest costumes. There will be entertainments both afternoon and evening, broadcast over WHN.

The Chamber of Commerce also announced that a large party of Brooklynites, headed by Borough President Guider, President Ralph Jonas of the Chamber of Commerce and M. S. Sloan, Chairman of the Exposition, will visit the Sesquicentennial at Philadelphia Sept. 18, which has been designated as Brooklyn Day. Special trains are being arranged for the party, which will leave in the morning, spend the day viewing the exposition and return that night.

SETS CHRISTIANS ONE TEST.

Right Conduct Is Proof of Faith, Says Dr. Niedermeyer.

Special to The New York Times.

PERTH AMBOY, Aug. 29.—"Obedience to the teachings of Jesus is the test of Christianity," said the Rev. Dr. Frederick D. Niedermeyer, preaching this morning in the First Presbyterian Church, "for the New Testament reveals that those who abide in the words of Christ are His true disciples.

"Discipleship involves personal adherence to the views and doctrines of Christ and requires obedience. If we do not obey those teachings we do not give them any attention worthy the name, for right conduct must be the outward proof of inward allegiance. To say that education is the gradual improvement of character may be giving a definition that is too pragmatic and narrow, but that statement can certainly be made of Christianity, for abiding in the teaching of Jesus must mean the progressive refinement of character and the constant improvement of conduct. Faith, to keep alive and growing, must manifest itself in deeds that are good and in right living."

VILLAGERS ASK CITY TO DELAY EVICTIONS

Forced to Quit Shops and Homes by 6th Av. Extension, They Face Heavy Losses.

10,000 PERSONS INVOLVED

Say Notice Has Been Too Short, and Van Owners Are Taking Advantage of Plight.

On the eve of the scheduled eviction of hundreds of shopkeepers and tenants of lower Greenwich Village, who have been ordered to vacate their homes and shops tomorrow to allow the city to begin its extension of Sixth Avenue from Carmine Street to Canal Street, a movement was under way last night among those affected to obtain a delay.

The West Side Association, recently formed by merchants and others in the district, will appeal to the Department of Finance, which has ordered the removals, to grant more time for merchants to dispose of their stocks and for tenants to find new quarters. Many of the merchants said they would be unable to dispose of their stocks except at a heavy loss. They had expected six months' notice, they said.

The feeling was reported as being so high among some of the tenants, notably the poorer ones, that many of them were planning to ignore the order, remain in their homes and move only if put out by force.

Some dwellers in the neighborhood said yesterday that transfer companies were taking advantage of the plight of the tenants and demanding exorbitant prices for moving their goods.

More than ten thousand persons altogether are involved in the question of moving. The project to extend Sixth Avenue has been under agitation for several years, and the plan now about to be carried out was approved by the Board of Estimate more than two years ago. The improvement will cost between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 and has as its object the adding of another clear north and south thoroughfare to relieve traffic congestion. The new thoroughfare is to intersect Canal Street just east of Seventh Avenue. Several short local streets, including Hancock, Congress and Clark Streets, will be incorporated into the Sixth Avenue extension.

KLAN BECOMES ACTIVE IN MONROE COUNTY

Recent Meetings Near Rochester Viewed as Move in Political Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, Aug. 29.—Increased activity of the Ku Klux Klan in Monroe County is indicated by a number of big meetings of the organization recently near Rochester. It is believed that the approaching elections have much to do with the latest fervor among the hooded order.

The last meeting took place Friday night, when moore than a thousand persons gathered to hear speeches by officers of the order.

All meetings are strictly guarded by robed Klansmen, and the proceedings are along military lines, with parking spaces laid out. The ceremonies generally end with the burning of a cross. The Klan is said to have recently recruited heavily among the farmers, particularly south of Pittsford and east of this city.

With the chief battle in Monroe County to centre in the Thirty-eighth Congressional District, there is some curiosity among politicians as to which candidate, if either, will have the Klan's approval. James E. Cuff, the Republican candidate, is a Catholic, while his opponent on the Democratic ticket, Representative Meyer Jacobstein, is a Jew. As the Klan opposes both Catholics and Jews, political leaders await the action of the Citizens' League, a dry organization, to see if it will put a third candidate in the field. The league has threatened to take such action should both Mr. Cuff and Representative Jacobstein declare for modification of the Volstead law.

At a big meeting of Klansmen near Syracuse recently, Senator Wadsworth was denounced by the chief speaker as a man who had opposed all legislation favored by the Klan.

SHIP IN BAY AFIRE, GUNPOWDER IN CARGO

Captain and Crew Avert Explosion and Extinguish Blaze Without Aid of Fireboat.

The Wilson liner Galileo, which sailed on Saturday for Hull, England, returned early yesterday morning to Gravesend Bay with her starboard coal bunker on fire and 8,000 pounds of gunpowder on her deck ready to be dumped overboard in case of danger of the flames reaching.

A fireboat and a police launch went alongside and offered aid, but the captain of the steamship said he could get the fire under control and did not want water to go down into the main hold and spoil the cargo of wheat. He anchored off Norton's Point for several hours, and after the fire was extinguished the Galileo went to a pier at the foot of West Thirty-fifth Street.

Louis Michaels, wireless operator at Police Headquarters, got the first news of the fire in an intercepted message sent by Captain Barron of the Galileo at 2:10 A. M. The message said that fire had broken out in the coal bunkers, the flames were spreading to the cargo, the forward part of the vessel was full of smoke and the gunpowder had been brought on deck. The Marine Division sent Sergeant Cody out in a police launch and the Fire Department dispatched the fireboat William J. Gaynor to the burning ship. It took the William J. Gaynor only forty-two minutes to make the trip.

Spontaneous combusion in the coal was said to have caused the fire. The extent of the damage could not be ascertained. The Galileo is a single-screw steamer of 6,200 gross tonnage and is 410 feet long. She was built in 1919 for the Wilson Line of Hull.

CRITICIZES 'MESSIAH' FOR LIVING IN LUXURY

The Rev. C. L. Bemies Declares Krishnamurti Enjoys the Things He Denounces.

The Rev. Carl L. Bemies, associate pastor of the West Side M. E. Church, 461 West Forty-fourth Street, in his sermon last evening said: "'Materialistic America' seems to have furnished the Theosophist 'messiah' with more material comforts and luxuries than most of us enjoy. Krishnamurti condemned America because of its materialism, yet he occupied a suite in one of the most expensive hotels in the city, and is traveling in a private railroad car, a luxury that even President Coolidge preferred to forego for the sake of economy.

"A messiah who would teach us that the greatest end of life is the cultivation of the spiritual nature of man would naturally be expected to practice what he preaches and not allow himself to be carried around in the lap of materialistic luxury. Judging from past history, great religious leaders are made of more rugged stuff than this self-styled messiah.

"In Krishnamurti's book entitled 'At the Feet of the Master,' he states 'You must give up all feeling of possession.' Yet he is reported as owning a large ranch in California, where he is to go for a period of retirement.

"When Krishnamurti is ready to lay aside all the material things against which he preaches, and comes forth to the masses with a message of help that will remedy many of the problems of our present society, and, incurring the anger of some, becomes a martyr, then we may begin to consider him as a candidate for such an exalted position as a messiah."

KRISHNAMURTI TALKS AT CULT CONVENTION

Addresses Theosophists in Chicago, but Takes No Part in Temple Cornerstone Laying.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—All this morning, with prayers and words, the American Theosophists, gathered at the Hotel Sherman for their 40th annual convention, laid anew the spiritual cornerstone of their faith.

All this afternoon, with mortar and square and plumb-line Dr. Annie Besant, their international President, laid the physical cornerstone of their $250,000 temple, while 3,000 of her followers scrambled about over the clay hills and down the sandy excavations in the suburbs of Wheaton, the better to view the 79-year-old leader in her white robes and red hat.

Jiddu Krishnamurti, heralded as the modern messenger of divinity on earth, spoke briefly at the morning service, which opened the convention. At the dedicatory ceremonies he remained in the big motor car which had driven him and Dr. Besant to Wheaton. When the dedication was over, however, he got out of the car, spoke with many of the Theosophists, and walked about the grounds. He was dressed in a dark gray suit.

FOUR LINERS ARRIVE; TWO ARE DUE TODAY

Many New Yorkers Back and Others Are Returning From Europe.

Two liners are due to arrive today from Europe.

RODGERS BODY LIES IN MARYLAND HOME

FAMILY'S SERVICES TODAY

Nation Will Claim Its Dead for Burial Tomorrow With Full Honors at Arlington.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Aug. 29 (AP).—Commander John Rodgers was home today.

The hero of nine days of drifting on the breast of the Pacific Ocean in a cockleshell of a seaplane during the San Francisco-Hawaiian flight last year, who was killed in a short fall of a land type plane at Philadelphia on Friday, was for the last time among the peaceful surroundings of Zion Hill, home to a long line of illustrious John Rodgerses for a hundred years.

Sorrowing relatives kept vigil throughout the quiet Sabbath over the flag-draped coffin, banked with blooms. Tomorrow the staid halls of the ancestral Rodgers homestead will echo to the solemn rites accorded to the last John Rodgers to fall "in line of duty."

Tuesday the nation will claim its heroic dead with fitting honors, but until then officialdom was standing respectfully aside that a bereaved father and mother, in their own way, might bid farewell first of all to a son.

In addition to the immediate family only a few very intimate friends were admitted today to the stately room where Commander Rodgers's body lay at peace under the Stars and Stripes.

This, the family felt, was as the Commander would have wished it. He died as he had desired to die. He lay in death among his own, where many a previous John Rodgers's feet had trod, as he would have desired to lay.

The Commander's 72-year-old mother was not able to see any one today. The shock of her son's sudden death, after the wearing anxiety of the Pacific flight, was great.

Rear Admiral John A. Rodgers, retired, the Commander's father, although his face showed his sorrow, nevertheless bore up with true Navy fortitude, and received visitors who delivered their messages of sympathy at the door.

John is the second son that Admiral Rodgers, now 78, has mourned. Fred, the youngest of three children, was lost in Alaska sixteen years ago. Only Robert, a New York architect, remains.

Services tomorrow will be conducted at 3:30 P. M., with only the family and a few of the Commander's closest friends in attendance.

The body will then be taken to Washington, where it will be buried with full honors in Arlington National Cemetery at 3 P. M. on Tuesday.

BISHOP FISKE UPHOLDS THE YOUTH OF TODAY

Elders 'Made a Mess of This World,' He Says at Sesquicentennial.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29 (AP).—Today's attendance at the Sesquicentennial Exposition was larger than for the last few Sundays, it was announced tonight, although no official figures were given. All exhibits were patronized, and the amusement features, for which no admission was charged, were crowded.

Several thousand attended the interdenominational religious service in the auditorium, where the speaker was the Rev. Charles Fiske, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Central New York.

Bishop Fiske defended the youth of today and was applauded when he said he had little patience with current criticism of the manners and morals of youth.

"I am not shocked," he added, "at what the young are doing. They want to be real. My generation made a mess of this world. We failed miserably—that's why the younger generation has to strain and struggle so."

His sympathy with the revels of youth, the Bishop said, was based on the conviction that the "freedom of behavior and carelessness of speech" which characterize youth today meant a healthy dislike of more conventionalities, a determination to be natural and human.

Standard of conduct, Bishop Fiske said he believed, could not be stated. "But be sure," he added, "you know what you yourselves want to be and do before you begin to criticize past methods and cast past standards into the discard. God asks you: 'What do you really seek? What is the good you can accomplish?'"

Bishop Fiske said he sometimes felt he would "like to get rid of this collar that fastens in the back and wear fantastically colored socks; in short, not to be known as a minister." This, he declared, was because it often was felt by others that ministers continually were "snooping into others' business and trying to standardize the lives of others."

PRAGUE, Aug. 29.—The American pavilion at the Fall sample fair, in which there are many exhibitors, was formally opened today in the presence of John S. Gittings, First Secretary of the United States Legation, his wife and daughter, and J. F. Hodgson, United States commercial attaché, and his wife. Dr. Perroutka, Czechoslovakia's Minister of Commerce, and Dr. Strangler, Minister of Foreign Affairs, attended the ceremony. Mr. Hodgson, who arranged the American exhibit, has been informed by Washington of his transfer to Egypt.

Aged Woman Found Wandering.

After attempting all day yesterday to establish the identity of an aged woman found wandering about the elevated station at Eighth Avenue and 151st Street, the police of the West 135th Street station sent her to the Municipal lodging house last night. The woman, apparently a victim of amnesia, said she was Amelia Patterson of 350 West 124th Street, but she was not known there. The Missing Persons Bureau was notified in the belief that relatives may report her missing. The woman was well dressed in black clothing and wore a brocaded shawl over her head. She had no money and could not explain how she had come to be at the elevated station.

MOTHER WHO VANISHED LEAVES $750,000 TO SON

French Youth's Luck Revives Interest in Century-Old Suit for American Fortune.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—Roger Matter, a radio operator serving at the naval air station at Rochefort, has inherited a fortune of $750,000—about 24,000,000 francs at present exchange—from his mother, who was divorced when Roger was 9 months old, went to America and never had been heard from since. It now appears that she was married to a wealthy Argentine stock breeder. Recently she died, leaving a will naming him as sole heir.

The young man, who must complete five years' service in the navy, says he will then invest his capital in building up electrical engineering construction works.

News of Matter's good luck has revived interest in another claim to an alleged American fortune, the would-be heirs of which also live in Rochefort and the region. This involves $250,000,000 and has been the subject of litigation lasting a century, causing exchanges of diplomatic notes and even discussions in the French Chamber of Deputies. The case is still undecided and it is rumored that it has entered a fresh phase of the legal struggle.

The story begins in 1785, when a young French emigrant called Mallet sailed to America from Rochefort to seek his fortune. It seems he found it, for he died in 1812, leaving $18,000,000 and valuable land situated in Vermont at a spot known as Mallet's Creek on Mallet's Bay. With compound interest the amount involved has now reached the figure already mentioned.

ABD-EL KRIM'S SHIP STOPS AT TANGIER

Moors There Apathetic as Fallen Leader Passes On Into Exile and Oblivion.

TANGIER, Aug. 29.—The steamer in which Abd-el Krim is on his way from Casablanca via Marseilles to the Island of Réunion, in the Indian Ocean, anchored for a brief but dramatic moment in Tangier Bay this morning.

Since Abd-el Krim's surrender the French authorities have treated him with dignity and courtesy. Whatever may have been his misdeeds, Abd-el Krim was at least a courageous enemy. He goes into exile accompanied by twenty-three members of his family, including his brother and his uncle, with their wives and children.

As far as the Moors are concerned, Abd-el Krim already is almost forgotten. In a country where everything is considered to be ordained by fate, fall from power means fall from memory, and the man whose name so recently was on every one's lips and who played so great a part in Moorish history, passed today into exile and oblivion.

No demonstrations of sympathy were made by the Moors on his departure from Casablanca. Abd-el Krim had spent his three months of captivity at Fez in writing his memoirs and in listening to a gramophone, occupations which seemed to weigh heavily upon this exceptionally active man.

The publisher of the Dépêche Marocaine, a French newspaper published at Tangier, has been officially invited to quit Tangier and announces his immediate departure. This measure has been taken at the demand of the Spanish and Italian Governments, which insist upon his punishment for publication of an offensive manifesto against General Primo de Rivera and Signor Mussolini.

Meanwhile the name of the person who brought the manifesto to the Dépêche office has been disclosed. He is the President of the International Chamber of Commerce of Tangier. He denies that he was the author of the manifesto and asserts that he confided the document to the editor of the newspaper on condition it should not be published. This the publisher in turn flatly denies.

DEFIES BRITISH POLICE.

Commander of American Destroyer Refuses to Give Up Sailors.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—A curious point of international law has arisen over the shooting of an American colored sailor in a black-and-white affray in an English town. A party of American sailors from the destroyers Sharkey and Lardner attended a dance in Rosherville. The presence of colored men at the dance was resented by white sailors, a dispute followed and Emile Paradea, a colored member of the crew of one of the destroyers, was shot.

The sailors concerned immediately returned to the Lardner, to which they belonged. When the police boarded the vessel and demanded the surrender of a member of the crew, Lebon Emanuel Smith, the demand was refused by Lieut. Commander Deem and Captain Peterson, who command the destroyers.

This claiming of the right of sanctuary has raised a question of international law, and the British Foreign Office is said to be in communication with Washington on the subject. Meanwhile Paradea is in a critical condition in a hospital. All the sailors at the dance are in custody aboard the ship, and a board of inquiry has been reviewing the evidence.

JACOB L. BLOCK DEAD.

Merchant Who Gave Freely to Charities a Victim of Heart Disease.

Jacob L. Block of 789 West End Avenue, Manhattan, died on Saturday night of heart disease at the Ocean Crest Hotel, Long Beach, L. I. He was head of Jacob L. Block & Son, dealers in china and enamel ware at 231 Bowery. His age was 58. His wife, Bessie, two sons and three daughters survive.

Mr. Block was a generous supporter of Jewish hospitals and other charities. He was a trustee of the Beth David Hospital, a Director of the Deborah Jewish Consumptives Relief Society, and a member of the Congregation Shaari Zedek in West Ninety-third Street. Funeral services will be held at the residence at one o'clock this afternoon. Interment will be in Union Field Cemetery.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Dr. John George Adami, Vice Chancellor of Liverpool University, former professor of pathology and bacteriology in McGill University, Montreal, Canada, and a distinguished scientist, died today, aged 64 years.

Professor Adami had held many important positions in various universities and many offices in scientific societies and associations of medical men. He was a native of Manchester, England, and attended Owens College there before going to Christ's College, Cambridge, where he gained high honors in science. He received the Darwin Prize in 1885.

Not many years after obtaining his medical degree he went to Canada and there attained a prominent place in his profession. In 1912 he was elected President of the Association of American Physicians, and before he returned to England he had held the presidency of a dozen Canadian societies dealing with hygiene and education.

Professor Adami was the author of many papers on pathological subjects in medical journals and transactions of English, American and French medical organizations. His books included "Principles of Pathology," a "Textbook of Pathology," with Dr. J. McCrae, and the first volume of "The Story of the Canadian Army Medical Corps." He was the Medical Historical Recorder of the C. E. F., and served as colonel in the Canadian Army Medical Corps. His first wife, Mary Stuart Cantlie of Montreal, died in 1916. He later married Marie Wilkinson of Litherland, Lancashire, England.

PATRICK F. SULLIVAN DIES.

A Pioneer Street Railway Man of New England and Financier.

LOWELL, Mass., Aug. 29 (AP).—Patrick F. Sullivan, one of the pioneer street railwaymen of New England, died suddenly today at Lake Sunapee, N. H., while on his way to church. He was 70 years old.

Coming to this city as a boy from Ireland, where he was born, his first street railway experience was gained with the old Lowell horse car company. Later he was associated with the Lowell & Dracutt Street Railway which afterward became the Lowell & Suburban. In 1899 he became General Manager of the Massachusetts Electric Company operating urban and suburban street railway lines, and in 1900 he was made President of the Boston & Northern and Old Colony systems, which later became the Bay State Street Railway.

He was President of the Commercial Insurance Company of Boston and of the Mutual Finance Corporation, and a director of several insurance companies, banks and textile mills.

The Hand That Rocks the Cradle might be safely trusted "not to rock the boat"! In all ages the missions of women have worked more to the good of the world than all its ammunitions. Sixty years ago almost all the stores in this and other cities employed only men as clerks and salespeople. In these days the larger proportion of employes are women, who nowadays are almost indispensable to merchandising.

To this Store their artistic sense, their ideas, loyalty and devotion to customers as well as employers are remarkably manifest.

Our Workshops and sales floors' displays of fashions, new materials, and accessible informations from all countries of the world's originators and makers of goods, afford us all a liberal education.

MARIE-ALPHONSINE

* * * * *

BY OUR PARIS STAFF CORRESPONDENT

A few weeks ago, Marie-Alphonsine's name suddenly flashed on a charming building far up on the Avenue des Champs Elysees—and within a fortnight her hats became the fashion of Paris.

As for Madame Alphonsine herself—just as surely as Rodin had buried his life in the studio—had given his all into the making of living marble, so had Alphonsine devoted her life in the same way to velvet, felt and silk.

The latest model which Madame Alphonsine created exclusively for the Wanamaker Store—Paris and all the world are clamouring for her hats—is one of the most beautiful examples of her art. Small, with a charming little brim which turns up directly in front—and is expressed entirely in black felt.

Dyed in An Exquisite Prune Shade

Dyed furs have been one of the most striking notes in the new Paris fur mode—and for this new coat we have chosen a shade that is not only new but vastly becoming.

A coat of exquisite simplicity—straight and slender in silhouette with a stunning large collar and cuffs of fox, dyed in a shade that harmonizes beautifully with the prune tone of the seal—perfect details that make this coat extremely chic.

That Follow A Straight Path to Chic

The silhouette is not the only smart feature of these new coats. They have the long fur collar—in this instance of kit fox—that definitely dates the wrap as of Winter 1926, and deep cuffs to match.

The fabric is one of those lovely soft-textured woolens—warm yet light in weight—that are destined for an important place in the new mode. The coats are beautifully finished in every detail and lined with the softest silks, and warmly interlined.

MOODY LANDSLIDE BURIES FERGUSONS

CALLS 'JIM'S' CAREER ENDED

Declares Klan Issue Dead and Says State Will Never Have Another 'Proxy' Executive.

TRIUMPH CONCEDED BY FOE

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 29.—With about seven-eighths of the vote cast in yesterday's primary reported, Dan Moody, the youthful Attorney General of Texas, has defeated Mrs. Miriam Ferguson for the Democratic nomination for Governor by between 200,000 and 225,000 votes.

The woman Governor has been overwhelmed by one of the greatest adverse majorities in the history of Texas, and on all sides is heard the comment that the result means the end of Fergusonism in Texas.

The total number of votes so far reported is 699,266, and of these Moody has received 458,669 and Mrs. Ferguson 240,597, a majority of 218,072 for the Attorney General. Moody's friends still claim when the remaining precincts in the State report his majority will be in the neighborhood of 250,000. The best estimate of the final majority, however, would seem to be about 225,000.

The returns so far indicate that of the 252 counties Moody has carried at least 231 and he has a good chance of adding perhaps ten more to his list when all the votes are in.

Although Mrs. Ferguson, under the law, is the Governor, one seldom hears her name mentioned as the victim of the Moody landslide. Everybody, including the Fergusonites, appears agreed that the blow was directed at Jim Ferguson and not at his wife.

Moody Disclaims Personal Victory.

"We will never have another proxy Governor," declared Mr. Moody today, "and I don't think anybody will deny the accuracy of that statement. As for the victory that has come my way, I want to repeat that it was not for me the people were voting, but for the things I stood for and against the things which Jim Ferguson represented in Texas politics. There was only one issue and that was Fergusonism.

"As to the charge made by Ferguson that the backbone of the opposition to him was the Ku Klux Klan, that was just so much tommyrot. Texas voted the Klan out two years ago, and even if it did try to stage a comeback Ferguson is not the man to direct the fight against it.

"There are too many good men in Texas who are and always have been anti-Klan and all of them in every way better qualified than is old Jim to lead that battle if it ever again becomes necessary to do so."

The county which gave Mrs. Ferguson her most impressive majority was Duval, of which the locally famous "Don Archee" Parr is the boss or "Alcalde," as the Texas-Mexicans, who form the bulk of the population in Duval, call him.

"Don Archee" refused to desert the Ferguson standard, and Duval, according to the returns, cast 1,150 votes for the woman executive and only 20 for Moody. Two years ago Mrs. Ferguson received all the votes.

Moody's biggest majorities were in Dallas, Harris, Tarrant, Bexar and El Paso counties, of which Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth, San Antonio and El Paso, in the order named, are the county seats. In all of these counties his precinct majorities ranged from 2 to 1 to 5 to 1 over Mrs. Ferguson.

Ferguson's Course Now Uncertain.

Ferguson himself is keeping quiet as to his future course. That he is a bitterly disappointed man is not denied even by his most loyal supporters, but even these loyal followers say they don't know what he is going to do.

In the race for State Treasurer, W. Gregory Hatcher of Dallas, the Moody candidate, has a lead of more than 150,000 over W. A. Ball, the Ferguson candidate, and Hatcher's nomination is conceded. Mr. Hatcher was the Ferguson manager in the Dallas district in the campaign of 1924. He and Ferguson, however, parted political company more than a year ago.

For Attorney General, both candidates in the run-off are Moody men. They are Claude Pollard and J. V. Allred. Pollard is leading Allred by less than 10,000 votes, and it is still either's race.

Fergusons Philosophical in Defeat.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 29 (AP).—The Fergusons today accepted philosophically the verdict of Texas Democrats selecting Dan Moody, fiery red-haired Attorney General, to succeed the Lone Star State's first woman Governor.

Latest returns compiled by the Texas Election Bureau from 245 counties out of the 252 in the State, 100 complete, gave Moody 469,182, Mrs. Ferguson 247,100.

In defeat, Jim Ferguson, the battling farmer-politician, still twitted his enemies and joshed about his own position today as he sat in a rocking chair in the office of his newspaper, The Ferguson Forum, his Panama hat pulled down over his iron gray hair, his chin resting in his hands, and his long fingers reaching to his eyes, which he kept partly closed.

"My wife's a good sport. She's not worried and you needn't be worried about her either," said Mr. Ferguson. "We are just trying to decide which calf the train ran over."

Attorney General Moody declared today that Jim's Ferguson's career in Texas politics had ended and that his landslide had hurled Ferguson into political oblivion. But the former Governor, who has been a figure in Texas politics since 1914, said:

"I don't wish to take from Moody any of the sweets of victory, but twelve years' experience in politics has taught me that when one is young one is inclined to exaggerate the effects of an accomplishment. Understand, however, I am not seeking to minimize Moody's triumph."

CONFESSED GUNMEN FACE NEW CHARGES

More Accusations May Come When Victims See Prisoners in Rodack Slaying.

A MURDER CASE INCLUDED

Two Persons From Store Where Man and Girl Were Shot Down Will Scrutinize Line-Up.

Hyman Amberg and Bejamin Mintz, two spindling young men, may face additional charges today, the police believe. According to detectives, Mintz has confessed to several daring hold-ups and Amberg to murder and robberies.

Amberg, a pallid chap with a defiant mien, broke down at Police Headquarters late Saturday night and admitted, according to Inspector John D. Coughlin, that he had participated in the killing of Aaron B. Rodack, Broadway's fighting jeweler, who was shot to death in his shop near 150th Street on July 22.

Fifteen hours of driving questioning, during which Amberg vainly tried to sleep, produced the confession, said Inspector Coughlin. Mintz had already told what he knew of several jewel hold-ups and had supplied information which led Detectives Pyke and Jackson to Albany, where they seized Amberg.

The two men are to be confronted at headquarters today with victims of other robberies. Employes of the Sunglo-Sills Company, wholesale grocers at 342 West Thirteenth Street, will be asked to scrutinize Mintz and Amberg in a line-up. Simeon Winterbottom, a salesman, and Miss Josephine de Fiore, a filing clerk, were shot and killed by the hold-up men who entered the Sunglo-Sills office on June 12.

Other witnesses will be asked to see if they can identify the prisoners as members of the bands that stole $75,000 in jewels from William H. Simms & Co., Grand Concourse, the Bronx, and $75,000 in gems from the pawnshop of Herman Goldberg at 91 Eldridge Street last December.

SPANISH HEIR CRITICALLY ILL

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Gibraltar dispatches reiterate what had been stated earlier that complete censorship is being enforced in Spain.

The Daily Express has a dispatch from its special correspondent at Hendaye on the Franco-Spanish frontier stating that the Spanish Cortes have been convoked even earlier than anticipated because of the health of the nineteen-year-old heir-apparent, the Prince of the Asturias, whose condition has suddenly become worse. Fears are felt for his life.

Don Jaime, the King's second son, is deaf and dumb and it appears, according to The Express correspondent, to be the desire of the Spanish nation to see the King's third son, Don Juan, made heir-apparent. The King desires that this should not be done by decree but by act of Parliament.

FORD TO RACE GIANT PLANE.

His Three-Motored Monoplane Entered for Philadelphia Contests.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29 (AP).—Henry Ford has entered his new giant three-motored all-metal monoplane in the national air races which will be held at Model Farms in Southwest Philadelphia Sept. 4 to 11. The plane will be flown here from the Ford airport at Dearborn, Mich., and demonstrated in a series of flights during the race period.

On Sept. 11 the Ford plane will compete against other big freight and passenger carriers in the air transport speed and efficiency race, which will be flown over a twelve-mile course for 120 miles. It will be piloted by R. S. Schroeder, who made one of the most spectacular flights in history in 1920, when he forced his plane to the height of 33,500 feet, more than 5 miles, in a lofty gale and a temperature recorded at the top of his climb as 52 degrees below zero.

Americans in Berlin Summer School

BERLIN, Aug. 29 (AP).—Forty-three Americans from twelve States were among those who attended Summer school courses of Berlin University from July 15 to Aug. 25. These courses were offered by the German Institute for Foreigners in cooperation with the Institute of International Education in New York. The courses included economics, sociology, German art, language, literature and political and social history. This was the first time on the Continent that vacation courses were offered on the American plan with credits. The students, representing twenty-five nations, also enjoyed a Rhine excursion.

Pershing's Son Is "Best Soldier."

FORT SNELLING, Minn., Aug. 29 (AP).—Warren Pershing, son of General John J. Pershing, brought some of his father's talent with him to the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Fort Snelling, which he attended as a "buck" private from Nebraska. He has won the official distinction of being the "best first year soldier in camp." Nearly 2,000 Middle Western youths attended.

CHURCH IN MEXICO SEEKS QUICK ACTION

Bishops Will Ask Congress to Rule in Month on Petition to Amend Religious Laws.

DEFEAT BY CALLES FEARED

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 29.—The Catholic Episcopate, which is now preparing a petition to Congress asking for the repeal or amendment of the religious articles of the Constitution and the penal regulations, proposes to ask that Congress rule on the question within a month of the time the petition is presented.

The time limit is planned, the Bishops say, in order that Congress, which meets on Sept. 6, may not resort to tactics of delay and possibly leave it to the next Congress to act on the laws which provoked the conflict between the Church and the Calles Administration.

Members of the Episcopate have stated that they have little hope that Congress will free the Church from the objectionable laws. The real opposition, the Bishops say, comes from the head of the Government, and, as the Congressmen are hand-picked, no relief may be expected from them if orders come from above to hold up the petition.

Catholics fear that, despite the fact that a number of Congressmen have expressed a willingness to help solve the present difficulties, the power of the Administration may cause the Congressmen to abandon their intentions and listen to the voice of the "boss."

This might make it impossible for the Church to obtain any relief this session or even during the next two years while the present Administration is in office.

Legal Methods Insisted On.

But even though the Church leaders believe the prospects of relief are slender, they intend, they say, to use all the legal channels open to them as an answer to the allegation that the Church has set itself outside the law of the country.

If the petition to Congress should be rejected, Mexico may expect a continuance of the economic boycott which has hit business hard in many sections of the republic.

Church leaders have said that the solution lies really in the hands of President Calles. They point to his assertion that he was using extraordinary powers granted to him by Congress when he enforced the new regulations, and they declare that as Congress is not now in session and will not meet until Sept. 6, the President, if he wished, could revoke his decree.

The refusal of President Calles to make any changes in the laws was clearly indicated at his recent conference with the Bishops.

The clergy say that this shows that the President is biased, and that unless Congress revolts against his expressed wishes the Church may as well give up hope of relief in that quarter and devote itself to a study of more practical means of obtaining what it wants.

Possibility of Youthful Outbreak.

Although the clergy have ordered Catholics to use peaceful and legal means in seeking the demands of the Church, there is a possibility that some of the younger generation may decide to take stronger measures.

Young blood is usually ready for adventure, and what better adventure, ask some of these youths, than to imitate the knights of old who battled for their beloved Mother Church.

The priests realize this danger and are constantly counseling associations of young Catholics to use peaceful and legal measures in fighting to obtain the relief the Church desires.

The boycott is effective. That cannot be denied. Coupled with the business depression which started early this year, it has had the effect of slowing business down to a walk.

Many debtors assert that they are enforcing the boycott, and when the boycott is over they will settle their accounts. Many business men accustomed to pay their accounts monthly are now hard pressed and pleading for time. The banks have tightened up. Practically no loans are being made and strong efforts to collect are apparent.

Ruin Seen In Stricter Boycott.

The stiffer boycott planned by Catholics, should Congress fail to heed their request for amendment of the laws, would practically ruin all business except that in articles of necessity, business men say.

The fifth Sunday since services were suspended in the Catholic churches of the republic, as a protest against the laws, passed quietly in the capital.

Worshipers in small numbers visited the churches, but the number today was much less than last week. Many are praying in their own homes. The visitors to the churches were mostly women dressed in mourning.

Reports from the Valley of Mexico show that everything is peaceful, with few visiting the several hundred churches in the Federal District.

The moving picture houses in the capital, however, reported an increased attendance this afternoon. The owners said that today's business was the biggest since the boycott started, but that the attendance a weekday performances was small.

MADE GARVEY'S SUCCESSOR.

G. A. Weston, New Head of Negro Improvement Association, Tells Plans

A new program, to gain the support of negroes alienated by the tactics of Marcus Garvey, was announced last night by George A. Weston, newly elected President General of the Universal Negro Improvement Association, at a meeting at Liberty Hall, 120 West 138th Street.

Weston announced that the followers of Garvey had been entirely defeated during the sessions of the convention held this month. The Garvey supporters met their final defeat on Thursday at the election and withdrew from the organization.

"Unfortunately," Weston said, "the public has up to now seen only Garvey and knows little, if anything, of the organization he has so gravely misrepresented. The organization is faced with the immediate task of setting its house in order and re-establishing itself in the esteem and respect of the world."

Garvey is confined in Atlanta prison, but nevertheless has continued to direct the association through his followers. They have established a new organization under the name of Garveyites.

F. D. Roosevelt Is Democratic 'Keynoter'; Mills, Republican, to Precede Him on Radio

Franklin D. Roosevelt, former Assistant Secretary of the Navy, who was the head of the Smith forces at the last Democratic National Convention, has been selected as temporary chairman of the Democratic State Convention, it was learned last night, and will make the "keynote" speech at Syracuse on Sept. 27. According to the present plan, Mr. Roosevelt probably will continue as the permanent chairman.

Under an arrangement with the Republican State Committee, Mr. Roosevelt will be preceded as a "keynoter" on the radio by Representative Ogden L. Mills, who has been chosen as temporary chairman of the Republican State Convention to be held in Madison Square Garden in this city the same day. In this way both speeches will be broadcast by Stations WJZ and WGY. Mr. Mills will speak at noon and Mr. Roosevelt's speech is scheduled for 2 o'clock. Under this tentative arrangement for dividing time on the air, the Republicans will nominate a Governor and other State officers on the night of Sept. 27 and the candidate for Senator the following morning. The Democrats may reverse this procedure, naming the Senatorial candidate the night of Sept. 27 and the candidate for Governor and other State offices the following day.

Mr. Roosevelt has agreed to accept the temporary chairmanship. Incidentally, his selection was considered by Democrats to have removed practically all doubt that Governor Smith would run for re-election in response to the demand of the party leaders.

ADVERTISING MEN TO 'SELL' RELIGION

International Association Will Aid in Wide Campaign Backed by Churches.

DR. STELZLE TO DIRECT IT

Messages of 100 Ministers Will Be Broadcast Throughout This and Other Countries.

A church advertising campaign will be conducted by the International Advertising Association, formerly the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. A commission of 100 clergymen of various denominations will prepare the messages to be promoted.

These announcements were made yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Charles Stelzle, who was chosen last June President of the Church Advertising Department of the association at the annual meeting of the latter in Philadelphia. Mr. Stelzle, who is a Presbyterian, succeeded the Rev. Christian F. Reisner, pastor of Chelsea Methodist Church.

The period between Christmas and Easter has been settled on for the campaign, which is to extend not only over the United States but in Canada and in several European countries.

"This campaign will not be merely a 'Go-to-Church' movement, said Dr. Stelzle. "Our primary object is to show the country of what religion consists.

"The messages to be prepared by the commission of 100 clergymen will contain the fundamental teachings of Christianity not only with regard to personal religion but with reference to the attitude of the Church toward present-day problems. These messages will be prepared by pastors and preachers, who are actually facing the people and their problems in their own churches and communities."

The Advertising Club News, the official organ of the New York Advertising Club, to be issued today, contains a signed editorial by Mr. Stelzle, entitled: "Can Advertising Men Advertise Religion?"

He says in part: "Advertising men connected with the International Advertising Association will this year be given a chance to prove that their philosophy and methods are capable of 'selling' that which supplies the most important need of the human race—namely, religion.

"Religion holds the greatest appeal to mankind. It is superior to patriotism, economic interest, filial loyalty and every other human relationship. It has the only cure for sin. It gives comfort in sorrow. It guides in times of perplexity. It offers strength to the weak and the weary. It promises eternal life.

"To proclaim religion is an advertising man's job. The preachers have done marvelously well, missionaries of the Cross have gone to the ends of the earth and given their lives to this cause. But advertising men may fit into this great task in a peculiar way. To effectively promote religion can be made one of the greatest functions of an advertising club."

MEXICANS THANK POPE FOR COMFORT IN STRIFE

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Aug. 29.—Pope Pius has received a letter from the Archbishop of Mexico, the Most Rev. José Mora y del Rio, assuring him of the determination of the Mexican Episcopate to continue the fight against the Calles Government's religious regulations.

The Archbishop's letter reads in part:

Most Holy Father:

It is with a profoundly moved spirit and with tears in my eyes that I address your Holiness in the name of all the Bishops, clergy and faithful in Mexico to thank you for your letter of June 14, 1926.

It was a great comfort and consolation to us in the most unhappy conditions in which we find ourselves. Oppressed, persecuted and afflicted, we have no hope but in God and in you, most Holy Father, who are Christ's vicar on earth and who, with heart filled with His charity, find for us, your poor children, words of comfort and love to encourage us to persevere with strong minds in the fight for the defense of our faith.

Yes, most Holy Father, animated by your sweet words and by your advice, we shall continue, with the Divine assistance, to fight with determination.

If at present we cannot give your Holiness more consoling news of our religious conditions, we wish, at least, to give you once again proof of our profound devotion to your august person, to your exhortations and advice. We wish to answer your paternal advice with our love and sincere attachment.

We are firmly convinced that God, by permitting these attacks of the powers of darkness against us, will know how to derive from our tribulations great benefit for the Church and for all of us, as you, most Holy Father, have yourself stated in your most kindly letter.

We have great faith in the prayers which the faithful throughout the whole world are offering up for us at your request. We also join in these prayers, and we are certain that they will soon obtain for us from the Divine clemency the desired day of triumph for the Church, which will be a great consolation for you, most Holy Father, and which will make for the peace and tranquility of our country.

The Pope replied to the Archbishop's letter in a consoling message in which he quoted liberally from verses two to seven of chapter one of St. Paul's Second Letter to the Corinthians.

WALKER DEPLORES RELIGIOUS TICKETS

MAKES ALLUSION TO SMITH

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 29.—Mayor James Walker of New York, guest of Bridgeport Democrats at a dinner at Champ's Farm, Black Rock, arranged by former Senator Archibald McNeil Jr. and other members of the Fifth District Democratic Club, deplored the disposition on the part of many people to vote religious tickets without regard to platform or candidates' ability.

"I have a religion, but it is not something to wear on one's sleeve," he said. "My religion has charity and love of my brother at its root. If I feel I have the quickest, shortest, most comfortable and direct route I should not be angry with my brother because he wants to take a different route which he thinks better. One should be willing to aid the other."

"What room is there in this world for prejudice?" asked Mayor Walker. The lines of demarcation that some one had drawn, dividing the States and countries, did not change humanity. "After all," he said, "we are just humanity and God's own children, no matter what the State or nation." He deplored the fact that men still existed who could find the time for prejudices and bigotry in contradistinction to the Declaration of Independence.

Indirect Allusions to Smith.

Mayor Walker said he did not want to be understood as proselytizing for political purposes or spreading propaganda for Governor Smith, because of his remarks about religion in politics.

"I haven't a thing in the world to sell," he told the assembled Democrats from all parts of the State. "I have not been asked by the greatest Democrat I know in the United States of America to express or mention his name. You evidently remember it without its being mentioned," he added, the crowd having applauded.

Asserting that the man he had in mind was the product of the Democratic organization and came from the sidewalks of New York, Mayor Walker stated that this man would prefer that his name be not brought out in such a political atmosphere.

"He is trying the best he knows how to return to private life, so he can give his family the things he thinks they should have, after twenty-five years of public service. If he had his way he would retire; if we have our way he will not."

The crowd was quick to appreciate the fact that Governor Smith was the man Mayor Walker referred to and the Mayor returned to New York with the assurance from former Congressman Patrick D. O'Sullivan of Derby and Mayor William B. Thoms of Waterbury, who were among the speakers, that Connecticut's fourteen delegates to the next Democratic National Convention will be solidly pledged to support the candidacy of Governor Smith for President.

Both Thoms and O'Sullivan denounced in scathing terms those prejudiced against Governor Smith because of the latter's religion. Other speakers who joined with Mayor Walker in lauding the Tammany organization, Governor Smith, and all things Democratic, were Assistant District Attorney George F. Mara of New York and Bridgeport, and Charles G. Morris of New Haven, last Democratic nominee for Governor.

Mayor Walker and his party came to Bridgeport from New York with Esmund O'Brien on Morgan J. O'Brien's yacht early this afternoon. Former Senator McNeil escorted the party to his home and there was an informal reception prior to the public dinner.

Gets Freedom of City.

Mayor F. William Behrens, Republican, extended the "freedom of the city" to the New York Democratic Mayor, and following the dinner in Bridgeport took Mayor Walker and other guests to his farm outside the city for supper.

In return for the "freedom of the city" extended him by Mayor Behrens, Mayor Walker extended the "freedom of the city" to all present when they are in New York. He said he had been giving the freedom of the city to all sorts of celebrities and dignitaries and had not been able to tell them what it would do for them or what it would get them.

"When I am out in my car and see a red light I have to stop. When an officer says to move, I move. I offer that freedom freely to you."

REPUBLICAN HOLD ON SENATE DOUBTED

Washington Observers Say the Outlook Is for Control of No More Than Half.

MARGIN RESTS ON 4 STATES

New York Is Believed Likely to Be Pivotal With Illinois, Ohio and Missouri Also In Balance.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Whether the Republican Party will hold a Senate majority, even in name, sufficient to organize the upper branch of the Congress to be elected in November, political observers here declare may depend upon a single pivotal State like New York.

As the primaries draw toward a close and with the election a little more than two months away, the certainties and the probabilities together seem to assure the party of President Coolidge no more than an even half of the Senate. There may be breaks in the situation before November, but at this time Republicans are in a rather doleful frame of mind about the political complexion of the new Senate.

New York State is regarded as one of four great doubtful battlefields in the campaign. The others are Illinois, Ohio and Missouri. Whether the Republicans are to have a nominal Senate margin, and if so, how much, is believed to depend largely upon the Senatorial elections in these four States.

Even then, it is declared that the Republicans cannot count upon more than nominal control. They will lose actual control at any time that a group of independents chooses to exercise the balance of power against them, as in the Sixty-eighth Congress. The best they can hope for now, apparently, is strength enough to organize the Senate.

The death of Senator Bert M. Fernald in Maine having added another vacancy to the list, thirty-five Senatorial vacancies occur this year in thirty-four States, Indiana electing two members.

Present Line-Up Charted.

The present Senate is composed of fifty-six Republicans, thirty-nine Democrats and one Farmer-Labor member. Of the thirty-five seats to be filled by election, twenty-eight are now occupied by Republicans and seven by Democrats.

Democratic certainties: Overman, North Carolina; Fletcher, Florida; Black, Alabama; Caraway, Arkansas; Smith, South Carolina; George, Georgia, and Broussard, Louisiana. Total—7.

These Democratic candidacies are for seats of those whose terms expire this year, and all are in the solid Democratic South.

Doubtful States: New York, Ohio, Illinois and Missouri.

Election by the Republicans of their fourteen certain and six probable winners would give that party 48 of the total Senate membership of 96. Election by the Democrats of their seven certain and four probable winners would give the Democrats 43 members.

Situation in "Doubtful" States.

Beyond those figures, New York, Ohio, Illinois and Missouri must determine the apportionment. The Senators from these four States, whose terms expire on March 3, are all Republicans.

Peculiar local circumstances put two of these States, New York and Illinois, in the doubtful list. There might be no doubt about a huge Republican majority in New York for Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr. were it not for the fact that the dry Republicans have brought out an independent candidate against him.

In Illinois the "slush fund" inquiry and the wet campaign of the Democratic nominee give uncertainty to what ordinarily would be regarded as a sure Republican result.

As for Ohio and Missouri, they usually furnish such a battle in November that August forecasts are futile.

If the Republicans should carry all four of the States listed as doubtful, the Senate of the Seventieth Congress would be composed of fifty-two Republicans, forty-three Democrats and one Farmer-Labor member.

By conceding even this success to the Republicans, when it is recalled that the Republican list will include outright anti-Administration independents like La Follette, Norris, Nye, Brookhart, Frazier and Blaine of Wisconsin (if Lenroot is defeated in the Wisconsin primaries week after next), to say nothing of Borah, Couzens, Howell and Hiram Johnson, it appears that the Administration may be in a minority any time the insurgents choose to vote with Democrats.

DENIES KLARNER WILL QUIT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—An official denial of recent reports which predicted that Finance Minister Klarner of Poland would resign because of criticism by part of the Polish press of his approval of the suggestions of the Kemmerer commission was issued tonight by the Polish Legation.

Jan Stalinsky, Secretary of the legation, said that in response to an inquiry made by the Polish Minister at Washington the following communiqué had been received from the Warsaw Government:

"The legation of Poland is authorized to state officially that there is no foundation for any rumors pertaining to the resignation of Finance Minister Klarner, nor for the alleged disapproval of the suggestions being made by Professor Kemmerer, who at the present time is heading a financial mission in Poland. On the contrary, Professor Kemmerer's suggestions are being carefully studied by the proper departments of the Government and have all chances of being adopted. The work of Professor Kemmerer's commission is being conducted in full harmony with the Government."

Burglar-Alarm Maker Robbed; Failed to Use Own Devices

PARIS, Aug. 29.—M. de Righetti of the Boulevard Lefevre, Paris, manufactures a burglar alarm apparatus guaranteed to make any house or apartment burglar-proof.

This morning when a night watchman at the manufacturer's residence found a number of tools missing from a shed and saw a broken window he immediately called Righetti. It was found that the house had been broken into and a safe rifled of its contents.

Meanwhile detectives arrived and suggested that it was a pity the only place M. Righetti had not seemed to think it worth while to install his burglar-proof alarm was his own home.

POLICEMAN IS HELD ON HOMICIDE CHARGE

Accusation of Simple Assault Is Changed After Man He Is Said to Have Beaten Dies.

HE DENIES RESPONSIBILITY

Action Against Him Is Based on Story of Couple Who Say They Saw Attack in Central Park.

Patrolman Joseph A. Higgins of the Arsenal Station in Central Park was locked up last night charged with having beaten Clinton De Forest, a negro, 36 years old, of 256 West 130th Street, thereby causing his death in the Metropolitan Hospital yesterday morning.

The assault is said to have occurred in the park at about 11:45 P. M. on Aug. 24. Shortly before midnight that night, John Muller, of 376 Fifth Avenue, and a woman whose name was not learned, went to the Arsenal Station and said that, while they were walking along the West Drive near Seventy-first Street, they saw a patrolman beating a man with his fists.

Within fifteen minutes after this report, Joseph Henn, a taxicab driver of 3,311 Broadway, found De Forest lying unconscious in the roadway of the East Drive near Seventy-first Street.

De Forest's skull and jaw were fractured and he had other injuries. He was taken to the Metropolitan Hospital. Captain Albert Mason of the Arsenal Station started an investigation the next morning. He learned that Higgin's beat took in that part of the West Drive where Muller and the woman said they had seen the patrolman beating the man.

Higgins was questioned at the station house, but denied any connection with the assault. Captain Mason also questioned De Forest at the hospital but De Forest declined to say how he received his injuries. Captain Mason pursued the investigation and on Friday directed the arrest of Higgins on a simple assault charge, as De Forest was still alive.

Higgins was suspended from duty and was arraigned in West Side Court. He was released on bail and on the advice of his counsel refused to discuss the charge against him. He was ordered to report to Captain Mason at 4 o'clock each afternoon.

News of the death of De Forest was received at the Arsenal station not long after noon yesterday. When Higgins reported at 4 P. M. Captain Mason questioned him for several hours and then placed the homicide charge against him.

Taken to the detention jail in the East Sixty-seventh Street Station Higgins continued to deny any connection with the death of De Forest. Higgins is 31 years old and lives at 468 West Fifty-eighth Street.

Captain Mason declared that no clubbing had been done by the assailant of De Forest. He said that De Forest had died from blows from a fist. He also said that if Higgins did beat the man it was very possible that, coming on De Forest in the dark, the patrolman believed he had been robbing couples in the park and struck him in an attempt to chase him out of the park.

Captain Mason, however, was not able to explain how De Forest reached the spot where he was found, on the opposite side of the park from the place where he was beaten.

ONE DIES, THREE HURT, AS AUTO HITS BOOM

Six in Car Crash Into Big Timber in South Street—Another Man May Die.

Six men in a heavy touring car sped north along South Street shortly before midnight last night, past an open space between Piers 9 and 10 used for parking heavy booms, each weighing two tons. As they passed this space the car collided with a boom. The great wooden structure plunged headon through the windshield, and as the car ran on the boom went on through the back of the car and extended behind it. The car came to a stop 200 feet further on, with the boom balanced on it.

Police of the Old Slip Station, just across the street, heard the crash and ran over to investigate. They lifted the boom from the passengers of the car and found one of them dead. Another man—the driver of the machine—was apparently dying. Two were severely injured. Two others were so badly shaken they could give no coherent account of how the accident had happened. A broken whisky bottle was in the wreckage of the car.

The dead man was Michael Farrell, 19 years old, of 442 West Twenty-ninth Street. The man expected to die is Raymond Rossiter, 21, of 393 Hicks Street, Brooklyn. The others injured are Joseph Roth, 22, of 23 West Street, and Joseph Lyons, 22, of 127 Cedar Street. The others, who were unhurt, are Michael Donovan of 189 Greenwich Street, and Anthony Chery of 111 Washington Street, both youths in their teens.

There is no report of the car having been stolen, but the police said an investigation would be made as to this possibility. Rossiter, they said, would be charged with homicide if he recovered. The uninjured men of the party, said that Rossiter, driving the car alone, had picked them up on West Street and taken them for a ride.

It was understood that red lights had been on the booms before the accident but the police were not sure of this. The booms were at the side of the road out of the way of normal traffic.

BEACHES CROWDED; 600,000 GO TO CONEY

250,000 AT THE ROCKAWAYS

MANY BATHERS RESCUED

Additional Attractions Planned to Draw Throngs to the Seashore Next Month.

Coney Island was visited by 600,000 amusement seekers yesterday, on the first fair Sunday in three weeks. The crowds at the Rockaways were estimated at 250,000, and Long Beach, L. I., Asbury Park and Atlantic City reported more visitors than on any Sunday in August. Concessionaires, who declared this season to be the worst in their memory, said that the fine weather yesterday helped to reduce their losses.

At country and mountain resorts and at some Summer hotels up State business is said to have been so quiet that the places are nearly empty.

Coney Island concessionaires are hoping for continued favorable weather. A nightly display of fireworks in the week of Sept. 6 to 12, and the Mardi Gras from Sept. 13 to 19 inclusive, are counted upon to bring crowds of visitors.

Thousands Go Bathing.

Thousands went in bathing at Coney Island yesterday. No drownings were reported. Abraham Chesler, 15 years old, of 1,120 Clarkson Avenue, Brooklyn, was rescued by two life guards when he was seized with cramps. He was treated at Coney Island Hospital and sent home.

At Rockaway bathhouses were occupied to capacity. The police estimated that between 30,000 and 35,000 motor cars traveled along Cross Bay Road during the day. Harry Minor, chief life guard, reported eighteen rescues.

At Long Beach the crowd was estimated at 150,000.

Frank Frankel, former Mayor of Long Beach, owner of the bus lines and one of the biggest holders of property on the Boardwalk, said that if the concessionaires had not done plenty of business when the weather was good they could not have met their expenses. The Hotel Nassau, which opened early in April and will keep open all Winter, reported through its managing director, Louis H. Saltzman, that although this has been a bad season in point of weather his hotel showed a profit.

The crowd in Atlantic City began to arrive Saturday afternoon. At noon yesterday the Boardwalk was jammed. Thousands of persons were on the beach and in the water. Special one-day excursions arrived over the railroads, and motor parties were there from all parts of the country. Merchants are looking forward to a banner September.

Hopes to Break Even.

Beach front concessionaires at Asbury Park have suffered heavily by the adverse weather, but the average results of the season are expected to be satisfactory, according to general reports. The next ten days will mean much. If the weather is fair from now until the Labor Day holiday period many losses may be made up.

An examination of commercial reports bears out the opinion of leading Asbury Park business men that the average business for the season will be fair, a few lines of business making a profit, while others will just about make expenses. The best barometer of business conditions at the seashore is collections. The banks in the shore section were the first to initiate an early movement.

Leading bankers early in the season were not inclined to be over-optimistic. Many loans extended for seasonal businesses have been cleared up by this time, or a month ahead of the usual time, it was said. The next bank call is likely to show a decided increase in deposits. One leading shore bank has deposits aggregating a half million more than this time last year.

There has been a lively demand for rain insurance in the last two months, but it was said that premiums have been increased to a point that is prohibitive.

WILL BUILD FIRE TOWER.

Westchester to Have Watching Post in Pound Ridge Reservation.

Special to The New York Times.

POUND RIDGE, N. Y., Aug. 29.—A fire observation tower will be erected by the Westchester County Park Commission on the summit of Stony Ridge, the highest point on the Pound Ridge Reservation, having an elevation of about 860 feet above sea level. The tower will be sixty-nine feet high, so that the observers' enclosure at the top will be at an elevation of about 920 feet. The steel work for the tower, which is of the standard type used by the State Conservation Commission, was transported yesterday to the site. The tower will be erected and equipped within the next few weeks and the fire observer will be stationed there from Nov. 1 until the first good snowfall.

The Pound Ridge Reservation includes an area of about 3,800 acres, the greater part of which is woodland.

HORSE MENACES McADOOS.

Wild Steed at Santa Barbara Rodeo Fights Six Cowboys in Their Box.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Aug. 29 (AP).—A wild horse ridden by Tome Chase at a rodeo here yesterday afternoon threw its rider, broke through a fence and plunged into a box occupied by William Gibbs McAdoo and members of his family.

The rider was injured in the fall.

Mr. McAdoo stood between his wife, children and two women guests while they climbed out of the rear of the box.

It took the best efforts of six cowboys to overcome the animal and drag him from the box.

Topics of Sermons Yesterday in Metropolitan Pulpits

WARNS WAR DEBT ALIENATES ALLIES

FEARS WORLD BITTERNESS

Rector Recently Returned From Preaching Mission Pictures Public's Attitude Abroad.

The Rev. Dr. W. Russell Bowie, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, Broadway and Tenth Street, who recently returned from England, where he preached in Westminster Abbey and other cathedrals under the auspices of the Council on Interchange of Preachers between Great Britain and America, said in his sermon yesterday morning that America must recognize the danger of a growing alienation between this country and our recent allies in the war.

"The matter of our international relationships and particularly the settlement of the international debts," Dr. Bowie said, "may seem to be the business solely of governmental officials and of financial experts. It is true that there are many details which do belong exclusively to these; but there are other far larger and deeper considerations which belong to and must be settled by the public opinion of the whole people.

"No thoughtful visitor to England and to France at this time can fail to see that in both countries there is a growing feeling that America is more harshly insistent upon its own interests than it is helpfully concerned with building up a better world morale. On the meerly practical basis it is doubtful if our present policies can succeed. Payment of a debt by one nation to another depends not only upon figures written upon a bill, but upon that nation's belief that the debt ought to be paid and its willingness to pay it.

Situation in France.

"In France there is a decreasing number of people who either want to pay the war debt to the United States, at at present negotiated, or think that France can pay it. And no Government will go far in this direction beyond the opinion of the people.

"Furthermore, there is increasing unrest in England as to England's parallel obligation. With the tremendous weight of the present income tax and with the huge economic dislocation caused by the coal strike, there is danger that the British people will feel the continuation of their payments on the American debt to be an intolerable burden, unless the whole matter can be readjusted in the light of the mutual obligations and the mutual difficulties of all the nations concerned.

"The peoples at whose side we fought think we have forgotten that brotherhood of danger—forgotten those appalling losses while they held the lines after we had declared war but for long months were not ready to wage it; forgotten that much of the money they borrowed was spent on supplies which we manufactured and from which we profited.

Fear of Embittered World.

"Technically our claims may be entirely just; but the far more important question is as to what is happening while we press them. Are forced payments of highly problematical sums valuable enough to be exacted at the price of an embittered world? If Secretary Mellon was right when he said that 'the entire foreign debt is not worth as much to the American people in dollars and cents as a prosperous Europe as a customer,' is it not equally right to ask whether the entire debt is worth as much as a generously treated Europe as a friend?

"The whole question of the debts involves not only today's dollars but tomorrow's destinies, not only our supposed profits but our children's likelihood of war or peace, and therefore the problem before us is not merely financial but religious, since it involves the influences which may make or unmake our world.

"The time has come when America ought to frame some generous offer to reconsider the whole post-war settlements, in relation to decrease of armaments and to the building up of international cooperation. Without some such offer, we shall be stumbling toward international bitterness and collision. With some such offer, we can create the spirit by which alone the future can be made more friendly and more hopeful as well for us as for the other peoples."

NO LIGHT FOR 'HIGHBROWS.'

Dr. H. H. McQuilkin Declares Salvation Is for the Innocent.

New York is a city blind to the divine miracles of Jesus, and its people turn away unheeding and uncomprehending from His divine messages, according to the Rev. Dr. H. H. McQuilkin of Orange, N. J., who preached yesterday morning at the Broadway Presbyterian Church, Broadway at 114th Street.

"The secret of the Lord," he said, "is with those who fear Him. There's something esoteric bout salvation. Only the initiated can find it; and the key is a willing heart. The 'highbrow,' if you'll pardon the term, can never see the light. The rich, who in their own estimation stand in need of nothing, are unwilling to be taught. The spirit of salvation is for the innocent; and all great men, after all, are innocent at heart."

SOUL'S LATCHSTRING INSIDE

Dr. F. F. Johnston Says Jesus Waits for Permission to Enter.

That the latch to the door of our souls is on the inside, and that it depends upon the individual whether or not Jesus may enter in, was the assertion of the Rev. Dr. Frederick F. Johnston yesterday morning at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church, Park Avenue and Fiftieth Street.

"He waits to be permitted to take possession of my life," said Dr. Johnston, "and it is up to me to allow Him to guide it, and lead it. Strangely enough, He will not force an entrance, but in the Master's own words, 'If any man hear my voice, and welcome Me I will come in and sup with him.'"

HE DEFINES RIGHTEOUSNESS

Righteousness was defined yesterday morning by the Rev. Dr. Harry Lathrop Reed, President of Auburn Presbyterian Theological Seminary, who preached in the West End Collegiate Reformed Church, West End Avenue and Seventy-seventh Street. He said it is "simply the attribute of being 'all right'."

"Righteousness," he said, "is just rightness. Sometimes we make it too theological as a biblical word. Rightness is not easy of definition, but everybody knows what it is. We are conscious of rightness even if we cannot adequately define it.

Dr. Carter Likens Cropsey To Two Prophets of Israel

HUNTINGTON, L. I., Aug. 29.—Preaching at the Central Presbyterian Church here today, the Rev. William Carter, D. D., pastor of the Throop Avenue Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, used Justice James C. Cropsey as a type of prophet and reformer very much needed today. The sermon was on Elijah and Elisha and their stand against personal and national evils and what they accomplished for the regeneration of their nation.

"There is always a man for the times when the times need a man," the preacher said. "Elijah and Elisha were called of God for a very specific work. They saw something that needed doing and they did it because they were patriots, as well as religious enthusiasts. The call today is for laymen to get busy about the moral welfare of the land and not let the lawless and spiritually indifferent rule the State and nation.

"God be praised we have such a man on Long Island today—a man who, though a layman, is a Christian! A man who can turn aside from the offer of a Governorship unless the party offering it will agree to the moral program he has in mind. A man who will not run on a platform that seeks to flout the law, and insists on a definite statement for law and order and righteousness. May God give the Republican Party brains enough to see that only such a man can win in such a fight that is now before the State and moral purpose enough to nominate and elect him."

ASKS COMBINATION OF POWER AND LOVE

Man's Will to Dominate Causes War Unless Love Goes With It, Says Dr. E. Y. Mullins.

Modern strife, such as the World War or industrial conflict, is due to a failure to combine the instincts in men for power and for love, the Rev. Dr. Edgar Young Mullins of Louisville, Ky., President of the Baptist World Alliance, declared in a sermon yesterday morning in the Brick Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street.

Dr. Mullins, who is President of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, the largest Christian school for training young men for the ministry in the world, was obliged to stand in the aisle after the service for almost an hour greeting the scores of Southerners of all denominations who attended.

"It is a very great pleasure to me to occupy this Presbyterian pulpit this morning," said the clergyman. "I am not at all a stranger in a Presbyterian pulpit. I preach for the Presbyterians in Louisville often and feel quite at home among them."

The preacher took his text from Revelation 1, 6: "And hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father; to Him be glory and dominion forever and ever. Amen."

"Kingship and priesthood were combined ideas in the Old Testament, but this was not so in the New Testament," said Dr. Mullins. "Kingship stood for power and priesthood stood for love. These two are combined in the Christian religion.

"It is only when we add to the desire for power the attributes of love and sympathy that we contribute anything permanent to humanity. It is the combination of the kingly and the priestly that makes the strong man and the strong woman.

"A college education is for self-discipline. A man who cannot govern himself cannot govern others. We must add self-sacrifice, self-denial and self-renunciation. When these are combined the result is a fully-rounded, splendid, radiant, Christian manhood.

"Power by itself turns to ashes in a man's hands and it does not satisfy a man's heart. Here in America we look upon power in one of two lights—either as imperialism or trusteeship.

"The conflict between the employer and the employe is due to the conflict between the kingly and the priestly instincts. There will never be a solution of the problems between capital and labor until power and love combine.

"In my opinion, any form of government will succeed when men's hearts are right. The supreme service that we can render today is to make the hearts of humanity right. I would rather stand in the sunlight of God's love and God's truth, and help to cure the tired and weary and broken-hearted than to be rich or powerful or great."

Crooked Man Fails in Modern Business Because World Is Straight, Says Dr. Hutchins

Special to The New York Times.

SILVER BAY-ON-LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Problems of the business man who seeks consistently to apply the principles of his religious faith to business were discussed this morning by the Rev. Dr. William J. Hutchins, President of Berea College, Berea, Ky., in a sermon preached by special invitation before the 550 attendants at the ninth annual conference on human relations in industry, which ended its four-day program here today.

"Any religion," said Dr. Hutchins, "to claim the attention of industry, must engage itself not so much to save us from the fires of hell as to abolish hell right here and now. In this day, with our passion for reality, our desire to de-bunk society, the producers of the world cannot be satisfied to call that religion which consists merely of the dedication of money to deity; or consists of ceremonies and ritual; or merely in sweet words offered to God, or which engages itself merely with bane or bliss in the after world.

"We sometimes talk as if the truly Christian man is bound to fail in business. I am more often impressed by the fact that a man fails in this so-called crooked world because he is crooked himself, and the world is so everlastingly straight that it strikes directly across the man's crookedness.

"It is clear that you can't run some industries and be true to the facts of faith. It is equally certain that you can't make great profits out of some industries, and still be true. I think it entirely possible that a man in industry, who wakes to the facts of faith, may go to the wall. But do we not exaggerate the dangers run by such a man? I believe that under all ordinary circumstances the Christian man will not fail. The man, 'in the handiwork of whose craft is his prayer,' will not starve, nor will his family starve. The man whose labor is dominated, penetrated, permeated by religion, may not leave a deal of money to damn his children, but he leaves them a good name, and a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches."

SAYS CITY NEGLECTS SOULS OF THE YOUNG

Father McQuade Cites Theatre's Influence and Lack of Religion in Schools.

It is more important that we acquire habits of self-control than the learning of schools and colleges, the Rev. Father Bernard F. McQuade said yesterday morning in his sermon at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Fifth Avenue and Fiftieth Street.

While the things we deny ourselves during Lent may in themselves be harmless enough, he added, they keep us in training to resist greater and more serious temptations.

"There is a tendency in the world today," continued Father McQuade, "to live according to the standards of the people about us, and any man who lives according to such standards is bound to lose his soul.

"If you believed all you read in the newspapers and magazines you would think that the only object of life was to attain material success. The city and civic bodies care for your material health: They see to it that proper sewers are built and that the streets are kept clean—but they take no care of your soul. They are not concerned with the atmosphere of the theatres, nor will they stop the literature which is harming the souls of your young people.

"The schools of the city have no care for the souls of your children. They ignore the fact that the primary end of education is ethical rather than material training. They take away religion. With religion relegated to a half-hour period a week, the child can hardly think it an important thing.

"What the country needs is more good moral men. Our prisons are filled with educated men, and all about us we see this spirit of worldliness.

"Parents today too often give their children anything they ask for, so that when school is over and they are no longer under careful supervision, they have no strength of character to meet greater temptations.

"I know that it is not considered good form to mention hell and the devil before educated audiences today, but they are both real nevertheless. The devil can transfer ideas into our heads, and surely will do so unless we keep them filled with pious readings."

FINDS COMFORT FOR DYING.

God Needs Man, Says Dr. Shillito, and Will Not Desert the Dead.

The knowledge that God needs man and that He is ever seeking him is the Christian's supreme comfort in the face of death, according to the Rev. Dr. Edward Shillito, pastor of the Brickhurst Hill Congregational Church of London, who spoke yesterday morning at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church at Fifty-fifth Street. Dr. Shillito is in th country under the auspices of the Commission on International Justice and Good-Will of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

"The emphasis should be switched from the fact that man needs God to the more ennobling sentiment that God needs man," he continued. "Both, of course, are true, but the latter is the real Christian inspiration and it illustrates the cleavage between the Old and New Testaments. We must realize that God will not, indeed cannot, desert us at the time of death.

"Death has always been the great tragedy that has faced man and the ever-present question of Job, 'If a man die shall he live again?' is one that confronts us always. The Christian has this great problem solved for him, and he should be confident that death is merely the entrance to a nobler and better life."

FACE TOWARD GOD, DR. BROWN ADVISES

The Rev. Dr. Charles R. Brown, Dean of Yale Divinity School, preached yesterday morning at the Collegiate Reformed Church of St. Nicholas, Fifth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street. The sermon was built around two texts concerning "two men who lived next door to each other, but were far apart: 'Lot pitched his tent toward Sodom. Abraham turned his back on Sodom and turned he knew not whither.'"

Declaring that the difference between Lot and Abraham is the difference between the "world of things and the spiritual world." Dr. Brown went on:

"It's not where you are now or what you are that rates you on the book of God; it's where you're headed for that counts.

"Now, Lot pitched his tent toward Sodom. Sodom was a prosperous town. The population was increasing rapidly. New buildings were being erected. Real estate values on Main Street were booming. The Rotary Club posted signs all over the thriving city, advising the inhabitants to 'Watch Sodom Grow.' Lot wanted wealth; he wanted luxury, power, importance; so he 'pitched his tent toward Sodom,' even though he knew the morals of that city were on an exceedingly low level.

"Abraham, on the other hand, 'turned his back on Sodom.' He refused to raise his family in such depraved surroundings. He didn't want men slapping him on the back and calling him by his first name as they did at the Kiwanis Club. What he wished was to set his face toward God, righteousness, a life of service.

"Now, Sodom is still doing business today. It's a state of mind, a way of looking at things. You will find Sodom listed on the Stock Exchange, in society's Blue Book. Sodom is the world of things, where other values do not appear.

"If you pitch your tent toward the world of things, you'll go as Lot went, the way which ends under fire and brimstone.

"I do not mean by this that I have any definite conception of what the hereafter is like, whether there are any such classifications as hell and heaven. I do not believe in those who map out the hereafter in kilometers as though it were across the Hudson in Hoboken. I use the words merely as a symbol.

"But I do believe that the personal consciousness is able to survive the shock of that physical experience called death."

PRAYER GREATEST SOLVENT.

The Rev. Mr. MacDonald Recalls Christ's Counsel.

The Rev. Robert MacDonald, former pastor of the Plymouth Congregational Church of Worcester, Mass., in a sermon yesterday morning at the First Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Eleventh Street, using the text, "Men Ought Always to Pray and Not to Faint," said that while modern man might have phrased the expression differently because of his logically constructed mind, yet the mind of Jesus was just as logical as that of present-day man.

"For all our ills we need to let the Eternal Life come in to refresh and make strong," he said. "Prayer, which is a spirit of devotion to truth, rather than a form of words, is life's greatest solvent for human ills, and it means to let God in as an illuminating, vitalizing force."

Valentino Cited in Sermon On Love Conquering Death

Making reference to the death of Rudolph Valentino in his sermon yesterday morning in Christ Church, East Nineteenth Street, Pastor Henry C. Offerman said: "Deaths seem a tragedy, and yet Love reaches beyond the grave. Love goes on eternally.

"Jesus says, 'I live and ye shall live also.' The fact that the whole world grieves over the death of one youth shows the humanness of the world.

"Death is only the entrance to the Greater Day. God takes care of the dead. And Love is not sundered by Death. Love is eternal."

BIBLE CONFERENCE AT STONY BROOK ENDS

1,000 Hear Dr. A. G. MacLennin Preach on the Pre-eminence of Christ.

STONY BROOK, L. I., Aug. 29.—The General Bible Conference, in session here all week, ended today. The morning session was attended by about 1,000 persons, and was addressed by Dr. A. Gordon MacLennin, pastor of the Bethany Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia. He spoke on "the Pre-eminence of Christ," saying:

"Jesus is more than merely the representative of God, for whosoever has seen the Son has seen God Himself. All of God that we shall ever know we have already known in Christ. Jesus is the firstborn in rank in all the world. He is not only pre-eminent in material things but in the great work of salvation. For He is the supreme head of the church.

"There is no book even in the brilliance of this century and in the history of all the world which can possibly compare with the Epistles of the Romans in the Bible.

"You and I today must recognize Christ as our Lord, then we shall some day be willing to surrender all that we are and all that we have to Him. As we think of His glory, may our prayer always be that we shall live forever in the glory of His Word."

DOUBTS BENEFITS IN EXCESS LEARNING

Dr. Hillis Thinks Too Much Knowledge Might Smother Creative Flame.

JESUS'S LIFE AN EXAMPLE

Pastor Points Out That Christ Spent His Formative Years in the "University of Toil."

The Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis in his sermon yesterday morning at the Madison Avenue Baptist Church at Thirty-first Street, raised the question whether an excess of details in education and knowledge, like an excess of wood or coal, might not smother the creative flame. The question was suggested by the fact that Christ was a carpenter from the time he was fourteen; that His education "was in the university of toil, where He met all kinds and conditions of men;" that His labors prevented Him from having years of meditation and study and that He later became the world's greatest teacher and preacher.

"Jesus took His examples from the life around Him," said Dr. Hillis. "Man cannot honor God by analyzing Him. It is important to know our relation to the sun, but man cannot feed his soul on these facts. The analysis of water into H2O is not nearly as important as having it in the desert. Analyze a flower and you lose it; analyze a grain of wheat and you destroy its usefulness.

"Jesus discussed great themes with energy and penetration. The scribes and pharisees said that He did not make enough use of the old Bible. He was interested in what God had done, but He was much more interested in what God was doing. What God did for Moses was not nearly as important as what He did in His own time. If Jesus were here now He would not talk about Jerusalem, but He would talk about what God is. He would tell that God lives and moves; in the blooming flower He would show the latest sign of God's beauty."

Time was when cigar stores were outside feminine bounds.

To park the fair one without was unchivalrous, but to bring her in was unthinkable. It was a knotty problem!

But Schulte stores have changed all that. When you drop in for your favorite cigar*, bring Madame with you. You'll find the store and its atmosphere wholly worthy of her presence.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The Outlook on the Eve of Autumn—Prosperity, Money and Politics.

Traditionally, the end of August is a time of uncertainty. Forecasts of the business and financial movement, like political forecasts in an "election year," are apt at that period to be confused; not infrequently their general drift has been wholly erroneous. The evident reason for this is that the Autumn and Winter seasons often bring a new set of financial influences into play or else give an altered course to influences already operating. In some respects, it may be said that the financial year really begins with September. Certainly the subsequent twelve months have usually provided a more logically consecutive financial picture than the twelve months after Jan. 1.

So far as regards expectations of trade and industry, the financial mind is at present pretty well convinced of another prosperous season. Perhaps it leans more strongly to that belief because the doubts and misgivings of five months ago, which had rather generally looked for industrial reaction after the middle of the year, have thus far proved unfounded. Still, there have been occasions in the past when equally strong convictions were entertained at the end of Summer, yet when events presently took an entirely unexpected turn. The notable case in point was 1920, when even Wall Street's belief at the end of Summer was that the "buying movement" and the rise of prices would be resumed in Autumn because of the curtailment of purchases in the Spring. The sequel was something very different.

At the present moment, the main grounds for prediction of continuing great prosperity in trade and industry are the remarkably sustained production and consumption of all staple products, in the season when inactive trade is usually expected, a movement of goods on the transportation lines in volume unprecedented for the season, absence of purely speculative business as shown by actual decrease in stocks of unsold merchandise, abundant harvests, and a money market which has been unruffled by the very considerable expansion of credit since the middle of the year. This is certainly a potent argument for continuance of the past year's favorable business, and it has plainly been so accepted on the financial markets.

There are, however, other questions which Autumn will have to settle, and which cannot be absolutely determined in advance. Probably the question of money rates is one of them. Largely because of the absence of speculative trade in merchandise and of great accumulations of goods—a phenomenon which is partly effect and partly cause of the year's gradual lowering of commodity prices—the very large business of the twelve-month past has been conducted without any sign of strain on the credit system. Nevertheless, the range of money rates, as compared with corresponding periods one and two years ago, has been consistently higher. Last week's 5 per cent. rate for loans on time compares with 4½ a year ago and 3 in 1924; it is in fact, except for 1923, the highest reached at this time of year since the disturbed markets of 1921.

At some point, an uninterrupted heaping-up of credit obligations, especially when the stock market takes a hand as it did last Autumn, is sure to bring actually high money, with whatever consequences that would bring to general trade or to the Stock Exchange. It is true that the bond market, usually sensitive to such changes, has indicated no apprehension; the "average" of bond prices is now within a small fraction of the high figure of the year, nearly 5½ points above the year's lowest and 3½ above that of the present date a year ago. But the money market never gets its real test until October, and it is hardly to be expected that credit will be on as comfortable a basis as it was a year ago.

The influence which a political election will exert, either on financial markets or on general trade, can never be surely known in advance, nor is there often any sense of certainty, in the business community, as to what the political results will be. We know now that the tide was running heavily for Mr. Coolidge in 1924 from the beginning of the campaign, but even the October newspaper correspondents were perplexed and the Autumn stock market came to an outright halt. This Autumn we shall hear much of the reversal of Congressional majorities that used to be a matter of common expectation in "mid-term elections"; of the farmer's discontent, of complicating electoral issues such as prohibition.

Since it is almost as difficult to know how a changed Congressional majority would affect financial sentiment as to know beforehand how the vote will actually go, it might reasonably be expected that some restraint will be applied in the interval, at least to the speculative markets. On the other hand, a good many people will probably rest their own conviction upon the admitted effect on political sentiment of great prosperity, full employment and good harvests—in all of which respects 1926 has had a very much better story to tell than 1925.

A SECURITY should be considered with these elements in mind:
1. The fundamental soundness of the security itself.
2. Its fitness in relation to the investment requirements of the purchaser.
In helping to solve these problems we feel that our experience may be of value and are prepared to render an impartial judgment of particular bonds upon request.

LONDON CONSIDERS GOLD EXPORT LIKELY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—To the other and numerous adverse effects of the coal strike there now has to be added a decline in sterling exchange to its lowest since last January, if we except the fall of cables to $4.85⅝, which occurred in May owing to the general strike. This is not, however, an unusual development at this period. A year ago the rate stood at exactly the same level as now, whereas by October it had fallen to $4.83 13-16. That was below the gold point, and gold shipments from London to New York commenced and continued during most of the rest of the year.

It remains to be seen whether last year's experience will be repeated. Conditions certainly seem to favor gold exports to America later, unless there is a pronounced slowing down of financial activity in New York. This is considered possible as the crop-moving season approaches. But developments in Wall Street have so frequently during the last few years run counter to prediction that it is very difficult for London to forecast the future, either of the Wall Street market or of sterling. The latter will doubtless be considerably influenced by the former.

Our Stock Market and Exchange.

Continuance of activity in Wall Street would, as we see it here, accentuate the monetary stringency and possibly drive up the New York rediscount rate still further. Such a movement could not fail to affect the situation in London, which would have to advance its rate to counter New York's move. On the other hand, if Wall Street is subdued by the monetary stringency and the New York discount rate remains 4 per cent., there would probably be no cause for an advance here.

The Bank of England holds £8,388,000 less gold than at this time last year, while the normal pressure on New York exchange this year is supplemented by a demand for dollars to pay for coal imports. The Autumn thus opens under less favorable circumstances than existed last year and the money market is not free from anxiety. Discount rates have reflected nervousness by rising to within ⅜ per cent. of the Bank of England rate.

Course of British Bank Clearings.

Bankers' clearings now are showing a tendency to expand, but there still is a decrease of £629,086,000 in the total clearings over last year, while the Bank of England note circulation, at £140,271,005, is £3,995,865, below last year and the currency note issue, at £290,751,541, is £4,334,613 less than in 1925.

Currency notes outstanding compare with £290,959,033 one week ago and £294,176,767 two weeks ago. The highest of the year to date was £303,566,376 in the week ended May 31; the lowest was £284,178,770 in the week ended Feb. 19.

LARGE EXPORT SURPLUS RESTORED IN FRANCE

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—The surplus of exports over imports in French foreign trade of July reached 2,228,000,000 francs, as against 814,000,000 in July, 1925. Except for the 70,000,000 export surplus of May, every month since July a year ago has shown a substantial excess of imports over exports, reaching 817,000,000 francs in December and 615,000,000 in January. The sensible volume of exports and imports was approximately the same as in July of 1925, though there was an appreciable increase in export of raw material for use in industry.

The depreciation of the franc during July did not apparently have any marked influence in causing the increased export trade. The export surplus was merely caused by decreases in purchases of foreign raw material. Sales of manufactured products were also lower in July than in June, and these two movements would seem to indicate a slackening in French manufacturing activity.

OPINION OF OUR MARKET.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—Resumption of the Wall Street upward movement in stocks is ascribed on this market to the fact that America's free capital still far exceeds her opportunity for investment. But the inference is also drawn that, as a result, stocks are being driven above their normal value on the basis of actual yield.

Approve Higher Bank Rate.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Aug. 29.—The raising of the American Reserve Bank discount rate was regarded favorably here. In Italian financial circles it is believed that the rate at Rome and Paris should also be further advanced, with a view to attracting capital and reducing expenditure.

BERLIN CONFIDENT OF INTERNATIONAL TRUST

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—It is considered here beyond doubt that Belgium will withdraw its objections to the international steel syndicate. Austria will come in automatically, owing to the fact that her only important producer, the Alpine Montan Corporation, is already attached to the German Rhine-Elbe Union.

Czechoslovakia and Poland will shortly be invited to negotiate for joining, and the Hungarian steel companies have already expressed in principle their readiness to join.

Question of "Isolated Countries."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Aug. 29.—The feverish activity among various European nations in promoting international trade combinations has been closely watched in Italy, where it is feared that success in such arrangements might cause isolation of certain countries and a resentful attitude. In good financial circles it is felt, however, that there is no reason for great apprehension, but that the real outlook is for gradual improvement.

The negotiations for the Central European iron and steel trust were admitted to have great importance, especially since, from a political point of view, Italy's absence was thought to be dangerous for the economic condition of the country. For this reason there has been great relief at the absence of news pointing to interruption of the negotiations.

THINK COAL STRIKE ON ROAD TO SETTLEMENT

Financial London Hopeful, but Counting Up Industrial Damage Already Done.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—While there has been no actually announced alteration of the coal situation it is believed that the present manoeuvres of the miners' leaders herald a change of attitude which will open the way to a settlement. Meanwhile there is increasing evidence of an impending big breakaway of the miners from the federation, owing to financial exhaustion after seventeen weeks of stoppage.

Some financial effects of the coal strike can be briefly stated. Railway receipts for the year to date show a decrease of £19,000,000 on last year, equal to 16 per cent. The loss of coal production amounts to something like 85,000,000 tons, while heavy outlays are being incurred in importing coal to work the railways and essential industries. Up to the first week of July coal imports were approximately 1,200,000 tons. Since then weekly imports have steadily risen from 521,000 tons to 916,000.

Those collieries still producing in Britain are providing about 200,000 tons, while, including the output from other less regular sources, the total weekly supply now amounts to about 1,250,000 tons. This is enabling the railways to maintain full passenger service, and a hopeful feature of the situation is that the tonnage of general goods carried shows a relatively small decrease.

Normally over 500,000 tons of pig iron and over 600,000 tons of steel are produced monthly, but production now has practically ceased. Continental steel makers are enjoying greatly increased prosperity which normally Britain provides and a big effort will be needed to get this trade back.

LONDON'S MARKETS AWAIT DEVELOPMENTS

Hoping for Genuine Revival of Trade When the Coal Strike Is Settled.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The stock markets at present do not seem much troubled by the monetary outlook, or even by the delayed coal settlement. Prices keep firm throughout, while the Bankers Magazine's calculations show 365 representative securities appreciated by £52,000,000 in market value in the month ended Aug. 19. There has been a further rise since, mostly in variable dividend stocks, which reflect considerable optimism regarding the course of trade in the event of an early collapse of the coal strike. Prominent business men are fostering this spirit of hopefulness.

Foreign coal imports have stopped the rot in industries, this being clearly shown in the comparatively small decrease in railway general merchandise traffic. Before the strike there was every indication of a revival of trade, and it is believed a quick revival would resume resumption of coal mining. Much business, however, has been irrevocably lost and nothing short of a trade boom can completely wipe out the effects of the coal stoppage.

GERMAN METAL EXPORT UP.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—Exports in the metal branches of trade continue to increase rapidly. Shipments of machinery in the first half of 1926 were 213,756 tons, against 369,095 tons in the whole of 1925 and 271,484 tons in the whole of 1924.

Exports of other materials and manufactures in the iron and steel branches during the half year were 2,508,482 tons, which compares with 3,548,773 in the whole of 1925 and 1,955,110 in all 1924.

BERLIN'S VIEW OF 'UNPEGGING MARK'

Step Taken Because Foreign Exchange Bills Were Accumulating in That Market.

GOLD MOVEMENT IS FREE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—The Reichsbank's abandonment of its system of quoting the dollar rigidly at 4.2 marks is regarded here as removal of the last vestige of restriction on foreign exchange. This view is sustained by a proclamation reciting that the new reichsmark, although still not absolutely convertible into gold, can stand alone without being anchored to any full gold currency. The Reichsbank's immediate motive for the step taken was that foreign exchange was being offered to it in a volume exceeding requirements.

The gold withdrawals lately made from New York were a preparatory measure. It is not considered, however, that the new system will involve any permanent change in the Reichsbank's gold policy. Berlin bankers believe that the dollar may for some time be quoted here sufficiently below par to attract American gold automatically. If, on the contrary, the dollar should go above the mark parity, nothing in Germany's present currency law would prevent the exportation of gold from this country.

No Money Stringency Expected.

An expert attached to the Finance Ministry declares that business revival in Germany will not be hampered by anything in the way of credit difficulties. During Autumn, he set forth, credit for Boerse operations may become slightly dearer, but credit for manufacturers and traders will continue abundant.

There is no prospect that the Reichsbank will raise its discount rate. Late last week, in preparation for the month-end settlements, short-term money rates rose slightly, day-to-day money going to a maximum rate of 6 per cent., and the private discount rate also rising to 4⅞ per cent. Nevertheless, credit remains plentiful everywhere.

Rates on Loans and Mortgages.

It is observed, however, that the fall in short-term interest rates which began early in the present year, has made no progress since June. It is also true that the reduction in interest on loans and mortgages proceeds still very slowly.

Unemployed workmen in Germany as reported for Aug. 1, were reduced in number to 1,652,000. This is 400,000 below the high figure of last February.

PARIS STILL IN DOUBT ON DEBT RATIFICATION

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—The question of the legislative attitude toward ratification of the interallied debt agreement is admittedly still unsettled. It continues to be the subject of passionate discussion by press and public, the influence of which is not favorable on the market. It is difficult to determine the exact attitude of the present Government.

In the best informed financial circles it is believed that Poincaré still entertains the purpose of following as closely as possible all the recommendations of the experts' reports, whose scheme of stabilization was closely bound up with ratification of the debt agreements. The Government, however, will have to count on a very strong Parliamentary opposition to this measure, and nothing warrants at the moment the supposition that this opposition will weaken during the Autumn.

THE "FIGHT FOR THE LIRA."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Aug. 29.—Mussolini's speech at Pesaro, announcing that Italy is ready to fight in order to revalue the lira, which he described as unwarrantably depreciated, was accepted on the market as showing the attitude of this country. New legislation is expected to be introduced in the next Cabinet meeting with a view to further curtailment of imports.

Besides this, measures were recently adopted to reduce the circulation and to give autonomy to the Bank of Italy in the emission of bank notes. It is hoped that these steps will go far toward strengthening the financial system and will give a clear demonstration of the immense effort made by the country to restore a normal situation.

STOCKS AT BERLIN FIRM.

Market Does Not See End of Boom but Bank Issues Warning.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—The stock market, after its large advance in the first three weeks of August, has become irregular again. Electrical stocks continue to rise, however, as a result of the plans for combination, and the market's general undertone is firm.

To the Berlin market the end of the boom, which has now lasted eight months, does not seem yet to be in sight. The Deutsche Bank, however, in its current bulletin, issues a warning that the boom has taken on a larger speculative character, and more than discounts any actual improvement in trade.

Elizabeth, the County Seat of Union County, is one of the important municipalities in the New York Metropolitan District. It is within the boundaries of the Port of New York Authority and the completion of the Staten Island-Elizabeth bridge should aid materially in increasing its growth. Besides its importance as a manufacturing city, it is also a high grade residential community and serves as the commercial and distributing center for a large surrounding territory. Excellent transportation facilities are furnished by the main lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad and Central Railroad of New Jersey, water traffic by Newark Bay, and interurban electric lines connecting it with the adjacent municipalities and rural districts.

According to official reports, the assessed valuation of all taxable property within the City for 1926 is $138,564,126 and its net bonded debt $7,102,329. The present population is estimated to be 110,000. These bonds, issued for school and street purposes, are direct obligations of the City of Elizabeth, payable principal and interest from unlimited taxes against all the taxable property therein.

EUROPE'S IDEAS OF ITS AUTUMN OUTLOOK

CURRENCIES THE PROBLEM

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—Business sentiment is increasingly optimistic in regard to the Central European outlook on the approach of Autumn, but distrust still prevails regarding the Latin countries, owing to their failure to finally stabilize their exchanges. The failure of France is ascribed here to the secret fear by Poincaré's Cabinet of a "valorization tumult," which it is thought in a renter country like France must inevitably follow the fixing of the franc at a heavily reduced gold value.

The favorable sentiment regarding Central Europe is promoted by the Boerse boom which has distinctly spread from Berlin to Vienna and Budapest, and in a less degree to Prague. Declining unemployment in Germany and Austria contributes to the hopeful feeling; also the fact that the industrial revival, which began with coal and steel, now embraces textiles, paper and other important branches. The trade press predicts revival of industry in Central Europe, admits that the doubtful point is Czechoslovakia, where industry is still in poor condition and where the foreign trade balance has grown distinctly unfavorable during recent months.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Aug. 29.—The favorable influences foreseen here on the Autumn situation in Europe arise from the initiation of currency revaluation by Poincaré in France and Mussolini in Italy. Financial circles expect better Italian exchange next month when the seasonal foreign payments will have been completed.

The French are also expected to maintain the present improvement of their currency, always providing the political situation escapes another actual Cabinet crisis from the growing opposition.

Paris Fears Currency Disturbance.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—The Autumn outlook for European finance is rendered doubtful by the uncertainties of currency rehabilitation. The opinion has recently grown that complete rehabilitation in this direction will be impracticable unless simultaneously accomplished in France, Belgium and Italy.

Whatever may have been achieved in France, it is felt that neither of the two other countries is yet out of danger in this matter and that the stability of their currency might be gravely compromised at any moment. Such an action would certainly cause some unfavorable repercussion in France, and would have the unfortunate result that the French opponents to the debt ratification would seize on the situation as an argument to prove that ratification of their own debt settlements by Belgium and Italy was not enough to insure sufficient resources to make possible real stability of theor respective currencies.

London Moderately Hopeful.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The general European business outlook is moderately good. Those countries with rapidly fluctuating exchanges, like France, Belgium and Italy, are experiencing difficulties which, however, should largely disappear under exchange stabilization, although this might easily cause temporary loss.

England's coal stoppage is furnishing its European competitors with trade which they otherwise would not get, so that a normal position does not exist, either here or on the Continent. Germany, particularly, is benefiting by her resultant large coal exports; yet, even apart from this, her prospects are regarded as favorable. Holland reports general conditions as sound. The Scandinavian countries show considerable uncertainty, partly owing to exchange difficulties, while the smaller Eastern European States are making fair progress.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Last week's receipts of gold by the Bank of England were £698,000. Of this £400,000 were sovereigns from South Africa and £298,000 were bars bought in the open market.

Withdrawals were only £52,000. Singapore took £5,000, India £31,000 and £15,000 went to an unstated destination. Further large arrivals are impending; they include £300,000 in sovereigns and £569,000 in bars from South Africa.

STOCK AVERAGE LOWER.

"Fisher Index" Makes It the Lowest in Three Weeks.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 29.—The weekly index number of Stock Exchange prices, compiled by Professor Fisher and based on the week's fifty most active industrial stocks, reckoned on their average of 1925 as 100, is 175.1 for the past week. This compares with 176.7 a week ago, 175.5 two weeks ago, 170.9 three weeks ago and 157.2 four weeks ago.

The average of a week ago was the highest of the year to date and was also higher than any reached in 1925. The average of 121.1 on April 17 was the lowest of 1926 to date.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—Coal and steel continue to lead the German industrial revival. Output of pig iron in July was 767,862 metric tons, against 720,981 in June and 886,000 in July, 1925. Steel ingots produced were 1,022,068 tons, the largest of any month for a year past, comparing with 977,309 in June, 1,031,000 in July last year, and 1,010,000 the monthly average of 1925.

The average July output of Ruhr coal now for the first time exceeds the prewar figure, notwithstanding the fact that 400,000 fewer miners are employed. Exports of German coal and coke from Rotterdam are very large, and stocks at the pits' mouths in the Ruhr have sunk to about one week's output, or one-fifth of the maximum last Winter.

The steel syndicate's recent increase of its output ratio to 70 per cent. of full capacity has proved fully justified, since all leading works now have orders for that amount or more. Production of rolled iron and steel in July was 868,900 tons, against 855,426 in June.

ITALY'S UNFAVORABLE BALANCE OF HALF YEAR

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Aug. 29.—Italy's unfavorable trade balance, as now reported for the first half of the year, was 5,946,000,000 lire as against 5,827,000,000 in the same period of 1925. This is distinctly unfavorable, although experts believe that, as a result of certain technical methods adopted in calculating the monthly returns, valuation of imports has been exaggerated while the exports were undervalued.

It is now calculated that the recent Government decree on war bread will occasion reduction of four to five million quintals in consumption of wheat, which would largely offset the Italian production now ascertained as 54,000,000 quintals, against 65,000,000 a year ago. Nevertheless, importation from America to the extent of 20,000,000 quintals is anticipated.

GRAIN CROPS A FACTOR IN EUROPE'S POSITION

Feeling Now Exists That Imports Will Have to Be Larger Than in 1925.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—It is felt here just now that a good deal of the Autumn's financial results in Europe will depend upon how crops turn out. The general condition is fair, but Beerbohm's general wheat summary for Europe is this week rather less satisfactory than a few weeks ago. Rain has reduced expected yields and it is quite probable that the shortage in Europe will exceed the increased production in North America.

European wheat imports this season will undoubtedly be considerably greater than in 1925. The preliminary estimate of the world's wheat surplus for the present season is 104,000,000 quarters, of which the world's estimated requirements are 84,000,000 quarters. There does not, therefore, seem to be much chance of a large carryover at the end of the current cereal year.

A GUESS ON FRANC'S 'STABILIZATION PRICE'

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Unusually little movement is taking place just now in French exchange. This is due largely to the elimination of speculation, recent experience having taught many a costly lesson. Early stabilization of the franc, however, is not expected. Ratification of the debt agreements is regarded as a necessary preliminary to stabilization, and this Poincaré has again pointed out is not to be hurried.

For what it is worth, London suggests that 170 or 175 may be the stabilization level. The past week's market has held around that figure. If France can accomplish this without outside aid, so much the better; but the feeling here is that British and American assistance in some form will be needed and will not be forthcoming until the debt agreements have been ratified. It is believed, however, that the French Government now has the exchange situation fairly under control, so that much less fluctuation is looked for in the future.

Week's Grain at Primary Points.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Primary receipts of wheat last week, 10,891,000 bushels; previous week, 13,922,000; last year, 8,994,000. Shipments past week, 8,486,000; previous week, 7,970,000; last year, 6,106,000. Corn receipts past week, 2,193,000 bushels; previous week, 2,644,000; last year, 4,762,000. Shipments last week, 1,604,000; previous week, 1,379,000; last year, 2,610,000.

BANK RETURN FAVORABLE

PARIS, Aug. 29.—The remarkable stability of the franc during the past week was the outstanding feature of the market. There seemed undoubtedly to be a steady though slight tendency to appreciation. This calmness of the foreign exchange market was attributed partly in banking circles to the inactive business of the holiday period, but certain larger influences have beyond doubt contributed.

For one thing, the French Government's tax receipts for July reached 3,583,000,000 francs, as compared with 2,420,000,000 in the same month of the preceding year. Of July's collections, indirect taxes and monopolies contributed 3,136,000,000, which is approximately an increase of 897,000,000 francs over July, 1925, and exceeds by 343,000,000 this year's earlier budget estimates.

Besides this, the direct tax receipts of July reached 423,000,000 francs, of which about 300,000,000 were due to spontaneous payments made by taxpayers before they were legally due. This, like much other recent information, shows in a particularly interesting manner the extent to which the public is supporting the Government in the task of improving the situation. Another technical influence on the franc is the restoration of an export surplus in the July foreign trade, for the first time in twelve months, except for May.

Finally, the return of the Bank of France, published on Thursday, shows distinct improvement in the Treasury's position. The repayments of 500,000,000 francs by the State on its bank debt and the reduction of 512,000,000 in the circulation, were accepted as indicating a much stronger situation. At the same time the bank's discounts were reduced 227,000,000. These technical reasons making for stability in the franc are considered, however, to be somewhat compromised by the political outlook, which still leaves in doubt the completion of financial reconstruction, notably in the matter of debt ratification.

GERMAN PUBLIC FINANCE IN A STRONG POSITION

Last Month's Tax Receipts Almost the Largest Since Return to Gold.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—German federal finances are in a highly satisfactory position. The July receipts from taxation, amounting to 708,000,000 marks, were the largest with two exceptions of any month since currency stabilization. This has happened despite the fact that the rate of the sales tax, which is normally one of the largest revenue producers, has been cut in two since last year.

Industrial depression has made practically no inroad on public finances. Customs receipts are particularly high, having reached 279,000,000 in three months, out of 580,000,000 estimated for the entire twelve months. The Finance Minister predicts that they will yield 200,000,000 marks more than was estimated.

The Minister has made an optimistic speech prophesying a considerable surplus on the whole year's finances. As a result of these conditions, the Ministry has thus far been able to finance house building and unemployment relief schemes out of current revenue and has postponed the issue of the loan which was sanctioned in May.

RUSSIAN EXPORTS REDUCED.

Low Prices Check Peasants' Selling of Wheat.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—Exports from Russia in July were 46,100,000 rubles, as against 51,800,000 in June. Imports were 49,500,000, against 50,000,000. Moscow journals express the fear that the grain export movement may be checked by the unwillingness of peasants to sell owing to the low prevailing prices.

As a matter of fact, the midsummer price of wheat was 38 per cent. below that of the corresponding period in 1925, and rye was lower by 42 per cent. A new upward movement, however, was initiated in August.

SMALL GRAIN PRICES LOW.

Oats Now at Bottom Figure of Season—Rye Also Down.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Last week's decline brought oats to the lowest of the season, with trading largely in changing from September to December at 4 cents for the near-by position and 4¼ cents from December to May. Marketing is increasing with favorable weather and the short interest is large.

Despite reports that the combined German and Poland rye crop is 124,000,000 bushels short of last year, rye prices receded and closed around the bottom, with May the lowest of the season.

September oats finished at 36⅛ to 36¼, December, 40⅛ to 40¼; May, 44½ to 44⅝; September rye closed at 95¼ cents; December, $1, May, $1.05¾.

COMMODITY PRICES RISE, FIRST TIME IN 7 WEEKS

British Average Holds Unchanged—Italian Index Number Highest of Year.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 29.—Professor Irving Fisher's index number of American commodity prices for last week, based on 100 as the average of 1913, is 148.1, comparing with 147.2 the week before, 147.3 two weeks before, 147.7 three weeks before, and 148 four weeks before. This week's advance is the first since the week ending July 10. Last week's average was the lowest for the year to date, and was also lower than any reached in 1925; the highest thus far in 1926 was 153.7 on Jan. 30.

The highest weekly average reached in 1925 was 164.4 on Jan. 31, which was also higher than any reached in 1924. The lowest was 154.1, on May 2. The highest percentage since the war was 247, in May, 1920; the lowest, 150, in January, 1922.

Crump's British index number, as cabled for the past week, is 141.9, which is unchanged from one and two weeks ago, and compares with 141.7 three weeks ago, and 141.1 four weeks ago. The highest Crump average thus far in 1926 was 146.7, on Jan. 9; the lowest, 138.1, on June 19.

The index number of average Italian prices, compiled by the Chamber of Commerce at Milan, was 692.3 last week, comparing with 689.9 the week before, 689.7 two weeks before, and 680.3 four weeks before. This week's average is the highest for the year to date and is also higher than any reached in 1925; the average of 636.2 for the week ended May 1 was the lowest for 1926 to date.

REPORT CONCESSIONS IN STEEL PRICES

Pittsburgh Hears of Heavy Products Sold Below Schedule—Sheet Sales Firmer.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 29.—It is quite authoritatively reported that some fourth quarter business in the heavy rolled products, bars, shapes and plates, has been entered at prices current a couple of months ago, or before the recent stiffening, which has been effective on the small lot business coming out.

Thus the mills are not entirely successful in their advance, but when the manoeuvre was attempted some observers remarked that they would do well if they avoided a decline.

For ordinary lots bars and shapes have been at 2c and plates at 1.90c, but even carloads have been obtainable at these figures unless the specifications were unattractive.

The sheet market has been engaged for a couple of months in slow firming up, shading having now practically disappeared. A definite advance was expected to be undertaken for the fourth quarter, but the mills seem likely instead to rearrange the basing system and gauge differentials whereby a slight increase in average realized prices would be obtained without a specific advance.

The monthly report of independent sheet mills just issued shows July sales 75 per cent. above those of May, the low month for a long time. Sheet mill operations are now at close to capacity, but it takes a great deal to lift prices in this highly competitive branch of the steel trade.

OUTPUT OF CORN DEPENDS ON WEATHER

Trade Expects That Without Frost Crop May Near 2,849,000,000 Bushels.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—The size of the corn crop in the United States is dependent largely upon warm, dry weather for the next six weeks. Without frost, trade expectations are that the crop will be materially larger than the Government's estimate of 2,577,000,000 bushels in August and near the five-year average of 2,849,000,000 bushels. Par basis in figuring the corn crop for September will be slightly in excess of one bushel per acre over that of August, which equals 100,000,000 bushels, and any increase in the condition would further enlarge the estimated yield as compared with August.

September closed Saturday at 76¼ to 76, December, 81⅜ to 81⅛, a loss of 10 cents a bushel from the recent high point; May, 87¾ to 87⅝.

A serious frost before Oct. 15 might do a lot of damage and create a bulge, but the history of frost scares is that corn values frequently recede after the excitement is over. The impression prevails that there is a big supply of old corn in the country, which is not being sold with any degree of freedom.

CROPS MAKE FAIR PROGRESS

Corn Doing Fine, but Wet Weather Delays Wheat Threshing.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Corn has made wonderful progress over all the big corn producing sections with warm weather and plenty of moisture. Through Missouri, Illinois, Iowa and Indiana the crop is doing well, but is spotted and light. West of the Missouri River the crop is unusually spotted, although late corn has been helped by recent rains.

Threshing of small grains was delayed by wet weather, but good progress has been made lately and about half the grain in shock has been threshed. This is particularly the case in Iowa. Much of the grain has been badly damaged by recent rains, causing heavy losses to farmers, ranging from 10 to 42 cents on wheat and 10 to 20 cents on oats. Rains in the West and Southwest have been beneficial to Fall plowing, which made moderate progress, while in the Middle West many sections were too wet.

A local authority estimates the wheat crop at 863,000,000 bushels, the highest so far. In Western Canada the latest estimate from private sources suggests 384,000,000 bushels Spring wheat, three Western provinces, or practically the same as last year. Others claim that 350,000,000 bushels is about right.

STEEL SHIPMENTS IN AUGUST HEAVY

August Production at the Mills Is Thought to Be About the Same as July's.

YEAR MAY MAKE A RECORD

Lead So Far Over 1925 Is Not Likely to Be Overcome in the Next Few Months.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 29.—While steel mill operations this month have held a practically uniform pace there are increasing indications that decreases are not far away. There is no likelihood whatever of any large decrease. Compared with past performances mill operations have been very steady for eleven months past, and for twenty months past apart from the dip in the Summer of last year, and this has resulted in undue attention being given to what are really minor fluctuations of no real consequence.

With the steel consuming industries running steadily there is a very substantial momentum represented. In the past, when buyers carried stocks, a slight downward turn was sufficient to induce liquidation of stocks, whereby the decrease was greatly accentuated. Such a performance is not possible now, when no stocks above bare necessities are carried, and steel mill operations can fluctuate from week to week and month to month instead of moving in long swings as in the past. Decreasing operations in the next few months would not therefore be of great significance as to the general future.

Nine Per Cent. Gain Over Last Year.

August production and shipments of steel are likely to run about the same as those of July, with possibly a slight increase. On the basis of ingot production, June operations were at 80.34 per cent., July showing 78.20 per cent. and August is likely to run nearer to July than to June. With August exactly the same as July the year's lead over last year, to Sept. 1, would be 9.2 per cent., and it would require an operation in the remaining four months of the year below 67 per cent. to overcome this lead and prevent 1926 from making a new record in steel production, as 1925 did. Such a decrease is of course entirely improbable.

August has been characterized by heavy shipments rather than by the development of promise of heavier movement of steel in future. There are seasonal decreases that would have to be offset by favorable influences to maintain the mill operating rate, and these are not visible at present. Rail shipments are engaged in the decrease usual at this time of year. Some line pipe orders are being completed and oil and gas well drilling in certain fields will decrease as Winter comes. Tin plate shipments ordinarily fall off in September and October, although the export movement caused by the British coal strike may prevent much decrease this time. Automobile production usually decreases sharply in November and December, and that would affect October shipments of steel to that trade.

Apart from these seasonal points, specifications on bar, shape and plate contracts had been particularly heavy in July, and have been running lighter this month. Merchant pipe buying is decreasing slightly. Wire products compare well with their rather modest showing of earlier in the year, while sheet buying has been increasing slowly for more than two months and shows no signs of diminishing in the near future.

Busy Season Ahead in Farm Goods.

The agricultural implement trade is promised a busy season, as it had a year earlier, and has been preparing freely, although there has been no occasion for far forward buying. In fabricated structural steel the two points are that with the heavy bookings of the first six months of the year the shipments exceeded the bookings and that the outlook, as appraised in various quarters, is for less work in large skeleton steel structures and bridges than in the recent past. As to actual bookings, these ran light after July 1 until the past fortnight, which has shown as good a movement as the average in the first half of the year. Contracts are closed so promptly after inquiries are put out that there is never much business pending and thus the trade lacks an index in that direction.

PIG IRON AT SCRAP PRICES.

The Former Low, Latter Firm—Coke Market Loses Its Enthusiasm.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 29.—The pig iron markets generally are quiet. Prices are low and in some districts are said to be below cost of production. Thus the apparently heavy buying movement a couple months and more ago has not improved matters.

Heavy melting steel scrap is firm in all districts, although mill buying has not been particularly active. Scrap is higher than usual, relative to pig iron, and this perhaps is a reflection of the long-continued heavy production of steel, exhausting such accumulations as develop in dull spells.

The Connellsville coke trade has lost most of its recent excitement over alleged prospects of heavier demand and higher prices.

B. & O. BUS SERVICE STARTS.

Officials of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad witnessed yesterday morning the start of the company's new trainside bus service, which will take passengers from the Pershing Square Building and the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel directly to trains at the Jersey Central terminal in Jersey City. The new system was installed because of the change from the Pennsylvania Station, from which Baltimore & Ohio trains operated formerly.

The first run from the Pershing Square Building to trainside in Jersey City, by way of the West Twenty-third Street ferry, was made in fifty minutes. Baltimore & Ohio trains at Jersey City have been scheduled to wait until bus passengers arrive.

SAYS RIPLEY PLAN RUNS AFOUL OF THE COURTS

Gilbert H. Montague Declares Trade Commission's Power Over Corporations Is Limited.

In suggesting that the Federal Trade Commission should compel corporations to issue adequate information to stockholders, Professor William Z. Ripley fails to take into account a number of court decisions limiting the powers of the commission, it was declared in a statement issued yesterday by Gilbert H. Montague, an attorney, of 40 Wall Street. Mr. Montague contended that such action by the commission would be unconstitutional. Mr. Montague said in part:

"Can it be that Professor Ripley is unaware how frequently the courts have checked the commission's exercise of this power against corporations engaged in interstate commerce, even in instances where the commission's exercise of this alleged power was far less extravagant than Professor Ripley now proposes?

"Decisions to this effect have been rendered by Federal courts throughout the United States in September, 1919; April, 1920; March, 1922; October, 1922; November, 1922, and January, 1923, and by the Supreme Court of the United States in March, 1924, and March, 1925, and the authority of this unbroken line of cases has not been challenged by a single decision to the contrary.

"What Professor Ripley assumes to be an unquestioned right of the commission has been uniformly denied by the courts, because under the Constitution of the United States the visitorial power of the Federal Government • • • over private corporations must be restricted to activities of an interstate commerce character and we must presume that the Congress did not intend by this legislation to invade the field reserved under the Constitution to the several States by interfering with transactions in intrastate commerce.

"Unwarranted as is Professor Ripley's assumption that the Federal Trade Commission has unquestioned legal power to coerce any corporation engaged in interstate commerce into adopting such a form of financial statement as the commission in its discretion may prescribe, it is even more deplorable that Professor Ripley should so incontinently seek to achieve through paternalistic, bureaucratic governmental action a reform that is most quickly and most effectively obtainable by educating public opinion."

FERTILIZER COMPANY EARNED $1,023,712

But Agricultural Chemical Sales Fell 12% in Year, Due to Unfavorable Weather.

Net profit of the American Agricultural Chemical Company in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1926, amounted to $1,023,712. Gross income was $5,303,445, from which amount was deducted as reserves for discounts, freights and possible losses $1,146,020, for depreciation of plants and depletion of mines $1,082,311, for interest paid and accrued on funded debt $2,051,402, aggregating in all $4,279,732.

"Conditions in the fertilizer industry during the past fiscal year," says the statement of Chairman Robert S. Bradley to stockholders, "were not as satisfactory in many respects as they were in 1925. The consumption of fertilizers in the Fall of 1925 was curtailed by unfavorable weather conditions, which delayed the timely preparation of the land for seeding of crops.

"The following Spring of 1926 was even more unfavorable for farming conditions, in consequence of a very late and backward season over a large area of the country where fertilizers are in general use. This led to keener competition and increased price cutting by many fertilizer companies in their anxiety to dispose of their inventories before the close of the season. Your company, pursuing a more conservative course, declined to meet this distressed selling, with the result that its sales for 1926 declined nearly 12 per cent. from those of 1925. This loss in tonnage accounts for practically all of the reduction in net earnings of 1926, compared with those of 1925."

The financial condition of the company is particularly sound, Chairman Bradley says. There are no bank loans or acceptances outstanding, no money having been borrowed since February, 1925. Current assets on June 30, 1926, amounted to $30,687,000, as against current liabilities of $1,925,000, leaving net current assets of $28,762,000.

WANTS BUDGET MADE CLEAR

Browne Asks Estimate Board to Refrain from 'Hocus-Pocus' This Year.

A demand that they refrain this year from "hocus-pocus" budget making was made yesterday by Stewart Browne, President of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, in a letter to Mayor Walker and the other members of the Board of Estimate.

"The 1925 make-up of the 1926 budget was such that the taxpayers couldn't itemize salary and other increases between the 1925 and 1926 budgets," Mr. Browne wrote. "When I complained of this at the time of the passage of the 1926 budget Controller Craig agreed that such was the case and said it would be remedied in the 1927 budget.

"On Aug. 3 I notified every member of the Board of Estimate and the budget director of the above, but I have received no reply that the necessary change will be made. This letter is to remind you that the taxpayers want the 1927 budget as it was made up for years. The only object of the 1925 change was to prevent the truth from being seen."

VOLUME OF BUSINESS LIMITED IN WHEAT

DEMAND FOR EXPORT LARGE

July Wheat Clearings, 20,000,000 Bushels, Twice as Heavy as Those of July, 1925.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—An irregular decline carried grain prices down last week with a close at practically the lowest. The market is highly professional, and the volume of business is about as small as at any time during the year. This is indicated by sales for the week of 188,131,000 bushels of wheat for future delivery compared with 240,182,000 bushels the previous week and 242,040,000 bushels last year.

The important factor in the wheat situation in North America is weather conditions in the Northwest, including both sides of the international line. Cutting, threshing and marketing of Spring wheat are under way and good weather is needed. Indications are that there will be a large movement of Spring wheat within a few weeks. In anticipation of this increased marketing movement, speculators have endeavored to discount its effect on values and have put out a large line of shorts on a declining market.

Millers have absorbed a great deal of wheat of late against flour sales, their buying helping to sustain values temporarily at times.

Export buying has been limited, but in July the United States cleared almost 20,000,000 bushels of wheat for abroad, or more than double the quantity for the same period last year. Exporters are taking moderate quantities of Canadian No. 3 northern, as it is cheaper than any other wheat, and there have also been good sales of red Winters from Toledo; but the export business as regards buying for forward shipments is said to be limited; and a report comes from Canada that there are only 5,000,000 bushels sold ahead, while last year at this time foreigners had bought 25,000,000 bushels.

Supplies in the North American continent are larger than last year, while European crops are smaller, but the production of twenty-one countries of the Northern Hemisphere, comprising 70 per cent. of the wheat crop, is estimated at 2,351,000,000 bushels compared with 2,320,000,000 bushels last year. Low reserves of wheat and rye and a short wheat crop in the Orient are in a measure offset by increased production in the United States and a possible supply in Canada about as large as last year's.

There is more wheat afloat for importing countries than a year ago and a larger carry-over in Canada. With a close adjustment of world's supplies to requirements the future course of values hangs to a considerable extent upon the size of the crop of Argentina and Australia.

September wheat closed Saturday at $1.32⅛ to $1.32¼; December, $1.35¼ to $1.35⅜; May, $1.40 to $1.40¼.

COTTON MOVEMENT SMALLER

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 29.—The result of the lateness of the cotton crop was plainly shown by the weekly statistics. Thus, according to Secretary Hester, the amount of the movement into sight for the week totaled only 145,105 bales as compared with a movement into sight for the corresponding week last year of 253,737 bales. The movement into sight since Aug. 1 has been only 389,645 bales, against a movement into sight for the same number of days after Aug. 1 last season of 607,994 bales. Mill takings the past week totaled 199,000 bales, compared with 136,000 last year, and the visible supply of American cotton decreased 54,000 bales this week, against an increase of 117,000 bales in the corresponding week last year.

Despite the comparatively small movement of cotton to market so far this season, exports to date show a total of 242,510 bales, against 178,426 last season. This increase in exports, despite the smaller movement of the crop, has been made possible by the fact that stocks at ports and interior towns are still 395,340 bales larger than they were at this time last year.

NEW YORK STEAM EARNINGS.

Gross for Year Ended June 30 $5,193,582—Total Assets $23,262,868.

The report of the New York Steam Corporation for the year ended June 30 shows a balance available for renewals and replacements, reserve under preferred stock provisions and common dividends of $799,880, against $465,001 in the preceding year. Gross earnings were $5,193,582, against $3,893,658. Surplus as of June 30 was $901,889.

The balance sheet shows deferred charges and prepaid accounts of $121,172, current assets of $1,805,649, deferred liabilities of $288,705 and current liabilities of $1,594,120. Total assets are $23,262,868. Plant and property account increased $3,024,738 to $20,367,667.

ORMS DISTURB COTTON PROGRESS

EDERAL REPORT SURPRISES

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 29.—The report of the Government issued here Monday morning was the main influence in the market during the past week. A decline in condition in the half month from Aug. 1 to 16 of 6.3 points and an indicated crop of 15,248,000 bales of 500 pounds proved a great surprise. This was, first, because the lowered condition proved a confirmation by the Government of the many private reports of insect damage, poor fruiting and general deterioration, and second, because the indicated yield, though only 373,000 bales less than the previous estimate, owing to the system of inflated "pars" used by the crop reporting board, was, nevertheless, fully 500,000 bales below the crop figure fixed upon by popular expectation.

The immediate effect of this unlooked for decline in condition and crop indication was an advance on Monday of 131 to 132 points. The advance was continued later in the week until on Thursday all the active months but January crossed the 18-cent line. That month traded to within two points of that level. Thus the spread from the week's low on Monday morning to the high points of Thursday was a gain of 150 to 154 points, or approximately $7.50 a bale.

While the advance which followed the Government report was largely due to covering by disappointed shorts, there was also considerable trade buying and not a little speculative buying by the general public. The gradual advance from the best levels of Monday to the high points of Thursday was due largely to fresh buying, stimulated by continued unfavorable weather in the cotton belt and also by fears of damage to the crop by the tropical hurricane which rather unexpectedly appeared in the Gulf of Mexico without previous warning of its presence in the Caribbean Sea.

These tropical storms are always dangerous not only to the localities in their immediate path but to a wide stretch on either side of the storm track owing to the torrential rains which usually accompany them. All crops in the immediate path of such storms are generally damaged or destroyed. There is no such thing as a mild tropical hurricane. While these disturbances follow widely varying paths, according to the barometric conditions prevailing, they invariably show a wind velocity around a hundred miles an hour near their centre and create havoc in their immediate path. The accompanying rains sometimes extend for hundreds of miles on either side of the storm's path. A tropical storm is therefore always a serious matter to the cotton belt, particularly when the plants are loaded with fast ripening bolls.

The wind-up of the week developed the usual disposition to take profits after so considerable an advance, and in this instance there was a disposition on the part of the ring traders to sell short on the reaction, particularly because the temporary crippling of the telegraphic service by the storm restricted the volume of supporting orders that might normally have been expected from the interior.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Grains and Flour Lower for Week —Rubber Firm—Metals Little Changed.

Wheat ranged lower in the cash market last week and a similar trend was shown in other grains as well as in flour, coffee and sugar. Butter and eggs also ranged lower, but lard advanced. Little change was shown in meat prices. Rubber furnished one of the strong spots in the commodity market and advanced a third of a cent a pound. Metals were steady with the exception of tin, which advanced sharply. Cotton also ranged higher. There was no change in the prices of gasoline and crude oil and hides also showed no variation in price.

LEIPSIC TRADE FAIR OPENS.

United States Sends 1,500 of 150,000 Buyers to the Show.

LEIPSIC, Germany, Aug. 29 (AP).—The Leipsic Trade Fair, long the barometer of industrial Germany, was formally opened today. There are exhibits from more than 10,000 concerns, an increase of 50 per cent. over the record set in 1914.

More than twenty-two countries, including the United States, are represented, while 150,000 buyers from forty-four countries are expected to attend, the United States alone sending more than 1,500. The fair will continue until Sept. 4.

This is the 700th anniversary of the founding of the fair in 1226. From a primitive trading centre the present world exposition has developed, with few interruptions.

GUARANTY CO. FINDS BUSINESS IS SOUND

"Survey" for This Month Notes That Usual Summer Decline Is Slight This Year.

POINTS TO STEEL ACTIVITY

Building Reaction Is Inevitable, It Holds, but Sees Optimism Over Motors and Textiles.

The essential soundness of domestic business conditions is reflected in the developments of the past month, and there has been some improvement in the outlook for economic recovery abroad, according to the current issue of the "Guaranty Survey," to be published today by the Guaranty Trust Company.

"Probably the most significant feature of current reports is the accumulating evidence that the general industrial and commercial recession which is an almost invariable occurrence in the Summer months, and which in the last few years has been especially marked, has hardly been noticeable this season," the "Survey" continues. "Especially impressive in this connection is the trend of activity in the iron and steel industry. In recent weeks the industry has continued to operate at high levels, and market conditions have remained exceptionally favorable.

"The volume of building construction undertaken continued to decline moderately last month. It must be remembered, however, that a decrease in July is in line with the usual seasonal tendency. A more trustworthy indication of the trend of the industry is seen in the fact that since early Spring the rate of increase as compared with last year has been declining, and that in June and July the level of activity was actually lower than a year ago.

"If, as some observers assume, the peak of activity in building has been passed, there is nothing in the present situation to occasion great concern. If not now, then in the near future, a decline from the abnormal rate of the last few years is inevitable. Such reactions as may fall on business in general from this decrease must be regarded as a return to normal, and will be minimized by a slow and gradual recession such as we have witnessed in the last few months.

"The automobile industry has entered a new season with operating schedules which reflect high expectations on the part of manufacturers as to the probable volume of demand in coming months. In the cotton textile industry, reports are almost unanimously optimistic.

"The volume of distribution, as indicated by check payments and freight traffic, continues to exceed that of a year ago by a very comfortable margin. Bank debits to individual accounts in 140 centres, not including New York, in the first three weeks of August were 6 per cent. larger than in the similar period last year. Railway freight loadings in the first two weeks of August continued well above the million-car mark, and exceeded last year's corresponding total by 76,352 cars.

"In foreign trade, the principal feature of last month's operations was the reappearance of a substantial export balance. Both exports and imports were considerably larger than a year ago. Another fairly large inflow of gold was recorded last month. The inflow of the metal since the beginning of this year has been nearly constant, April and May being the only months in which shipments exceeded receipts."

CAR INSTALLATIONS DROP.

Railroads Report Decrease of 27,611 for Seven Months' Period.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Class 1 railroads installed 12,676 freight cars in July, bringing to 66,258 the total installed during the first seven months this year, according to reports by the railroads to the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association made public today.

The cars installed during the month of July included 3,973 box cars, 6,170 coal cars and 1,822 refrigerator cars.

The total for the first seven months of 1926 was a decrease of 27,611 cars compared with the corresponding period last year and 22,542 cars below the number installed during the same period in 1924.

Class 1 railroads, on Aug. 1 had 39,102 cars on order compared with 26,813 cars last year and 52,375 cars in 1924.

Reports also showed 171 locomotives installed during the month of July, which brought the total during the first seven months this year to 1,288, compared with a total of 1,066 during the first seven months last year and 1,268 during the same period in 1924.

Locomotives on order on Aug. 1 numbered 517 compared with 250 last year and 401 in 1924. These figures as to freight cars and locomotives include new and leased equipment.

LABOR MAKING SURVEY OF COMPANY UNIONS

Federation Seeks to Learn How Far Its 'Major Menace' Has Gone, Green Says.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Aug. 29.—The American Federation of Labor is nearing completion of a survey of so-called company unions, President William Green said today in a pre-Labor Day inventory of problems and objectives facing organized labor.

"The company union is a new form of attack," said Mr. Green. "We regard it as most subtle and insidious. It represents the strategy of employers who are foregoing open opposition to the labor movement and who attempt to satisfy the instinct for organization among workers by setting up bodies of this character over which they retain the actual authority. The survey we are making is to determine what volume this activity has attained. It is a major menace.

Mr. Green named as other menaces the "unrelenting opposition to trade unions of certain groups of employers' and manufacturers' associations," and such Communist activities as were still functioning. He described the Communist threat as more potential than actual.

Mr. Green said he felt labor had gained ground during the last year, the number and calibre of converts being highly satisfactory. As illustrations, he cited the "Baltimore and Ohio plan," a program of cooperation the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad had worked out with its employees, and a similar plan adopted by the Canadian National Railway System in the Dominion here. He said these developments indicated an increasing feeling among progressive employers that dealing collectively with workers was something they could better afford to capitalize than to obstruct.

President Green estimated that there were 20,000,000 workers within the A. F. of L. field. Of these, he said, 5,000,000 were organized and 15,000,000 unorganized.

"The extension of our organization," he added, "must ever be one of our outstanding objectives, so long as those millions remain outside."

Mr. Green announced that the Federation would continue to follow a strictly non-partisan political program during the coming year. He said the Federation would redouble its efforts to obtain legislation for trial by jury in all contempt cases, and modifying the present rigor of rulings on conspiracy as affecting unions during strikes.

Army Drops Brass for Bronze.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The War Department has decided that in any future major campaigns bronze will replace brass, gold, gilt or gildine where now used in military buttons, insignia and ornaments of general use. Considerations which led to this decision were the lower visibility of bronze, its easy procurement and economy of cost.

LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

Top Hogs Higher Than Week Ago—Good Prices for Fancy Heifers.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—A striking feature in the hog market at Chicago was the widening of the spread between the common packing and the best light to $5.75, which is the greatest on record under normal conditions. Top hogs are around $1 higher than a week ago, and packing hogs are 15 cents lower, to about the same as the close of the previous week. Packing hogs ranged from $8.50 to $9.75 and the best lights were up to $14.35. The week's average of $11.50 was off 15 cents from the previous week and 40 cents from last year.

The beef cattle situation has prospects of being better, and supplies of finished steers are said to have been greatly reduced. Yearlings advanced to $11, the highest in months, and heavy steers were $10.25 to $10.40. Average for the week of $9.65 was 45 cents better than the previous week and $2.15 under last year. Fancy heifers sold at $10.60, an unusually high price. Feeders and Western range cattle were up 25 cents, the latter selling at $6.50 to $8.50, with 7,000 received, or about half the number of last year.

Cuba Sugar Net $4,150,868.

Net income of the Cuba Company and subsidiary and affiliated companies for the year ended June 30 totaled $4,136,694. Subsidies from the Cuban Government bring the total to $4,150,868. After dividends on preferred stocks of subsidiaries paid to others, the consolidated surplus before dividends on stocks of the Cuba Company was $3,255,156.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE RATES

Sterling exchange moved slowly downward during most of last week, but a steadier tone was apparent in Saturday's brief trading. The rate at the close of the week was half a cent lower than at the end of the previous week, the downward trend being the result chiefly of commodity purchases and the continuation of British buying of American coal necessitated by the coal strike abroad. Sterling usually moves downward at this time of year and the present decline is regarded as seasonal.

The foreign exchange market in general was very quiet all week and movements were narrow. There were comparatively small transactions in the French franc and the rate held about steady, showing an advance of a few points on the week. Belgian and Italian currencies also were little changed. The Spanish peseta continued to move somewhat nervously for no apparent reason, and its trend was downward. The Scandinavian and Swiss exchanges ranged slightly lower for the week.

One of the important developments of the week was the removal of the "peg" which had held the German reichsmark virtually stationary since its establishment under the Dawes plan. The restoration of free exchange trading followed the withdrawal of $20,000,000 of ear-marked gold from the Federal Reserve Bank of New York by the German Reichsbank. While trading increased somewhat after the termination of the stabilization period, there was very little variation in the rate. The reichsmark had been motionless at 23.81 cents for close to two years. Last week it moved up to a new high of 23.84 cents, but reacted to 23.82, which was the final quotation of the week.

The Japanese yen was traded in fairly actively at a lower range of rates and at the close of the week showed a reaction of about ⅝ of a cent from its recent high point. The silver currencies were uniformly strong.

TRADE IN WEST IS ABOVE NORMAL

STEEL MOVEMENT BETTER

Improvement in Tin Plate Industry —Reduced Prices Spur Dry Goods Trade.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—The outstanding feature of the trade situation is the steadiness with which consumers and distributers are taking supplies in all lines, with the volume above the average for the season. There has been no really dull spell in July and August, and indications point to a brightening up in business generally from now on.

The steel industry, although operating at around 10 per cent. to 12 per cent. less than the high mark of the season, is working above the average, with largest tonnage placed and produced in the last three months that has been known for that period. For the present, sheets, which recently were an unfavored feature of the finished steel situation, have come to the front with large placement of orders and heavy production.

Soft steel bars and structural material have also come in for more attention, the latter being taken largely by implement and automobile makers. Inquiries for steel rails have increased slightly, with orders in sight for 13,000 tons and more expected. The only important car orders in sight are for 2,000 refrigerators and 500 steel underframes.

The tin plate industry is picking up and new mills are being started in the Indiana Harbor district. Specifications and purchases of track fasteners have increased. The pig iron output has been decreased in the West, but the market remains firm, at $21. Consumption of iron ore is in excess of last year and stocks of ore at furnaces have been reduced. The coal and lumber industry presents signs of betterment, with stronger prices on a few lines.

Wholesalers of dry goods have reduced prices on a number of lines of cotton goods, and by so doing increased sales, while the general wholesale trade also showed a volume about the same as last year. One of the best features in the general trade situation is the increased buying of Christmas toys and gift novelties, which has started earlier in the season. Conditions in the retail and mail order trade are satisfactory, with a greater distribution than last year.

A firmer tone has developed in the money market, with an enlarged call for loans from different interests. The grain interests are using a large amount of money owing to the steadily increasing supplies of wheat and oats. Preparation for the monthly settlements is reflected in the increase of over $14,000,000 in loans at the Seventh Federal Reserve Bank. At the same time deposits increased nearly $6,000,000 and the ratio of reserve was lowered from 75.7 the previous week to 74.1 the past week. Commercial paper was 4¼ to 4½, an advance of ¼ of 1 per cent., and counter loans were unchanged at 4½ to 5½ per cent.

OTHER POWERS BACK OUR NOTE TO CHINA

Japan, France and Britain Also Oppose Loan, but Peking Plans to Push It Through.

REGIME DEFIES BELGIUM

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, Aug. 29.—The British, French and Japanese Legations individually have lodged protests with the Foreign Ministry against the proposed domestic loan of 25,000,000 silver dollars ($12,500,000), thus supporting the protest of the United States.

The Cabinet has considered the American protest, but has not yet replied. It spent much time yesterday dealing with the regulations for the loan, which it proposes to attempt to put through whether Sir Francis Aglen, Inspector General of Maritime Customs, agrees or not.

In case Sir Francis refuses to agree, which is regarded as more than likely, it is not thought that any effort will be made to go contrary to his ruling, and so the loan would take the form of Treasury bonds.

Certain Chinese officials wish to ignore the foreign protests on the ground that the foreign loans will not be affected and that the Government is entitled to find money somehow on which to live.

Further Chinese official pressure is now being exerted to cause the expulsion of M. Karakhan, the Soviet Ambassador. The Foreign Office has informed Moscow that his passports are ready and that if he is not withdrawn they will be handed him soon.

Karakhan for sometime has been contemplating returning to Russia to act in the place of M. Tchitcherin, the Soviet Foreign Minister, who is absent on sick leave. In any case he is likely to leave soon.

The Belgian community in China is excited by what it regards as the intention of the Peking régime to deprive Belgians of extraterritorial privileges by refusing to renew the Treaty of 1865, except on terms laid down by itself.

In denying Belgium's claims to the sole right to denounce the treaty, and in asserting that the treaty is incompatible with China's present day status, Peking hopes to obtain the support of the entire country.

Europeans consider that it is plainly playing to the radical galleries when its publicists asserts that in future treaties will be revised on China's own terms and that an example will be made in the case of Belgium.

Although Belgium threatens to take the case to The Hague, Peking remains obdurate, but that does not worry the Chinese, for they declare that they intend to take a leaf out of Turkey's book whenever it suits them to do so.

Canton Pickets Seize British Launch —Gunboat Intervenes.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HONGKONG, Aug. 29.—Canton is joyfully celebrating the victories of its Northern Expeditionary Army in Central China, and there is a general recrudescence of outrages against foreigners. Several launches have been fired upon, the foreign occupants narrowly escaping.

In some cases the fire was returned.

A British gunboat rescued a British launch which Cantonese pickets had captured.

PLANTATION RUBBER FIRMER AT LONDON

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Plantation grades of rubber opened steady, but closed with a firmer tone last week. Smoked sheet spot sold from 1s 7⅛d to 1s 7⅝d and buyers; September from 1s 7⅜d to 1s 7¾d and buyers; October from 1s 7¾d to 1s 8d and buyers; October-December from 1s 8d to 1s 8¼d and sellers; January-March from 1s 8¼d to 1s 8⅜d and sellers; April-June at 1s 9d and buyers.

Para grades were unchanged. Hard fine spot was quoted at 1s 7⅛d, soft at 1s 5½d and ball at 1s.

The Eastern tin market reported 225 tons sold at £295 10s and £296 c. i. f. The opening here was rather firmer with little offering of early metal. The market closed steady with cash and three months about 5s higher.

Sales were 500 tons cash Saturday at £293 5s; September £293 5s to £293 10s; October £291 5s; November £289 10s to £291 10s, and three months £289 5s to £289 10s to £289. The settlement price was £293 5s. Option of £8 was paid for the call and £16 for put and call. English closed firm at £292 10s and Straits sold at £300 10s. Lead was in keen demand. Values closed 13s 9d higher for near dates and 11s 3d higher for forward. Sales were 1,100 tons of August at £32 12d 6d to £32 17s 6d; September £32 3s 9d to £32 12s 6d; October £32 5s to £32 7s 6d and December £32 5s to £32 7s 6d to £32 6s 3d. Settlement price was £32 17s 6d. English advanced 10s to £34 5s.

International Match Corporation

Notice of Special Meeting of Stockholders

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a special meeting of the stockholders of INTERNATIONAL MATCH CORPORATION will be held at the principal office of the Corporation, No. 7 West Tenth Street, Wilmington, Delaware, at 12 o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, on the 15th day of September, 1926, for the purpose of considering and acting upon a resolution or resolutions authorizing the amendment of the Certificate of incorporation of said Corporation (as amended by Certificates of Amendment of its Certificate of Incorporation filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware on November 2, 1923 and December 16, 1924, respectively);

Fourth: The total authorized capital stock of this Corporation is 2,350,000 shares, of which 900,000 shares are Participating Preference Stock of the par value of $25 each, and 1,450,000 shares are common stock without nominal or par value.

Fourth: The total authorized capital stock of this Corporation is 2,800,000 shares, of which 1,350,000 shares are Participating Preference Stock of the par value of $25 each, and 1,450,000 shares are common stock without nominal or par value.

Second: By striking out the sixth paragraph of said Article Fourth, which now reads as follows:

All or any part of the 900,000 shares of Participating Preference Stock hereby authorized may be issued from time to time as may be determined by the Board of Directors of the Corporation, or by the vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of common stock. Except as herein otherwise expressly provided, the Corporation shall not at any time authorize or create any mortgage debt, funded debt, or any class of stock having any rights prior to or equal with the Participating Preference Stock, and shall not increase the amount of the Participating Preference Stock beyond the 900,000 shares hereby authorized. Any such mortgage debt, funded debt, or class of stock having rights prior to or equal with the Participating Preference Stock may be authorized and created, and the amount of the Participating Preference Stock may be increased beyond the 900,000 shares hereby authorized, by the vote of a majority of the Board of Directors of the Corporation and by the vote of the holders of such proportion of the outstanding common stock of the Corporation as may be required by law, at a meeting of the stockholders held upon notice of such meeting given in the manner provided by law or in the by-laws of the Corporation, stating the time, place and purpose thereof, unless at such meeting the holders of twenty-five per cent. or more of the outstanding Participating Preference Stock shall vote against the authorization and creation of such mortgage debt, funded debt, or class of stock, or against such increase of the Participating Preference Stock. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the Corporation from borrowing money in the ordinary course of business or from pledging its bills and accounts receivable and other quick assets as security for the repayment of any moneys so borrowed. None of the provisions herein contained with reference to the Participating Preference Stock or to the rights of the holders thereof shall be altered, amended or changed unless at a meeting of the stockholders of the Corporation called for the purpose and held upon thirty days' notice of such meeting given in the manner provided by law or in the by-laws of the Corporation, stating the time, place and purpose thereof, such alteration, amendment or change shall be authorized by the vote of the holders of such proportion of the outstanding common stock of the Corporation as may be required by law and by the vote of the holders of two-thirds of the outstanding Participating Preference Stock. Notwithstanding the foregoing, neither the rate of the dividends on the Participating Preference Stock nor the participating rights of said stock, nor the amount payable thereon in the event of the liquidation, dissolution or winding up of the Corporation, shall in any event be reduced, and for the purpose of transacting such other business as may come before the meeting.

By Order of the Board of Directors.
B. TOMLINSON, Assistant Secretary.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 15, 1926.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a special meeting of the stockholders of The Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway Company has been called by the Board of Directors to be held at the principal office of the Company, Room 210, Big Four Building, 230 East Ninth Street, in the City of Cincinnati, Ohio, on Monday, the 27th day of September, 1926, at 12 o'clock noon, Central Standard Time, for the purpose of authorizing, approving and consenting to the following:

(1) Leases proposed to be taken by the Company of the lines of railroad, rights, interests, powers, privileges, immunities and appurtenant franchises of (a) The Cincinnati Northern Railroad Company, and (b) Evansville, Indianapolis & Terre Haute Railway Company; including all the leasehold and other right, title and interest which those companies, respectively, have or may hereafter acquire in and to, and to the use of, the properties and franchises of railroad, bridge, terminal and other companies;

(2) A lease proposed to be made by the Company, as lessor to The New York Central Railroad Company, as lessee, of the lines of railroad, rights, interests, privileges, immunities and appurtenant franchises and other properties of the Company, including all the leasehold and other rights, title and interest which the lessor company has or may hereafter acquire in and to, and to the use of, the properties and franchises of railroad, bridge and terminal companies, including the following: The Cincinnati Northern Railroad Company, Evansville, Indianapolis & Terre Haute Railway Company, Central Railroad Company of Indianapolis, The Cincinnati, Lafayette and Chicago Railroad Company, The Cincinnati, Sandusky and Cleveland Railroad Company, The Columbus, Hope and Greensburg Railroad Company, The Evansville, Mt. Carmel and Northern Railway Company and Vernon, Greensburg and Rushville Railroad Company; and by which lease there shall be transferred to the lessee company the railroads and properties of The Peoria and Eastern Railway Company and Kankakee and Seneca Railroad Company for operation by the lessee company in conformity with the lessor company's contracts relating thereto;

each of such leases to be for a term of ninety-nine (99) years (except as to properties the lessor's leasehold or other tenure of which shall terminate prior to the expiration of such period, as to which properties the term of the lease shall be for the duration of the lessor's tenure thereof, respectively);

All or any part of the 1,350,000 shares of Participating Preference Stock hereby authorized may be issued from time to time as may be determined by the Board of Directors of the Corporation, or by the vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of common stock. Except as herein otherwise expressly provided, the Corporation shall not at any time authorize or create any mortgage debt, funded debt, or any class of stock having any rights prior to or equal with the Participating Preference Stock, and shall not increase the amount of the Participating Preference Stock beyond the 1,350,000 shares hereby authorized. Any such mortgage debt, funded debt, or class of stock having rights prior to or equal with the Participating Preference Stock may be authorized and created, and the amount of the Participating Preference Stock may be increased beyond the 1,350,000 shares hereby authorized, by the vote of a majority of the Board of Directors of the Corporation and by the vote of the holders of such proportion of the outstanding common stock of the Corporation as may be required by law, at a meeting of the stockholders held upon notice of such meeting given in the manner provided by law or in the by-laws of the Corporation, stating the time, place and purpose thereof, unless at such meeting the holders of twenty-five per cent. or more of the outstanding Participating Preference Stock shall vote against the authorization and creation of such mortgage debt, funded debt, or class of stock, or against such increase of the Participating Preference Stock. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the Corporation from borrowing money in the ordinary course of business or from pledging its bills and accounts receivable and other quick assets as security for the repayment of any moneys so borrowed. None of the provisions herein contained with reference to the rights of the Preference Stock or to the rights of the holders thereof shall be altered, amended or changed unless at a meeting of the stockholders of the Corporation called for the purpose and held upon thirty days' notice of such meeting given in the manner provided by law or in the by-laws of the Corporation, stating the time, place and purpose thereof, such alteration, amendment or change shall be authorized by the vote of the holders of such proportion of the outstanding common stock of the Corporation as may be required by law and by the vote of the holders of two-thirds of the outstanding Preference Stock. Notwithstanding the foregoing, neither the rate of the dividends on the Preference Stock nor the participating rights of said stock, nor the amount payable thereon in the event of the liquidation, dissolution or winding up of the Corporation, shall in any event be reduced, and for the purpose of transacting such other business as may come before the meeting.

BUILDING COST CUTS VIA SUBSTITUTES

IMITATION LUMBER HERE

A Yard Foreman's Expedient Turns Out to Be an Innovation In Building Commodity.

Basic building material manufacturers and supply dealers are becoming impressed with the variety of substitute materials that are being brought into the market by interests backed in most cases by extensive financing, writes Allen E. Beals in the current Dow Service Daily Building Reports.

Grasses from the swamp lands and seas, slate from huge piles that have in the past represented pure wastage in roof material production, brick bats and over-burned brick at the clay products manufacturing plants that have been destined apparently for land-filling purposes today blossom out in the facades of most artistic buildings. The lowly ash from the boiler room grate has already risen high as a building commodity for fireproofing, but it is destined to even higher spheres of building construction utility not only as an imitation stone work but more recently as an imitation lumber.

Excelsior, symbolic of fire danger, now comes forth as a fire resisting product for use in homes that are supposed not to burn and so on down a long list of grotesquely spelled trade names; all with the idea of cutting down the cost of building and at the same time giving the owner of the building of the immediate future a structure supposedly more enduring and safer against fire than he has heretofore been able to build for the same money.

A yard foreman in a barrel storage warehouse had occasion to give special fire protection to some empty barrels and, taking some ordinary rods, some cement and cinder ashes out of the company boiler pit, he made some board-like slabs and nailed them and bolted them as he would have done with lumber of equal size and thickness around the barrels. One of the officials of the company, showing an architect through the plant, was impressed by the building expert's surprise at the material used in the structure and had the fabric tested by Columbia University where it withstood a heat of 1,728 degrees and a cold water drench while still hot which, incidentally, won the approval of the New York City building departments, the National Board of Fire Underwriters and other authorities.

Now a company is being formed to put this lumber substitute on the market on a mass production basis, although a number of small houses in New Jersey have been built with it.

At the same time there is developing in building practice throughout the country, but especially in and around New York City, the vogue of insulating buildings against heat and cold, under the assumption, perhaps, that if prospective owners of buildings will insist upon cutting costs by using substitute materials, they can still keep warm or cool, as the case might be, by the use of inexpensive insulating material, usually made up of waste products of one material or another, if not of asbestos or cork.

The extent to which this building insulation business has grown within the period of the post-war building boom is shown by the fact that about 50,000,000 feet of this kind of material is now used annually within a range of twenty-five miles of New York City, aggregating an expenditure of $3,000,000 a year, a figure that gives, by inference, at least, a fair idea of the extent to which these new laboratory or field-tested building materials are creeping into the construction business to offset rising costs and at the same time to make habitations more comfortable to live in, to safeguard stocks in storage or cut down heating expense.

But an equally aggressive campaign is being developed by basic building material manufacturers and distributors to bar the so-called synthetic building materials from further encroachment upon the basic commodities, on the ground that only with basic building materials can permanency and low maintenance costs be obtained.

Steel, for example, is well known as the symbol of strength, permanence and security in general, yet a real need has arisen, the steel men say, for impressing upon the prospective builder the strength of steel. Even on skyscrapers in course of erection, signs are being placed emphasizing this well-known characteristic of steel, because the aggressiveness of cement and concrete interests have driven the idea into the mind of the specifier and the buyer of building materials that "concrete is for permanence" so persistently for so long a time that in self-defense the steel signs are going up.

So the battle lines are forming for the New Competition," flanked by a growing trade in the Eastern seaboard markets with European-made materials, while the prospective builder is quietly sitting before his barometer and noting the drop in the price pressure.

20,000 AT JEWISH BENEFIT.

Coney Island Reserves Called to Calm Thousands Unable to Get In.

A joint benefit by the Jewish Writers Club, the Hebrew Actors' Club and the Cantors Association to raise funds for elderly members in need, was conducted at the Coney Island Stadium last night before 20,000 persons. Maurice Schwartz, Jacon Ben-Ami, Zena Goldstein and Lucy Finkel were among those on the program.

Fully 20,000 more were unable to get in because of lack of seats and it was necessary to call out police reserves to maintain order among them. Some who had bought tickets arrived to find others already in their seats, causing some disorder within the stadium.

Strong Vogue for Ostrich.

The strong fashion sponsorship being given ostrich trimmings and accessories by the leading Parisian couturiers is reflected in a cablegram received by a local importing house. "Many thousands of ostrich feather boas," the cable says, "are seen in Paris, Deauville, Parisplage, Biarritz and all fashionable places. Over eighty models trimmed with ostrich were seen at the openings of Jenny, Vionnet, Callot, Poiret, Patou, Chanel, Premet, Lelong, Drecoll, Martial et Armand and others of the haute couture. The models of Patou have achieved the biggest success. In a speech at the Fashion Gala in Parisplage Poiret said: 'I believe that feathers are a medium of decoration which will be found on all dresses beginning with this Winter and lasting through many years. Feathers have been abandoned. They must return to favor, and that moment has now come.'"

PUGILIST IS SHOT DEAD IN CROWDED STREET

Assailant Creeps Up on Youth as He Drinks at Soda Fountain —Fight Manager Arrested.

Shot through the right temple by an unidentified assailant while standing at an open air soda fountain at the intersection of two crowded thoroughfares, Clinton and Rivington Streets, last night, Mandel Herzog, 19 years old, an amateur welterweight pugilist of 164 Stanton Street, was taken to Gouverneur Hospital, where he died a few hours later.

Samuel Seeman of 114 Suffolk Street, the fighter's manager, was arrested after Herzog died on a charge of homicide.

Witnesses told the police that two men approached the youth while he was drinking soda water with his back to the street. One of the men stepped up beside him, drew a pistol and fired without a word of warning. As Herzog fell, the two men ran north on Clinton Street.

Herzog fought under the name of Joe Elkie and had recently applied for a permit to fight as a professional.

Soviet to Control Opium Trade.

MOSCOW, Aug. 29 (AP).—The Soviet Government has appointed a special commission to formulate laws and regulations dealing with opium. The measures are to invest the State with complete control of the manufacture, import and distribution of opium and its derivatives.

GARMENT BUSINESS GOOD.

Even the Rainy Weather Has Not Been Able to Retard It.

The rain and exceptionally bad weather conditions of the last two weeks have had no deleterious effect on the wholesale garment business, according to M. Mosessohn, Executive Chairman of the United Women's Wear League of America. He said yesterday that the bad weather at this time of year is negligible, but that if it extended through September the whole industry would feel ill effects and business be retarded.

"At this time there are so many out-of-town buyers in the market," he continued, "and the need for merchandise is so general among retailers that the protracted rains make no difference, although they have inconvenienced the buyers somewhat in getting to the showrooms.

"Among the manufacturers of children's and junior wear the approach of school time is offering a big incentive to volume business. Buyers are pressing for quick delivery and all plants are running at full capacity to take care of the orders already placed and those being booked every day. In these lines the demand for jersey dresses, in particular, is especially strong, and for the next three or four weeks it will be difficult for manufacturers to keep pace with the demand.

"Underwear manufacturers and makers of negligees are getting the first call for holiday goods now. As this demand is overlapping the buying of merchandise that must be delivered as quickly as possible in order to replenish stocks lowered during the Summer, manufacturers are straining their plants and their working forces in order to take care of their customers. In many cases they are obliged to ask for from six to eight weeks for delivery.

"Neckwear, blouses, belts and other items in manufacturers' output are all moving well as a result of a season that has started off in a more auspicious manner than for some years previous. This is because the active buying that began about three weeks ago represents a healthy expansion following a period of great caution, and no weather or other incidental conditions have any effect or serve as an excuse for poor business."

Australian Road Improvement.

The Federal Roads bill has passed both the Senate and the House of Representatives in Australia, but only Queensland, Western Australia, Tasmania and the Federal Territory are participating, according to cable advices from Trade Commissioner E. G. Babbitt, Sydney, received Aug. 12. The bill provides for a gasoline tax, levied in the form of customs duty on importation of gasoline, the yield to be used for building roads in the different States. Allotments will be made on the basis of population and area, and each State is to raise and spend on road construction an amount equivalent to that allotted to it by the Federal Government.

Girl Shoots Herself in Bathroom.

While her mother, father and nine brothers and sisters sat about enjoying a day of leisure in their apartment at 77 Oliver Street yesterday, Josephine Matzio, 19 years old, locked herself in a bathroom and tried to commit suicide by shooting herself. Breaking down the door members of the family found her lying on the floor with three wounds. She was taken to the Beekman Street Hospital in a serious condition. She refused to give a motive for her act.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Albee Theatre Building.

SALESMEN,

SALES MANAGERS.

We are opening a new section of highly developed and advertised property.

The papers for the next month will be filled with Staten Island news, as new bridges are to be started and the Governors of New York and New Jersey will attend the ceremonies in September.

Public attention will be focused on Richmond Borough, the best place to invest for profit.

Our property is located on wide boulevards and waterfront surrounded by houses, stores, churches and schools.

STATEN ISLAND ESTATES, INC.,
NEW YORK CITY.

SALESMEN.

The largest, oldest and best rated service organization in America requires the services of two exceptionally high-grade salesmen.

They must be over 28 and under 40, accustomed to selling the intangible, and by that we mean books, securities, advertising, service or an idea, to executives the first time they demonstrate.

Also, they have sufficient confidence in their ability, based on past experience, to prefer a straight commission remuneration; understand, we interview only real, experienced salesmen.

If, after a full interview and demonstration, we feel you can sell our service, which enables executives to solve their human element problems, lower operating costs, cut down overhead and increase net profits, we will give you our training, personal field demonstration, monthly cash and stock bonus and a real opportunity backed by a contract.

If qualified telephone Mr. Baker at Circle 6165, or address W 131 Times, fully stating qualifications.

SALESMEN SELLING DIRECT TO CONSUMER

If you want to sell a popular priced line of all wool made-to-measure suits and overcoats, with the largest number of patterns and styles, paying you the biggest commissions, where each sale is backed by a certificate of a forty-four million dollar corporation, guaranteeing your customer complete satisfaction or the return of his money, and where you will have a permanent connection due to repeat business and recommendations, it will pay you to look into our proposition.

INFANT DEATH RATE REACHES HIGH MARK

Nation Compares Unfavorably With Many Others, Children's Bureau Survey Shows.

SAME IS TRUE OF MOTHERS

100,000 Babies Less Than Month Old and 20,000 Mothers Die Annually in This Country.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—About 100,000 infants under one month of age die in the United States every year, according to a report of the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor, prepared by Dr. Robert Morse Woodbury. He adds that maternal mortality rates in this country are among the highest in the world and that the annual ratios since 1900 have risen.

Through this report, just made public, the Children's Bureau is putting forward a national program to decrease maternal mortality.

The report assembles and analyzes American and foreign data on deaths of mothers in child-birth, and shows the need for organized counteracting efforts.

"A very considerable proportion of all deaths of infants under one year of age occur during the first month of life, from causes which have their origin in the care and condition of mothers during pregnancy and confinement," says the report.

Dr. Woodbury estimates the total annual number of maternal deaths in the United States to be 18,281 on the basis of 1921 birth registration area statistics.

However, a survey of sources of error in certifications of death throughout the area leads him to the conclusion that the true number of maternal deaths is probably as much as 12 per cent. in excess of those reported, making an estimated yearly death toll of more than 20,000 women. The maternal mortality rate in 1921 was 6.8 per 1,000 live births. The provisional 1924 rate was 6.6.

Figures showing the trend of maternal mortality over a twenty-two-year period in the United States, if accepted at their face value, would show an increase in the maternal death rate from 13.3 per 100,000 population in 1900 to 16.9 in 1921, according to the report.

Comparison of the United States rates with those of other countries shows that the United States ranks among those having the highest rates, such as New Zealand and Chile. Among the countries having rates less than half that of the United States are Denmark, Finland, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, Norway, Sweden and Uruguay.

Cities showed a higher maternal mortality rate than rural districts in the United States, according to the 1921 figures, but to some extent this difference was accounted for by the fact that many of the more difficult or complicated cases were brought from rural regions into cities to secure the better medical and hospital facilities there.

BALDWIN 'ROSE' IN INFANCY.

Premier Tells of Being Carried to Attic to Insure Going Up in Life.

LONDON, Aug. 29 (AP).—In a speech on his fifty-ninth birthday Premier Stanley Baldwin described a quaint, old fashioned ceremony which was observed just after his birth.

"On the day I was born," said Mr. Baldwin, "our cook wrapped me in a blanket, and, to insure I should rise in life, she carried me up the stairs to the top of the house, and there stood on a chair in the attic and held me up in the air as high as she could."

Dawes Lauds Citizen Soldier Camps.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (AP).—"That's the right idea. Let us have more of it," was Vice President Dawes's comment yesterday as 2,000 members of the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Fort Sheridan passed in review before him. With Mr. Dawes in the reviewing stand were Major Gen. S. Graves, commanding General of the Sixth Corps Area, Corps Commander Lenihan and other ranking officers. Fifty medals for special achievements were conferred by Vice President Dawes.

AMERICAN COLLEGE PLANNED IN ATHENS

ATHENIANS SEEKING FUNDS

Professor Edward Capps of the Greek Department at Princeton University, who was United States Minister to Greece during the Wilson Administration, is now at the request of a group of Athenians organizing a board of trustees for a non-sectarian, non-political American college to be established in Greece, modeled after Robert College in Constantinople. Application for a charter for the institution, which will be known as Athens College, is soon to be made to the Board of Regents of the State of New York.

A committee of prominent Athenians is endeavoring to raise $500,000 for the college buildings. A tract of twenty-three acres near Athens on the road to Kyfissia has been donated as the site of the college, and $100,000 has been raised for the buildings. Stuart Thompson, the architect who designed the Gennadios Library at Athens, has been retained to design the buildings.

Professor Capps has requested the following men to serve on the board of trustees: Elihu Root, Dwight S. Morrow, Henry S. Pritchett, John H. Finley, Stephen S. Duggan, Ery Kehaya and Charles P. Howland.

Steps have been taken to affiliate the college with the group of Near East Colleges having American headquarters at 18 East Forty-first Street, New York.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS SCARE

Special to The New York Times.

GLEN HEAD, L. I., Aug. 29.—The death early this morning of an eight-year-old boy from infantile paralysis and the appearance within five days of nine other cases within a radius of three miles have aroused among residents of the north shore fears of a repetition of the infantile paralysis epidemic of 1917. A conference of north shore physicians is planned for this week to fight the spread of the disease and to allay public fears.

John Andersen, son of William Andersen of Glenwood Landing, who was taken sick on Thursday, died this morning, the first fatality in the new outbreak. As in the case of several other children who have been taken ill with infantile paralysis, the Andersen boy had been drinking milk supplied from a source now under investigation. Dr. Joseph M. Connolly, health officer of Glen Cove, issued a warning today to parents against the use of milk which has not been pasteurized.

OVERLOOKING the Hudson, bounded by Washington, Carlisle and West Streets, stands the new building of the New York Evening Post, one of the most modern newspaper plants in the world. It is centrally located for rapid dissemination of the news, serving New York, Brooklyn and New Jersey with the greatest possible speed.

The Improved Evening Post—more news better features — now sells for 3¢ SATURDAY FIVE CENTS

FREED from the limitations of inadequate equipment, the Post abandons its artificial barrier of price, by which circulation was held within the bounds of press capacity.

With the new price of 3¢, Cyrus H. K. Curtis, publisher, announces changes and improvements, editorial as well as mechanical.

With another column added to the page, the Post will carry more news. Its news type is clear, better and easier to read.
